TULIPS FOR BOWLS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:

The single, early-flowering tulips are facile princeps for bowl-growing in the prepared fibre, and if not so urgent for immediate planting, our most satisfactory results have been from bowling them in September. Of the dainty little Duc Van Tholls, in colour and variety, we have already treated. Now we come to the much more imposing, but not more appreciated, kinds, taller, but we only select the dwarfest, rarely exceeding a foot in height. Of these, Pink Beauty is, to our thinking, the outstanding kind of this section; other lovely things are Artus, Couleur Cardinal, scarlet, Mon Tresorand and Yellow Prince; while for whites, we have White Swan and Lady Boreel, the latter the white form of that grand old variety, Joost Van Vondel. We further commend the scarlet-coloured Wouverman, and the showy old Keizer's Kroon, in scarlet and gold, is not to be ignored.

POULTRY, CAGE BIRDS, DAIRY.

THE SCRATCHING SHED.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:

Although we seem to have rain now summer and winter, yet those who have free range for their birds usually allow them to do their scratching in the fields during the months we call summer; but they must be confined during winter if we want eggs. Therefore, they should have a place to scratch in under shelter from wind and rain. This should now be got ready. If one has been in use it should be cleaned out of the old material, and new, dry litter put in. If there is no place of this kind, one should be constructed. A workable shed for use in bad weather could be contrived on most farms, which would only involve a few hours' labour in the making, and a small amount of material. Often on farmsteads there are existing buildings which can be turned to account.

THE METHODIST CHURCH.

"Toward a New Ireland" is the title of the report of the home missionary department of the Methodist Church for the year which ended on June 30th last. It is a handsome, well illustrated volume of one hundred and forty pages. Its contributors include the Revs. W. Johnstone Hunter, P. E. Donovan, W. W. Hutchinson, W. Jasper Robinson, and the general secretary of the department, the Rev. James M. Alley. Among the titles of the chapters we notice are: "Listening-In to Rural Methodism," "A Tale of Two Cities—and More," "Imperishable Seed," "Things Impossible," and "With the Northern Executive." In addition to other illustrations the volume contains striking portraits of Mr. William Treanor, of Roscrea, an active worker in the Church although he is in the 95th year of his age, the late Mr. J. T. Pasley, and the late Mr. Richard W. Booth.

Mr. V. Morcom Taylor, M.B., F.R.C.S., who has just been appointed Surgeon to Lurgan Hospital, is a son of the Rev. T. Morcom Taylor, of Coventry, a well-known minister of the Methodist Church in Great Britain.

The district synods of the Church all meet on Tuesday for their stated half-yearly meeting. The Sligo members of the Dublin and Sligo Synod met in Longford last Friday. In the evening a public meeting in the interests of home missions was held. Mr. W. Mills Forsyth (of Dublin) presided, and addresses were given by the Rev. J. E. Neill, B.A., chairman of the district, and Mr. J. Robertson Coade, treasurer of the Home Mission Fund.

CHURCH SERVICES.

ST. PATRICK'S CATHEDRAL.—Morning Service at 10 o'clock. Psalm, 35. Urbs Fortitudinis, 1. Jubilate, 2. Hymn, 552. Evening Service at 4 o'clock. Magnificat, Nunc Dimittis, Farrant in G minor. Anthem, "By the waters of Babylon," Allen, 100.

CHRIST CHURCH CATHEDRAL. — Morning Prayer at 10.45 o'clock. Benedictus. Hymn, 501. Evening Prayer at 3 o'clock. Magnificat. Anthem, "Holy Father, cheer our way," Kitson.

The Lure of Connemara.

GALWAY'S CHARM FOR THE TOURIST.

(FROM A SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

ALTHOUGH tourists have flocked to Connemara this year in increased numbers, the decline in American arrivals has been a very marked feature.

This westerly arm of Ireland, which beckons so invitingly across the Atlantic, rather prides itself on being the foremost attraction for Americans who cross the sea. I expected, therefore, that their absence would be a matter for regret. But no! "The English," I was told, to my surprise, "are more free with their money than the Americans, and as our hotels are all filled we have nothing to complain of."

Added consolation is derived from the reflection that the percentage by which the port of Galway's share of American visitors has been reduced is less than Cobh's. That is regarded as an important consideration, for it shows that the district has not waned in popularity, and that with a return of prosperity to the United States her citizens will be coming over again in full strength.

I wandered down to the old Church of St. Nicholas—one of Galway's chief antiquities—to discuss the matter with the sexton. "I suppose you show a lot of Americans round?" I suggested.

He smiled, in that slow ruminative way which always heralds an epigrammatic reply. "Well," he said, "a lot of Americans come here and show me round. They tell me a lot of things about this church that I never knew.

"They all tell me, for instance, that Columbus prayed here in 1491. We have no records of it, but, of course, I don't argue with them. Then, when they come to this tablet"—he indicated the last resting place of one John Pope, who died in 1666—"they tell me that he was the descendant of one of Columbus's sailors. Some even go further, and say that he sailed with Columbus himself. As Columbus went to America in 1492, that would make this man a very ancient mariner, indeed."

ENGLISH MOTORISTS.

Motorists from England make up the majority of Connemara's visitors this year; in fact it is doubtful if the roads in the district have had so much wear and tear, despite the bad weather, in any previous year. Certainly, according to local officials, there has never been such a number of inquiries regarding routes.

It is estimated that the City of Galway alone has entertained something like forty thousand strangers since the holiday months began. While there are no statistics as to the number who arrived by road, figures show that, exclusive of week-end excursionists, trains brought over thirty thousand.

Liners from the United States have landed three thousand passengers at the port, the highest number for an individual ship being the 265 who came on the Baltic in July, just before the Croagh Patrick pilgrimage.

Not only is Galway City the gateway through which tourists enter Connemara, but in a great many cases it is used as the base from which they set out day by day to explore some fresh part of the country, and to which they return at night. To a great extent, therefore, the prosperity of Connemara hinges upon the efforts which Galway makes to please its guests.

SPIRIT OF ENTERPRISE.

For this reason I was particularly interested to discover that there is a new spirit of enterprise in Galway which is transforming the old-world city into a go-ahead place. Accommodation is being improved, additional amenities have been provided—there is even a scheme for establishing a greyhound racing track next summer.

Galway itself, of course, does not want any of the obtrusive side-shows of an ordinary holiday resort. Galway is a place to dream in; to loiter along grey old streets, to contemplate misty blue hills across a narrow belt of sea, or a gorgeous purple and gold sunset behind green hills. Even a band would jar.

But the seaside suburb at Salthill is another story, and there the Urban Council have recently provided a splendid swimming pool for women and children, as well as a large shelter, a bandstand, a dance pavilion and a new promenade. Salthill, incidentally, has an eighteen holes golf course, while the district is well supplied with tennis and boat clubs.

A GUIDE BOOK.

One thing that such a venerable city as Galway certainly should have is lacking, and that is a guide book of its own. Ten years ago, I am told, an excellent guide to the locality was produced by Father Travers, but copies of this are now exhausted. In Galway, almost every church has a history, and links with the old Spanish infusions lurk everywhere. Ancient crests, of Moorish and Celtic design, decorate obscure stone walls, but only the expert can interpret them, and, therefore, they remain unnoticed. What a chance for some local antiquarian to distinguish himself!

It is a striking circumstance that Ireland, with all the attractions it offers to overseas visitors, can boast of only one spa. Yet Galway, it seems, could, if only in a limited way, rectify this deficiency.

I have been shown a well, situated in the centre of the city, the water of which has been analysed by two doctors, who certify it to be rich in iron of considerable medicinal value. Said to be a thousand years old, this well, which, with its stone steps, reminds one in appearance of the old wells of the Holy Land, was discovered as the result of a special search, only a couple of years ago, under the premises of a mineral water manufacturer.

One remarkable feature of this well is that, however much it may be drawn upon, its level never falls, although there is no means of inlet other than pores in the rock! Mr. Young, the owner, told me that many residents and visitors who learn casually of its existence come regularly to "take the waters," and the priests at the Abbey draw themselves a canful every morning. Regular doses, I was assured, once cured a chronic tippler of his besetting vice within a week.

Galway, perhaps, has no ambition to become a haven of repentant dipsomaniacs, but does it not seem probable that many of the rich old gentlemen who now finance Bath and Leamington might be attracted by a rival spa at Galway?

FUNERAL OF MR. R. J. KELLY, K.C.

The funeral of the late Mr. Richard J. Kelly, K.C., took place on Saturday morning from his residence, Hy Many, Aldesbury road, Dublin, to the Church of the Sacred Heart, Donnybrook, and thence to Glasnevin Cemetery. Requiem Mass was celebrated in the church in the presence of a large congregation of mourners, although the funeral was private.

THE WOMAN'S PAGE.

SIMPLICITY AND SLIMNESS

"SUMPTOUSNESS" RELEGATED TO EVENINGS.

This dashing little "chapeau" reminds one of a Scotch cap. It has been carried out in dark blue chiffon-felt, and trimmed with two stiff "gros-grain motifs," which are inset.

"Capeline" in palest blue felt. The wide brim turns up on one side, and is adorned with a ribbon bow which passes through a slit, the continuation encircling the crown.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

IT seems to me that I have virtually lived in the theatres and salons of La Haute Couture during the last few weeks. Also, there have been refreshing halts at certain favourite restaurants; for nothing is more exhausting than shopping, and the inner woman needed sustenance! I have had to wrestle—alas!—with my natural greediness, and to choose between the pleasure of satisfying a healthy appetite and the danger of losing the slim figure that the Haute Couture bullyingly insists upon—yes, insists upon!

It really is the limit! There is no blinking the fact that fashions nowadays are NOT for the FAT. One must be slim, even if one starves for it.

Talking of slimness, this year Paris couturieres have done any number of things with La Ligue. We all have one, you know. Two, in fact; sometimes they use one, sometimes the other, but always it is the sideline that receives their particular and passionate attention. They are more concerned with it than with any other part of the gown, and they go to no end of romancing over a mode.

I will not speak of the gracious little ripples, the pretty little cascades that wander down the side of a skirt, or the slit-up skirts, with lacy under-panels, or the floating side-panels, or the slinky little twisted tails—we all know them. When the Paris couturiere talks of "that gracious line" that flows from under the arm to the hip, from the hip to the hem, you realise that she is talking of something too intricate for a mere mortal to understand.

Contrasts.

Simplicity reigns in the morning, and sumptuousness in the evening. Positively, you cannot be too simple in the morning or too sumptuous in the evening, and the youthful, almost boyish neatness and severity of little serge or marocain suits or coat frocks, finished off with spotless Eton collars, and of the most alluringly feminine draperies of shining silver tissue, and completing wraps which combine satin and metal tissue with feathers or fur, will surely help to give intriguing variety to their wearers.

For morning wear there are pert little plissée plaid skirts with plain coats and knowing little neckties, or jabot frills of pleated plaid to match the skirt. The dressmakers are putting white pique with navy blue skirts, and there are some little linsey-woolsey suits in brown, which are charming.

The tight skirts need not be uncomfortable, if you know where to have them slit or widened with an inset pleat or double drape. There are so many ways of looking slim and being comfortable at the same time that plump damsels need not go into a decline in order to be in the fashion.

Evening Models.

Paris loves print-chiffons for evening frocks, and Paris uses her favourite narrow frills in quite a new way, setting them in great circles, giving a pretty and novel effect.

This season, I note a rather new use of elaboration—hem-stitching, hand-run pleats, and pin-tucking. Lavish workmanship appears as a matter of fact, on many of the new evening gowns, and an evening frock seen in fine white net was entirely covered with cut-out flowers—poppies and cornflowers appliqued. Another pale pink cotton-net gown is made to look like a patterned material by the addition of appliqued pink velvet flowers.

Fichus play a leading rôle with evening dresses. One seen in gold beading trellis-work, bordered with box-pleating of black net was original, and a fichu of red velvet tied on one shoulder topping a red chiffon gown, was absolutely "It."

The New Sophistication.

An apparent return to the age of innocence is part of the new femininity, but when the new femininity begins showing its head in the form of the tailored town-suits, sophistication is its motto—the kind of sophistication that takes everything very, very plain; the kind that refuses Sauce Hollandaise, and takes melted butter on the artichokes.

Anyhow, a lot of very thin, fine smooth woollens makes town suits. And we may expect to see the blue serge of our youth revived any day, perhaps this autumn. There are, however, some suits (just as tailored as can be), in heavy crêpe-de-Chine, Canton crêpe, and even in taffetas.

Blouses.

The blouses that accompany suits are almost the nicest things to be seen. Some of them are in crêpe-de-Chine or crêpe-satin, or washing silk, with most luscious front draperies—one hardly knows whether to call them a detached plastron or a jabot, or a joined rever.

Others become free and gamesome, with little "Claudine" collars, round baby collars, or no collars at all.

Dotted Swiss and glossy dotted voile are commandeered for some of the prettiest of the blouses, and handkerchief linen, with baby pin-tucks all hand-stitched and embroidery—fine convent embroidery—which we thought had gone out of fashion.

Cocktail toilettes are a trifle bold. Plain or lightly-printed velvets, printed chiffon, and crepes of brilliant colours are used in these costumes with an eye to experimental effects.

Underwear.

The lengthening of skirts and their fullness have resurrected an article of clothing which had almost been forgotten. The petticoat has resumed its place among our undergarments.

It is no longer called a petticoat, however, for such a term would seem out of date and lacking in elegance: it has become a "dress-foundation."

Under this renamed garment is the knicker-combination, which may be complicated, if desired, by georgette, which completes, or replaces, the soutien-gorge.

A cameo shade foundaton is the correct thing to wear under a dark dress, and satin crepe, voile, or super-crepe is the proper fabric for knickers and chemise.

FROM ONE GIRL TO ANOTHER.

Economy in the Kitchen; New Use for Thermos Flasks.

DEAR AILEEN,—Thanks for sending me your jam and jelly recipes; they arrived most opportunely, as September is my busiest month in the jam larder.

The blackberry crop will be scanty this year, so don't forget to call on the apple trees to help on the quantities.

Blackberry and apple are an excellent jelly mixture, and in the case of doubtful jelly fruit there is now on the market an excellent syrup, the addition of which ensures success—jam-making failures and other indifferent cookery results can not be tolerated in the kitchen of 1931.

Avoiding Waste.

While men in all parts of the world are endeavouring to straighten out the most difficult of financial problems, housekeepers are finding their lot an equally difficult one. Reduced dividends and salary cuts must be balanced by corresponding economy in the menu, in spite of which the foodstuffs purchased must be of the best possible description in order to maintain the good health of the family and to get the last vitamin of food value at the most economical rate.

The secret of the reduction of housekeeping expenses lies not in the purchase of cheap foodstuffs, but in the rigid abolition of waste. If the kitchen is not under the personal supervision of the housekeeper it is difficult to check this fault. Even well-trained domestics are apt to lose all sense of proportion when dealing with ingredients for which they do not pay.

A Bonus for Economy.

One friend of mine, fully realising her own limitations, insists upon her cook attending a cooking class once a week—she says that the good results more than balance the fee.

I know a doctor who gives his secretary a percentage on all bills paid. I often wish that this scheme could be developed in the kitchen: surely a cash bonus for keeping expenses below a certain figure would be money well spent.

While chasing economy last week I got hold of an excellent tip, and here it is for you:—Out of any old ends of chintz make covers for all your thermos flasks. Have the covers long enough to pull up almost to the neck of the flask, and at one side sew a loop to hang the cover up by. Next drive as many picture hangers or hooks as you require just beside the gas or electric stove or kitchen range, and hang up the flasks (just the way they do French babies).

Hot Water Always Handy.

Now, whenever a kettle is boiled and the contents not all used up, empty what is left into one of the thermos flasks. Thus, with absolutely no expense, a little hot water is always on tap.

In the ordinary way this over supply would simply be pushed to one side and allowed to get cold, so that the next time it was required a fresh boiling would be necessary, with a consequent and utterly unnecessary use of fuel. This hint is particularly useful where early morning shaving water is required; the flasks can be left in the bathroom overnight.

These flasks are now so very cheap that a quart size can be bought for less than two shillings. Of course, all thermos flasks require gentle handling, but in this particular instance the use of the little looped cover trebles the life of the flask, since it lessens the risk of knocking it on to the floor. Flasks are usually top-heavy, so that it is when they are not in use that accidents are apt to occur.

Herrings are Worth While.

Quite recently theatre-goers in Dublin were assured by a popular song that "all the best things in life are free"—a consoling little thought during this "economy" chase of mine. Well, Dublin Bay herrings are not exactly free, but they are very reasonable in price, and no daintier dish could be served than properly-prepared baked herrings.

No cooking skill—only patience—is required, and they may be prepared and cooked overnight. Scale and clean the fish without washing; cut off heads and tails, and by slitting down the back with a sharp knife in a pyrex dish. Cover with roes, and add equal parts of vinegar and water. Add bay salt and pepper, roll and arrange side by side leaves, cloves or other flavouring, and bake for an hour. You can usually count a dozen fish sufficient for six people.

If you are in a hurry prepare the fish in exactly the same way, but, instead of rolling in the pyrex, sprinkle them with pepper, salt and oatmeal; grill, and serve with butter sauce.—Yours,

MARY.

There are Stews AND Stews.

Provence Points the Better Way.

IF you are tired of Irish stew try this Provencal variety. You will want—

Rump steak, two pounds (enough for six persons);
A calf's foot;
An orange;
Sliced carrots and onions;
Peeled tomatoes;
Parsley, pepper (black), salt and cloves;
Red wine (any sort);
A bouquet garnis.

The last-mentioned item is just a bundle of fresh garden herbs, but be sure that thyme dominates it, and try to introduce a sprig of rosemary.

The steak is divested of its fat, cut up into thick, smallish chunks, and well floured on a board.

Butter is lavishly placed on the bottom of a stew pan—if possible one of the heavy iron vessels with a lid that fits into a ridge, such as the French use for slow cooking—and in the butter several sliced onions are fried gently for a minute or two, not necessarily so that they are browned. Sliced carrots (perhaps half a dozen small ones) and a pound of peeled tomatoes are added to the onions and stirred to let the butter get at them.

Then the calf's foot is laid on the bed of vegetables, and last of all the steak, the orange (deeply peeled, seeded and quartered), pepper and salt, a few cloves, a couple of bay leaves and the bouquet garnis.

The meat should be well turned about before the wine, at the very end, is poured on to it. No water whatsoever must be used.

The stew should be cooked as slowly as possible in a steady oven or over the smallest gas jet, from which it is protected by an asbestos mat. Four hours of simmering will not be too long. In the process the steak should turn quite black and very tender, while the calf's foot unites with the wine to make the gravy.

Tomatoes Transformed.

Cut up, into thick slices, one pound of ripe tomatoes, and remove as many of the seeds as possible.

Line a pie-dish with short paste, then put in layers of tomatoes with a sprinkling of Demerara sugar, and a little grated lemon rind between each layer.

Pour over this some melted butter, then cover the pie with paste; brush it over with cold water, sprinkle with Demerara sugar, and bake in a moderate oven for half-an-hour.

A Refreshing Drink.

Mix one large cupful of grape-fruit juice and one large cupful of pineapple syrup, add quarter of a large cupful of sugar, boiled with one large cupful of water, then cooled. Chill, add one bottle of soda water, and serve in ice-cold glasses.

When thick cream won't mix in tea in warm weather put the cream in the bottom of the cup with the sugar and a spoonful of milk. Mix well, then pour the tea on top.

Many Methods with Marrows.

Cheap and Plentiful Vegetable.

MARROWS are cheap and plentiful this year—cheerful news for the housewife, for there is no end to the uses to which this versatile vegetable can be put. For the "one-way" cooks—and there are still a few of them in existence to-day—there is, of course, only one way of cooking a marrow, and that is as a vegetable, served with white sauce or melted butter; but to the housewife of initiative and imagination it presents endless possibilities.

Stuffed marrow (or mock goose, as it is sometimes called, because it is tied round like a trussed bird to keep its savoury stuffing in while it browns in the oven) is delicious. But marrow is one of those rare and useful vegetables which comes on the sweet, as well as the savoury, list.

MANY METHODS.

Do you know how delicious it can be, combined with different fruits, as the foundation of wonderful sweet pies and puddings?

Marrow ginger, raisin and marrow jam, and marrow chutney, too, are three conserves which should find a place in the housewife's store cupboard just now, when the main materials are so cheap.

Raisins and marrow are a particularly good combination. The raisins add a piquant flavour, they are not an expensive fruit, and, now that they can be bought seedless in packets, they have the added advantage of needing no troublesome preparation.

MARROW AND RAISIN PIE.

Have you ever tried the following recipe for marrow and raisin pie, for instance? It is really delicious, and something new in sweets:—

One pound prepared marrow.	Grated rind of one lemon.
Half-pound sliced apples.	Sugar.
Half-packet seedless raisins.	A little water.
	Short crust.

Peel the marrow, and cut it in small pieces, free from seeds. Put it into a pie-dish in layers, with the apples and raisins, sprinkling each layer with a little sugar mixed with grated lemon rind. Pile the mixture rather high in the centre of the dish, and add a little water. Cover the pie with short crust, and bake in a good oven for one hour or longer.

MARROW JAM.

Here, too, is a recipe for a delicious jam, made with marrow and seedless raisins.

Cut four pounds of marrow, peeled and with the seeds and pith taken out, into small pieces, and put into a large basin. Add, in layers, one pound of apples thinly sliced, quarter-pound crystallised ginger, cut in small pieces, one pound seedless raisins, four pounds sugar and one grated lemon rind. Cover the basin, and let the mixture stand for several hours. Then turn all into a preserving pan, boil until the marrow is tender, stirring frequently. Boil again for one hour, pour into pots, and cover when cold.

Household Hints.

An ordinary brown sack can be made into an excellent and hard-wearing mat for a tiled kitchen or scullery floor, by dyeing it any bright shade. Then bind it round with webbing. These mats are very warm to the feet.

* * * * *

Chamois leather gloves will not lose their colour when washed if water in which orange rind has been soaked overnight is used.

* * * * *

A good plan to prevent the juice in fruit tarts from running over is to put a straw through a hole in the middle of the crust, when the straw, like a funnel, allows the steam to escape.

* * * * *

It is not easy to dye articles black satisfactorily, as they are apt to have a rusty tinge. It will be found, however, that good results may be obtained by using one packet of navy blue dye and one packet of black, dissolving the dyes as directed, and then mixing the two thoroughly.

* * * * *

When bottling pickles, chutneys or liquids that are to be kept some time, boil the corks to soften them. While hot press them into the bottles. When they become cold again the bottles will be securely sealed.

* * * * *

To remove iron mould from clothes: Rub the stains with lemon juice. Then with salt; allow to dry. Then wash in usual manner.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT.

A QUANTITY OF SPIRITS.

NEW CHARGES AGAINST DUBLIN MEN.

(BEFORE MR. CUSSEN.)

Patrick Farrell, Avonmore avenue, North Circular road, and Michael McNamara, Francis street, on Saturday again appeared on remand, charged with being in illegal possession of a quantity of spirits on which Excise duty had not been paid.

Mr. David O'Flaherty (Chief State Solicitor's office), who prosecuted, said that he had four new charges to prefer against the defendants in regard to the sale in the city of some of the spirits. On the last occasion it was mentioned that Farrell had made a statement, in the course of which he said that he had obtained quantities of the spirit from McNamara, but he never asked McNamara where he got it. In all he got about five gallons of the spirit from McNamara, and paid him for it at the rate of £2 a gallon. He brought a quart of it to his brother, Martin Farrell, in Baggot street, and gave it to Martin Farrell's wife, who paid him 10s. for it. Mrs. Farrell asked him to get her another quart. He did so, and was again paid 10s. by her.

The statement set out that Farrell sold some of the liquor to Mr. Albert Loughley, a spirit grocer, in Dorset street, and got 21s. for it, and that he also sold some of the spirit to Mr. Patrick Barnes, licensed vintner, North King street, and to Mr. John Barnes, Tarnell street, being paid at the rate of £2 10s. a gallon for it.

Reference was also made in the statement to the alleged sale of two gallons of the spirit to Mr. MacCurtain, Old Spa Hotel, Lucan, in connection with which evidence was called at the last hearing.

Detective Inspector McGloin said that when the further charges were read to the defendants, who were cautioned, Farrell said that he had nothing to say, and McNamara replied: "I had no idea it was going to be sold at all."

On the application of Mr. O'Flaherty, the defendants were remanded until next Wednesday.

The Justice told the defendant McNamara that it would be well if he considered making a statement, as Farrell had done, and handing it to Inspector McGloin.

BAD LANGUAGE.

William Doyle, a labourer, residing at Montpelier Hill, was fined 40s., with the option of one month's imprisonment, on a charge of being disorderly and using profane language in Lower Grangegorman on last Friday night. He denied the charge.

Annie McCabe, of no fixed residence, was fined 20s., with the option of fourteen days' imprisonment, on a charge of using abusive language to the defendant, William Doyle.

ALLEGED WIFE ASSAULT.

George Magee, stated to reside at Corn market, was remanded until next Wednesday on a charge of committing an aggravated assault on his wife on last Friday.

IMPRISONMENT FOR ASSAULT.

Charged on remand with assaulting George Carroll, of George's place, Michael Harte, of Lower Dorset street, was sentenced to one month's imprisonment, without hard labour.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY.

Mr. James Kennedy : "A Doleful Yoke" The Anvil Cure.
Luxury Trams : Water Everywhere.

The Last Straw.

After wading through all the stories of flood havoc in Dublin and elsewhere, I met a man yesterday who added a footnote to the tale of unhappiness. He had bought a new house in the spring, and complained that during the greater part of the alleged summer his garden had not been a garden, but an unornamental lake. He had paid his usual yearly subscription of two guineas to his tennis club, and the weather had prevented him from having more than a dozen afternoons on the courts during the season. He had paid heavily for a holiday abroad, and it had rained all the time at the famous Continental resort which he had patronised. He came home on the day when Dublin was trying to wind up the summer with a storm of rain and wind, and the floods were out. The taxi taking him from the station leaked. Later he took a tramcar down town—and the roof of the tramcar leaked. This was the first time in a long experience of Dublin trams that he had known such a thing to happen, and he felt that it was the last straw.

A T.C.D. Song-Writer.

I was delighted to meet my old friend, Mr. James Kennedy, a couple of days ago, after having lost trace of him for some time. "Jim" Kennedy is one of the few men of my acquaintance who have slipped into their proper niche in life, and are lucky enough to do the work that they have always wished to do. When I knew him first he was editing "T.C.D.," the Undergraduate magazine of Trinity College, and editing it very well. At the same time, so far as I remember, he was reading for LL.B.; although whether he took out the degree or not I cannot recall. His particular flair, however, was for jazz music; and many an undergraduate has told me how "Jimmy" used to wander into his rooms, and there, picking up any instrument that came to hand, would proceed to improvise all manner of melodies. He was one of those gifted souls who, if nothing else was available, could draw "blue notes" out of a saw; and there was no normal instrument to which he could not turn a hand.

Now, I see, he has become one of the most popular composers of jazz songs in England. One of his "hits." was dinned from orchestras, loud speakers and gramaphones throughout half the world a year or two ago.

Novel Healing.

For many years a blacksmith called Denis Curtin, a native of County Clare, was known far and wide as a "healer" of liver complaints. His entire family possessed the same gift, but the blacksmith was the only one who practised as a "wise man;" and people have been known to come back from America to consult him. He also had the unusual gift of curing cows that had swallowed raw potatoes and were feeling stuffy about it.

With his human patients the blacksmith's way was simple. He made the sufferer lie down on his anvil, and pretended to strike him with the sledge hammer. This was done three times, on two Mondays and a Thursday—but in some cases, it is said, once was sufficient. Local legend has it that the gift was bestowed upon this man's ancestor, also a blacksmith, by St. Patrick, whose horse cast a shoe near at hand. The Curtin of those days insisted upon shoeing the horse free, and, as a result, all his descendants have the gift of healing certain complaints.

Luxury Trams.

There is every indication that the people of Dublin and the "strangers within the gate" appreciate the "luxury" tramcars which are operating on the Dalkey line, and would welcome more of them. The severity of the summer has made these long-distance vehicles particularly acceptable, and there is little danger that they will share the fate of the one and only "luxury" tram that Bradford ever boasted.

Bradford's "super-tramcar," as they called it, was built a trifle over three years ago at a cost of £3,000, and its proud possessors claimed that it represented the last word in luxury and comfort. There was even a seat for the driver. It was a single-deck car, and for a while did long trips between suburban Bradford and the heart of the city, getting up a speed of thirty miles an hour on some stretches of the route. Bradford folk bragged about it to strangers.

After a brief spell of glory, however, the "super-tramcar" vanished from the streets. It lay in the Thornbury sheds until the other day, when it was announced that it had been sold to a firm of haulage contractors, who propose to convert it into a "luxury" caravan. "The car was a good thing," said the Chairman of the Corporation Tramways Committee. "The trouble was that it was too expensive to equip a route with a fleet of similar vehicles. But somebody has to make these experiments and see what can be done."

There is great virtue in experiment.

Headlines.

Mr. St. John Ervine, I see, has been writing about headlines. He says that the ideal headline is a signpost to the contents of the article underneath, and adds that there are all too few ideal headlines. An Irish friend of mine, whose article was published recently in an American paper, was startled to see that the original headline—quite a good one, as I saw for myself—had been discarded, and that the heading substituted gave a complete resumé of the contents of the sketch.

Mr. St. John Ervine admires the American headline when he can understand it. "Dyers Instructor Says He Did Not Break Her Teeth or Slap Her," seems to him to be admirably clear. "Bums, Grafters, take over Burg"; "Heavy Publicity on Wide Open Angles Attracts Seedy Culls From Nation's Alleys," are not so good. "Reno's Tux in Moth Balls," puzzled him considerably, but was interpreted by an American friend, who explained it to mean that Reno was becoming notoriously unkempt, and that nobody there would dream of wearing a dinner jacket or "tuxedo" to a dinner party.

The "Penny-Farthing."

The man in Henry street who sets his miniature "high bicycles" racing on a plate is always sure of an audience, and I have seen him sell numbers of these tiny machines, with their riders, to those who are fascinated by the apparent progress of the toy that really stays in the same place.

Yesterday two elderly men stood for a long time and watched his successful manipulation of his wares, and it was quite evident that they were thinking long, long thoughts.

"Those were woeful yokes," one of them said to his companion, "and we thought nothing of them at the time. It was bad enough when you knew how to ride them, but the learning was something awful."

The other watcher agreed. "I often think to myself," he said, "when they all talk about flying and racing in motors, and swimming to France, and I don't know what all, that the young people nowadays would never learn to ride a high bicycle. There's no doubt about it," he said, "we must have had great courage."

"Courage!" his friend repeated; "we were foolhardy, if you ask me, and no one seemed to think we were doing anything wonderful at all."

FRANCISCAN PILGRIMAGE TO ROME.

About two hundred and thirty pilgrims, drawn from all parts of Ireland, left Dublin last night and embarked at Dun Laoghaire en route to Rome, Padua and Assisi. The leader of the pilgrimage is the Rev. Ferdinand O'Leary, O.F.M., Merchant's quay, Dublin. Two other members of the Order accompanying the pilgrims are the Rev. Chrisostom Dore, O.F.M., and the Rev. Joseph Moloney, O.F.M. About twenty-six priests from different parts of the country joined in the pilgrimage. They will be absent from Ireland for three weeks.

THE DIAGNOSIS OF CANCER.

WHO SHALL DECIDE IF DOCTORS DIFFER?

The old question, "Who shall decide when doctors disagree?" was raised anew yesterday in the conflicting medical views on Dr. Bendien's system of cancer diagnosis.

The House Committee of the London Hospital, who issued a statement after tests had been carried out, said:—

"Our investigations show that the claims put forward for the Bendien cancer test cannot be justified, although Dr. Bendien's integrity and honesty of purpose are not for a moment doubted."

In reply to this statement it is now alleged that the London Hospital tests are valueless, because Dr. Campbell Smith, one of the investigators, was not using the same apparatus as Dr. Bendien, and was not using the same solution as Dr. Bendien.

It is submitted that the London Hospital should repeat its test under conditions ensuring that the apparatus, technique and solution are those employed by Dr. Bendien.

Yesterday a reporter pointed out the position of Dr. Bendien and his London Hospital critics to Dr. Alfred Piney, who is carrying out tests of Dr. Bendien's methods at the Cancer Hospital on behalf of the Investigation Committee of the British Empire Cancer Campaign.

"In my test I have used exactly the same apparatus as Dr. Bendien. I got my apparatus from the same source as Dr. Bendien himself; it is precisely the same. In common fairness to the man I thought we must try to use his methods.

"I hope, too, that I am using the same solution. I am using a solution made up according to the directions in Dr. Bendien's book.

"If the criticism of the London Hospital tests are correct, and the same apparatus, solution and technique were not used, I should certainly think that would invalidate the test.

"If my results, which will be ready on September 14, are not very good, I shall try to get Dr. Bendien to show me on the spot exactly how it is done."

NOTES FROM THE "ZOO."

EFFECTS OF THE FLOODS.

BISON FOR OXFORD.

FROM OUR ZOOLOGICAL CORRESPONDENT.

THE series of members' breakfasts which are held in the "Zoo" on the first Saturday of every summer month was brought to an end for the present year on Saturday morning last, when the wind-up was marked by an outburst of quite unwonted sunshine and a remarkably large attendance, both of members and of visitors. Perhaps, it was in part an anxiety to learn how the Gardens and their inmates had fared during the disastrous rainstorms of the two preceding days that brought so unexpectedly large a number to the last breakfast of the year. All the breakfasts of the past summer have, however, been remarkably successful, not only in point of attendance, but also in that of weather, and the Gardens have seldom failed to show to the best advantage on the mornings on which they have been held.

On this occasion the Gardens undoubtedly showed some of the marks of the recent visitation, and the waters of the lake, having well overflowed their boundaries, made it no easy matter to explore the haunts of some of the comparatively shy water-fowl that inhabit the banks and the reed-beds. Dr. Ferrar was, however, able to give satisfactory assurances that neither the animals nor the buildings had suffered any serious damage from the flood that had been generally so disastrous. The worst sufferers were apparently the swallows, who early on Friday morning excited the surprise of the staff by turning up in countless crowds (almost blackening the grass in front of the Superintendent's house) in so utterly drenched a condition as to seem scarcely capable of flight. These poor birds had possibly been roosting in some reed-bed which had been beaten flat by the torrential rains. It may be hoped that they ultimately succeeded in shaking themselves dry; at any rate, large numbers were seen skimming over the ground on Saturday morning with all their accustomed agility and grace.

SHETLAND PONIES.

On the other hand, Professor Dixon had a highly gratifying announcement to make when he mentioned that the latest addition to the list of the Society's animals was a beautiful pair of Shetland ponies, which had arrived just in time to be placed in comfortable quarters before the commencement of the great rainstorm—a privilege that they, doubtless, appreciated at the close of their long four-days' journey from Aberdeen. After breakfast the ponies were, of course, the general centre of attraction; for it is universally felt that their presence makes a most important addition to the attractiveness that the Gardens will have during the coming winter months. This will be particularly the case where children are concerned, as it is hoped that the ponies, after becoming used to their new quarters, will soon be drawing a phaeton and giving the young people enjoyable drives about the ground.

The arrival of the ponies from Aberdeen had been preceded only a few days earlier by the departure from the Gardens of a considerably larger inmate—a large bull bison—which went as a gift from the Council to the new Zoological Gardens just instituted at Oxford. As was to be expected, the bison took his departure somewhat reluctantly—in point of fact, he was leaving his native land—and the preparations that had to be made to induce him to get ready for his travels were described by Professor Dixon to a much-amused audience at Saturday's breakfast. A second Irish-bred bison is soon to follow him, as two are being presented to the Oxford "Zoo"; but travelling facilities are too limited at present to allow of their being despatched together.

GIFTS FROM INDIA.

It cannot be said that the Gardens will be at all impoverished by the sending away of the bison, as they are still fairly rich in these huge animals, which are always among the first to catch the eyes of a visitor after passing the gate. On the other hand, a considerable number of interesting additions has been made to the collection during the summer, among which must be specially noticed those sent over from India by the Calcutta Zoological Society and that constant friend, Mr. W. K. Dods. These include a particularly handsome pair of black-necked ibises, a beautiful hawk-eagle, some very curious-looking birds known as crow-pheasants, a brahminy kite (which has formed a steady friendship with another bird of its kind already in the grounds), and a very pretty pair of Javanese teal, which have made themselves thoroughly at home in the lake, and have quite thrown off the shyness that led them at first to keep out of sight among the reeds, being now almost as bold as any of the domestic ducks or the staid Canada geese. A fine new python was also added to the collection in the course of last week; and visitors will not fail to notice that the young bar-headed geese, three in number, that were hatched last spring, have now quite successfully passed the gosling stage, and are quickly assuming a plumage like that of the parent birds.

Among other gifts lately received mention should be made of an Irish bird—a sparrow-hawk—which was captured last week at Amiens street railway station, having flown through a window (perhaps, in pursuit of a small bird) into one of the offices, and so placed its fate in the hands of the officials, by whom it was at once forwarded to Dr. Ferrar. It is all the more pleasant to hear of a captured sparrow-hawk being so kindly treated, as a very different fate is known to have been lately administered to a bird of the same species, which, having flown through one of the windows of a Dublin hospital, was chased round the ward, taken alive and triumphantly slaughtered—for no crime, apparently, beyond that of being a hawk. The course taken by the railway officials at Amiens street may at least serve as a reminder to those into whose hands wild creatures commit themselves that there exists an alternative, and a fairly easy one, to the death sentence, even when it is not deemed expedient to restore the captives to freedom.

It ought to be mentioned, as a further tribute to the beneficence of Saturday's weather, that the giant tortoise, who had carefully secluded himself during the greater part of the week, suddenly made up his mind on that day to come out into the open, and enjoyed quite a happy afternoon basking on his grass plot, surrounded by an admiring circle of children and peacocks, who evidently shared his approval of the day.

THE KING AND QUEEN AT CHURCH.

The King and Queen, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of York, drove in an open carriage from Balmoral Castle to Crathie Church yesterday morning.

The Rev. Dr. Stirton officiated at the Service, at which the preacher was the Moderator of the Church of Scotland, the Rev. Dr. J. A. Graham.

A large congregation included the Countess of Shaftesbury and the Ladies Dorothea and Lettice Ashley-Cooper and Viscount and Viscountess Dunedin.

THE GRAND PRIX.

S. Woods (Dublin), who created the world "record" road race speed of 86.43 m.p.h., being congratulated by the Governor of Northern Ireland.

NOTES FROM THE "NATIONAL."

DESERTED HALLS.

FEW places can be more depressing than a college at present. The vast emptiness of foyer and corridors makes one move about on tip-toe. By now one would have expected that the "close season" would have ended; for the autumn examinations are only a fortnight away. Yet the seekers after "firsts" are as elusive as their quest, and all the time the vast heap of circulars—and alas! of bills—addressed to the secretaries of clubs and societies, becomes higher and higher.

THE "ZIMMER" LIBRARY.

Nevertheless, there is much activity in out-of-the-way quarters. For a long time past the ever-helpful Librarian, Mr. J. J. O'Neill, has had his staff working at full pressure, re-arranging and cataloguing the precious tomes of the Zimmer Library, sacred to the philologists and historians of the Faculty of Celtic Studies. The card-index, now complete, will do much to lighten the labours of some of our most hard-working students.

AUDITOR AND EDITOR.

The best wishes of his countless friends will go out to Mr. Cearbhall O Dálaigh, who has succumbed to the lure of professional journalism, and assumed the post of Gaelic editor of one of our morning papers. Ever one of the most active of our "Society" leaders, Mr. O Dalaigh last year excelled himself as Auditor of An Cumann Gaodhalach, the inspired "Leader of the Opposition" in the "L. and H.," and a regular supporter of the Commerce and English Literary Societies. He found time, nevertheless, to act as business manager of the "National Student," and to write countless reviews and articles for the Press. Much is expected of the "L. and H." during the coming year, when he will rule the House. Miss Nora O'Keeffe has also dedicated herself to the profession that moulds the public mind.

MR. O'DALY.

A DISTINGUISHED GRADUATE.

Strolling leisurely through the National Museum the other day, I discovered a fascinating new section devoted to Irish Ethnography. The arrangement of the exhibits, which is not yet complete, is in the capable hands of Mr. Liam Gogan, M.A., the Deputy-Keeper of our National Antiquities. Mr. Gogan is a very distinguished graduate of the Celtic Faculty. While primarily an archæologist, he is a man of wide culture and catholic interests. He played a far greater part than is generally known in the production of the Rev. Dr. Dinneen's monumental Dictionary. Last year a book of his Irish renderings of some German poems was published by the Stationery Office.

FOLKLORE FROM ARAN.

To one who has survived "summer" in town the joyous reports of holiday-makers in the South and West are very tantalising. The latest to arrive with reports of delightful weather is Mr. Thomas Murray, who has spent a month in Aran. In the intervals of basking in the sun he devoted his time to collecting valuable material for the Folklore Society. Mr. Murray will be long remembered as the author of some brilliant parodies which appeared in the College magazines, and as the audacious "First Year" who walked off with the "Bishops' Prize" for theology open to all students of the College.

Another returned exile is Miss M. Berney, B.Comm., who has decided to resume student life after a year's absence.

A COMING DEPARTURE.

It is with deep regret that we have to announce the departure of Mr. R. K. Boylan, M.Sc., the popular captain of the swimming club. A former auditor of the "L. and H." Mr. Boylan spent three post-graduate years in Vienna—two as travelling student of the University and one as a Rockefeller student. Since his return he has been attached to the science staff. For a scientist, he had a rather remarkable hobby; for he is a devotee of plain chant. He was a member of the choir conducted by Mrs. Boylan, which covered itself with glory at the last Feis Ceoil.

"WEATHERING THE STORM."

With reference to the article on the progress of the Port of Waterford, which appeared in the Irish Times on Saturday, we are asked by Mr. Austin A. Farrell, the secretary and general manager to the Waterford Harbour Commissioners, to state that the Sir Henry Forde Wharf cost £32,000, not £3,200. Mr. Farrell also wishes to make it clear that he did not suggest that Liverpool had not a twenty-ton crane—what he said being that the statement was made to him by a shipping company that certain lifts could not be handled in one particular dock. This statement, he adds, was made to him, and by him, as an amusing, and not as a serious, incident.

Yes, thanks, all well.

THE SCREEN.

RETURN OF THE COWBOYS.

BY OUR CINEMA CORRESPONDENT.

AS it is freely rumoured that the gangster film has seen its best days, preparations are being made to revive a type of film which was extremely popular in the old days of the silent picture. The cowboy picture, or "the horse opera," as the cowboy melodrama is called in the film world, is about to make a spectacular return. Only a few weeks ago it was reported that a one-time favourite in the person of Tom Mix had been induced to forsake his circus and return to Hollywood under contract for a cowboy series, and now it is reported that the Fox Company is spending £50,000 in the making of a cowboy "talkie." The story to be used in this production is Zane Grey's "Riders of the Purple Sage," one of the most popular of that writer's novels of Western ranch life, which has already been seen as a silent film. George O'Brien is to be the "star," and it now seems probable that a series will be arranged for him. From all sources it is reported that outdoor "talkies" are "going better than at any time," so that there is little reason to doubt that the new cowboy films will be generally welcomed, provided that they are capably directed and well produced. The lure of "Buffalo Bill" is not yet gone, and possibly it is as strong as ever it was.

COMEDY FAVOURITES.

At the Metropole, "City Lights" continues to be one of the great attractions of the year. To vary a well-known slogan, "You cannot fail to laugh at Charlie Chaplin," and in "City Lights" he will be found in some of the most humorous situations of his screen career. The brilliant opening scene, in which Charlie is found on the lap of a newly-unveiled statue, is certain to make anyone hold his sides; and the boxing-match is one long crescendo of laughter from beginning to end. While in some respects "City Lights" reveals a more serious Chaplin, there remains sufficient of the older comedian to keep an audience in continuous laughter for more than an hour. The greatest comedian of the screen is in this film seen in a story that has in it pathos as well as fun, but he never permits that pathos to dominate it. "City Lights" is certainly a film to see, and it is supported by a varied programme of interesting items.

At the Capitol, Harold Lloyd demonstrates his hold upon the public in "Feet First," which is being retained for a second week. In this film the acrobatic comedian has his usual hair-raising scenes on the edge of a skyscraper hundreds of feet above the traffic, and performs his usual thrilling feats on the front wall of the building. As a young shoe-salesman who had ambitions to "get on" he took a correspondence course in personality, and from that course flow all his troubles and all his fun. It is his trouble, of course, that provides the fun for audiences, but interwoven with the fun there is some mild satire of American business methods. How he is accepted as an expert in leather; how he gets taken unaware from his island home to San Francisco; and, finally, how he secures the delivery of some important documents under extremely difficult conditions, all are scenes from which audiences will extract considerable excitement and great fun. "Feet First" is again the Harold Lloyd of "Safety Last," and beyond that nothing need be said. The supporting programme at the Capitol is of the usual varied and interesting type, including the popular Capitolians, in a novel musical presentation.

SEA AND AIR.

The Theatre Royal programme this week contains two extremely fine films in "The Flying Fool" and "The Windjammer." "The Flying Fool" is sheer melodrama, with plenty of action and thrills. A race between the hero, in an aeroplane, and the villain, in a racing motor car, is one of the most exciting things which the screen has reflected in recent times. The story is concerned with a Secret Service agent who tracks down a gang of Continental thieves, but the story is only a string upon which to hang the series of spectacularly thrilling scenes. Exceptionally good are such scenes as the hero struggling in the turbid waters of a sewer, the crash of the aeroplane into the Croydon control tower, and the great chase which is very cleverly photographed. Probably one of the most interesting features of the film is the insight which it gives into the workings of a large civil aerodrome. "The Windjammer" shows a ship battling with heavy seas on a trip from Australia to England. The story is of a youth who begins by hating the sea but grows to like it, and ends by being its victim. Everyone who likes the sea will like "The Windjammer" because of its fidelity, its humanity, and its excellent photography. It comes very near to being a great film, and its real sailors make very good actors.

At the Savoy "Gentleman's Fate" shows John Gilbert as an Italian-American whose life was turned by the whim of his mother. He was the son of a prosperous "bootlegger," but his mother's desire was to have him brought up as a "gentleman," in ignorance of his family's existence or doings. As he is on the verge of marriage to a society girl he is summoned to the deathbed of his father, and there learns the truth. The dying man gives him a string of emeralds which lands him in jail, and from the moment of his release he takes his place in the "racket" controlled by his brother. In the end he falls a victim to the shooting activities of a rival gang as he is about to leave for his honeymoon in Europe. Gilbert just manages to make "Gentleman's Fate" hold the interest to the end. There is the usual Savoy supporting programme, including Mr. Joseph O'Brien's organ recital.

SINGING AND SIN.

At the Pavilion, Kingstown, from Monday to Wednesday, the principal film will be "Jenny Lind," in which Grace Moore, of the Metropolitan Opera of New York, impersonates the famous prima donna. For its singing alone "Jenny Lind" is a film that should not be missed. From Thursday to Saturday "The Speckled Band" will be the leading feature in which audiences will find all the entertainment they desire. In this well-known Sherlock Holmes story, Lyn Harding dominates the picture as the powerful Rylot; he is strong and impressive, giving a convincing performance.

At the Corinthian Kay Johnson figures as the victim of a blackmailer in "The Single Sin," which shows the torture of a young and happily-married woman who is haunted by an early indiscretion. With Bert Lytell and Holmes Herbert and a sumptuous presentation the film will be found more than acceptable to patrons of the Corinthian.

At the Sackville for the week will be "The Melody of Love," in which Mildred Harris and Walter Pidgeon appear to advantage. In addition, Glenn Tyron and Merna Kennedy appear in an exceedingly funny film entitled "Barnum Was Right." There is a full supporting programme,

ON THE WIRELESS

A BALLAD CONCERT FROM THE NORTH.

AT one o'clock to-day there is a ballad concert on the North Regional that has an attractive appearance in print. Muriel Batey is the soprano, with Harry Shuttleworth taking the bass and Myers Foggin at the piano. The programme, lasting an hour, includes such popular items as "The Drum Major" (Newton), the waltz song from "Merrie England" (German), "A Vagabond of the Sea" (Barker) and "The Skipper of the Mary Jane" (Richards). Pianoforte items include "Papillons" (Schumann) and "Romance, No. 2" (Bowen). The only complaint that listeners can have is that the programme comes at a time when few have the leisure for listening. Following the ballad concert is a programme of music from the Northern Studio Orchestra, under the direction of John Bridge, and in the evening the same orchestra gives a programme of popular music from the best composers. There is a concert party on their programme at 8.15 and a short play at 9.20. Dublin offers some good violin music from Marian Jay at 8.45, and there is a good symphony concert from Belfast. On the whole, the programmes for to-day fall a little short of the high standard that is usually set, but wireless programmes, in common with other things, seem to suffer from that Monday feeling.

A SOUTHERN LETTER.

FARMERS AND THE RAILWAYS.

A Vital Need : Cork County Council's Appeal to Mr. Cosgrave : Good Show of Foxes.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Sunday.

NOTHING has brought home more forcibly to us in the South the plight of the railways than the closing of the Kinsale branch line. In Cork County particularly, with its many short railway routes, serious alarm is felt in anticipation of the effects likely to be caused by the drastic economy which necessitates the confining of trains as far as possible to main lines.

The trans-Atlantic traffic, mails and passengers, will save the Queenstown life, and the summer traffic will aid the continuation of the Youghal extension, which is invaluable to East Cork; but there are few factors immediately apparent to suggest that several other important routes are not doomed to extinction if matters continue as at present. The closing of such lines as the Cork, Passage and Crosshaven light railway, the Cork-Coachford and Cork-Macroom lines, and such branch routes as the Kanturk and Mitchelstown extensions would be a very serious matter, and it is the earnest desire of all to prevent any such disaster. Yet it is not easy to see how it is going to be done.

At its meeting during the week the Cork County Council discussed the situation in some detail. Few will disagree with Mr. D. L. O'Gorman's declaration that "it is apparent to anybody with any foresight that it is beyond the resources of this country to keep two expensive means of transport going," and that "the time has come when, if the farmers with cattle to sell are to be provided for, they must have the railways."

Mr. T. J. Murphy, T.D., described the closing of branch lines as "a great national danger," and the meeting was unanimous in adoping the following resolution:—"That we, the Cork County Council, request President Cosgrave to interview the directors of the Great Southern Railways Company and ask them to defer any action with reference to the closing down of further lines until the sitting of the Dail, when the matter may be arranged; and that we further request the question of the re-opening of the Kinsale branch line be considered."

HUNTING.

Hunting—or rather cubbing—has begun in the South, and there is every prospect of a very successful season being enjoyed. All the well-known packs are fully prepared, and now that the West Waterfords have been saved, thanks to the generosity of the Master, there will be no "blanks."

The United only began cubbing during the week, but they have made a very auspicious start. The largest pack in the South, they hunt a very extensive—and, incidentally, a very fine—country from their kennels at Midleton, and it was not unknown last season for them to have two packs out on four or five days a week. Now that Captain Wellesley Wesley has joined Major A. H. Watt in the Mastership it will be easy to arrange for two packs on the same day in different parts of the country whenever occasion arises.

Reports from keepers and covert-owners are very favourable—in fact, by all accounts, there was never a better show of foxes in the area—and, with a bit of luck, the United should have a record season.

CORK FAIR PRIZE ESSAYS.

Matters concerning next year's Industrial Fair at Cork are proceeding steadily, and all the committees at work are reporting satisfactory progress. Developments at the convenient site on the Carrigrohane road are being pushed ahead, and no stone will be left unturned to ensure that the housing of the exhibition will be all that could be desired.

Several inquiries as to space have already been received, and a special committee has been formed to deal with this matter.

The increasing interest in the enterprise by all classes of the community is seen by the large additions made to the guarantee fund within the past week. A recent development is the launching of a prize essay scheme for school children all over the country. Gold medals and money prizes are being offered for the best essays in English or Irish on the objects of, and benefits to be derived from, the Fair.

KINSALE HOSPITAL REOPENED.

An interesting function took place during the week at Kinsale, when members of the Cork Board of Assistance paid a visit to that town to attend the formal re-opening of the Kinsale Hospital. There was a representative local gathering to greet them, and the references made at a subsequent meeting of the Board left no room for doubt that the hospital is greatly appreciated.

Following the occupation of the premises by troops during the civil disturbances the hospital fell into disrepair, and naturally great inconvenience resulted in the neighbourhood. Now the building has been thoroughly renovated and fully equipped as a modern hospital. It will be in charge of the Sisters of Mercy.

UNSOUND MEAT.

The large quantities of unsound meat condemned in Cork City bacon factories and slaughter-houses has given rise to some concern, and was the subject of a discussion at a meeting of the Corporation.

It was the general opinion that the percentage of meat unfit for human consumption was no higher than in any other centre, but what the members did protest about was the absence of any system of similar veterinary inspection of imported bacon. In reply to this the City Manager pointed out that they were not charged with the supervision of meat imported, but that was not decorated with evergreens.

More than four thousand marched in the procession. Lined the footpaths, and the impressive scene as the paths knelt when the Bl carried by the Rev. Fathe passed en route to the temp had been erected in the sq Cathedral.

Lough Erne "Farce."

Drainage Board's Anger.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
ENNISKILLEN, Saturday.

THAT the two Irish Governments were incompetent to deal with the flooding along Lough Erne, and that the conduct of the Northern Ministry was nothing short of "a stupid, unprecedented farce," was the reply suggested at the meeting of the Lough Erne Drainage Board to-day to a letter from the Northern Ministry of Finance on the question of procedure to get the level of the lake lowered.

The meeting of ratepayers to elect the new Board was first held, and the old Board was re-elected, and Mr. Joseph Clegg chairman.

The letter from the Northern Ministry, dealt with at the subsequent meeting of the new Board, was in reply to a letter of August 4 in regard to the resolution passed by the Board and the Fermanagh County Council, and stated that the Ministry was unable to sanction any alteration of the existing statutory levels, unless a scheme was proceeded with, under Section 17 of the Drainage Act (Northern Ireland), 1925, as stated in a letter of July 25.

PROCEDURE IN BRIEF.

Briefly, this would necessitate the following action being taken:—

1—The Drainage Board must consult with the Fermanagh Council and prepare a scheme specifying exactly what changes in the existing statutory levels were proposed and what provisions will be made for the protection of the rights or interests affected by the scheme.

2—The scheme must be submitted to the Ministry.

3—The Drainage Board must give notice of the scheme, and of the time—not less than twenty-one days—within which objections must be sent to the Ministry, to such persons and in such manner as might be prescribed by the Ministry.

4—A public inquiry might be held by the Ministry of Finance.

5—After the expiration of the time limit for sending objections, after considering any objections and report of the public inquiry, and after consulting the Drainage Advisory Committee, the Ministry of Finance may make an order confirming the scheme, with or without modification, or may reject the scheme.

ACTION PREMATURE.

The scheme should indicate the mode of raising the necessary money failing any Government grant being available. The Ministry added that it would be understood that, while primarily the question of preparing and submitting a scheme was a matter for the Drainage Board, the Ministry considered that such action was premature pending consideration of wider questions regarding Lough Erne drainage which were now under consideration.

The Secretary—In face of the last paragraph is there any use in going any farther?

Discussion followed as to the form the Board's reply should take, and it was stressed that when the delegation from the ratepayers went to Belfast to get the levels of the lake lowered as a preliminary measure before other operations were carried out they were led to believe that if they had the consent of the County Council of Fermanagh their request would be granted at once, and the County Council gave their consent with almost a three-fourths majority.

Mr. Cole, T.D., suggested that they should tell the Ministry that if the lake was not lowered the farmers could not pay their annuities. The Ministry might seize in one or two cases, but they could not seize a whole countryside.

It was agreed to leave the question of replying to the Chairman and the Secretary.

Waterford Fishermen Enthusiastic.

Need for More Patrol Boats Stressed.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WATERFORD, Saturday.

Three members of the Dail addressed an enthusiastic public meeting of fishermen held at Passage East, near Waterford, to form a branch of the new Sea Fisheries' Association. Virtually all the fishermen present handed in their names for membership.

Mr. J. C. O'Donnell explained that the objects of the organisation were the development of the fishing industry, the improvement of the conditions of transport, handling, grading and marketing of fish, and to enable competent fishermen to obtain loans for boats and gear on convenient repayment terms. He pointed out that the Association was not a Government department, although it was at the moment State aided. A big question which the Association was tackling was that of glutted markets. As soon as a fishermen brought his catch ashore his responsibility would end. The Association would find markets, and the surplus would be exported.

Dr. White, T.D., said that since they had obtained their independence, or a fair measure of it, the cruisers of a foreign country that used to patrol Irish fishing waters did so no longer, and at the present momemt they had only one boat trying to patrol the whole coast line and to keep off those fishing pirates who carried away the harvest of the sea, which rightly belonged to Irish fishermen. More patrol boats must be added immediately.

Mr. Sean Goulding, T.D., said that foreign trawlers made a joke of their one patrol boat which had been costing the State £7,000 a year for the past eight years. That money had been practically thrown away. In this association fishermen were asked for the first time in the history of the fishing industry to help themselves.

Dundalk's Religious Pageant.

Impressive Scenes.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
DUNDALK, Sunday.

DUNDALK held the biggest religious procession in its long history when, to-day, the golden jubilee of the two Confraternities attached to St. Patrick's Church was celebrated. In preparation for the big event schemes of decoration had been carried into effect, and there was hardly a Roman Catholic home from one end of the town to the other that was not decorated with flowers, flags and evergreens.

More than four thousand men and women marched in the procession. Thousands more lined the footpaths, and there was a very impressive scene as the thousands on the paths knelt when the Blessed Sacrament, carried by the Rev. Father Tohall, Adm., passed en route to the temporary altar which had been erected in the square opposite the Cathedral.

Pride of place in the procession was given to the jubilarians of both Confraternities. These men and women were received by Cardinal MacRory, and, in the presence of a vast concourse, they were presented with medals commemorating their fifty years' membership of the Confraternities. Many priests took part in the procession. Among former spiritual directors of the Confraternities present were:—The Very Rev. Canon Lyons, P.P., Ardee; the Very Rev. Canon McDonald, P.P., Cookstown; the Rev. Father McKeone, P.P., Faughart; the Rev. Michael Kerr, P.P., Pomeroy. The attendance also included the Right Rev. Dean Quinn, P.P., Dungannon, and the Right Rev. Monsignor Segrave, Drogheda. From a temporary altar, which was erected in Douglas place, the Very Rev. Andrew MacArdle, S.J., Gardiner street, Dublin, preached the jubilee sermon.

The two-year-old son of Mr. George Bradshaw, clerk in the Armagh branch of the Ministry of Labour, fell into a bath of hot water, and was so badly scalded that he died on Saturday in Armagh County Infirmary.

Twelve Thefts in Two Months.

Kingstown Man's "Tour for Larceny."

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WATERFORD, Saturday.

TWELVE separate theft charges from different parts of the country were preferred at the District Court this morning against Joseph Dixon, of Kingstown, although he had only come out of jail after a three months' sentence in July last.

He pleaded guilty, and asked to have one added for driving without a licence. This the Justice declined to accept.

The thefts ranged from a motor car, valued at £15, boots and clothing, to a sweepstake ticket.

Dixon said that his conviction in April was the first in his life.

The Justice said that the accused seemed to have set out on a tour for larceny. He would be lenient with him, however, and, after advising him to pull himself together and decide to lead a straight life, sentenced him to six months' imprisonment on each charge, to run concurrently.

The Farming Outlook.

Need of Organisation.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Saturday.

AT a meeting of Munster farmers, which was held in Limerick County Council Chambers to-day for the purpose of forming a new organisation, Mr. C. D. O'Sullivan, County Limerick, was moved to the chair. Representatives from Clare, Tipperary, Limerick, Cork, and Kerry were present.

Mr. P. Belton, Dublin, and Dr. King, Dublin, Chairman of the Centre Party, attended as a deputation.

The Chairman said that, beyond doubt, there never was more necessity for an organisation of farmers for their welfare than at present. If things continued as they were the position of the farmer would be desperate.

In forming an organisation they had no wish to absorb other associations; but they would like their co-operation in tackling the problem that faced them, and which was due to the fact that they were living on a pre-war income, while paying the expenses that obtained during the war. The sooner, he said, the Administration in this country saw its way to live according to its income the better it would be for the country.

The Secretary (Mr. J. Medill, of Kerry) said that the farmers had to consider whether at the next election they would support one of the old parties, which had let them down badly, or form a central party of their own. Whatever party they supported, its programme would have to include proposals for a drastic reduction of expenditure. Two meetings were held at Limerick and Mallow for the purpose of forming a Munster organisation. Limerick and Kerry had been in close communication, and it was decided to call this meeting with a view to getting representation from Tipperary, Clare, and Waterford.

Mr. T. Condon, County Limerick, said that they should have an agricultural party, independent of all parties.

A NATIONAL PARTY.

Mr. Fahy urged the formation of a national party, composed of farmers, which should make a demand on the Free State Government that could not be turned down.

Mr. P. Belton said that they intended to call a national convention to define and adopt a policy. The report of the De-rating Commission was such an insult to the agricultural community that the farmers would not be worth considering if they did not organise and put men into the Dail to watch their interests.

Mr. Ernest Brown, of Clare, said that they were out for the good of the country. The farmers of Ireland were 75 per cent. of the nation.

Dr. King urged the farmers to demand complete de-rating. As to the land annuities, he said that the complete wiping out of the payments might not be possible, but it would be no great act of generosity on England's part if she did wipe them out, as she had done in the six counties.

It was decided to send the agenda of the Centre Party to each county executive for consideration, when it would be seen, the Secretary stated, how many counties would be represented at the coming national convention.

A resolution was passed denouncing temporary relief in the form of a moratorium in respect of annuities, and calling for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the financial position of the country.

Cashel Ram Sale.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CASHEL, Saturday.

MESSRS. N. MAHER and Sons, Auctioneers, held their annual ram sale in Cashel to-day, when a very choice selection of Lincolns, Suffolks and Oxford Downs was offered for competition. Flock-owners from Tipperary and the adjoining counties were well represented. Of the 225 rams listed, 148 changed ownership at prices well above the average.

Mr. Timothy Ryan's (Rathclogheen, Golden) nine shearling rams, prize-winners at local shows, attracted much notice, and when put into the ring were eagerly sought after. The tops reached from £5 10s. to £7 10s., secondary £3 15s. to £4 17s. 6d. Mr. James Ryan, Mountjudkin, Cashel, disposed of nine choice Lincoln lambs at prices varying from £3 to £4 5s. Useful shearlings found ready purchasers at from £3 10s. to £5 15s.; second quality was to be had at from £2 10s. to £3 5s. Good Lincoln lambs realised from £3 to £5, secondary £2 5s. to £3.

Of the Oxford Downs shown, Mr. J. J. Smith, Rathkeale, Co. Limerick, was the principal exhibitor. His very fine quality rams were quickly disposed of at prices ranging from £5 to £6 15s. Mr. Fitzgerald, Synone, Cashel, secured from £4 10s. to £6 each for his twelve Suffolks. Ten Oxford Downs, shearling and ram-lambs, the property of Mr. J. St. George, Freshford, Co. Kilkenny, found customers at prices varying from £3 5s. to £5 for shearlings, and £3 5s. to £3 15s. for the lambs.

THE FINANCIAL CRISIS.

REPERCUSSIONS IN IRELAND.

MR. LEMASS'S VIEW.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CASHEL, Sunday.

SPEAKING at Cashel to-day, Mr. Sean Lemass, T.D., said that the financial crisis now existing in England would inevitably have serious repercussions in Ireland, and it was the duty of the Government to consider what action was best to lessen its effects on their economic welfare. It was not merely a matter of damage to their export trade consequent on a decrease of Britain's purchasing power, although that was serious enough. The value of their exports to Britain during the first six months of this year was £2,220,000 less than for the same period in 1930. They were almost completely dependent on Britain for the sale of their exports, and although the danger of this position had been repeatedly pointed out no real effort had been made to open up markets in other European countries or, by the development of the home market, to lessen their dependence on export trade. There would be no security for Irish producers, or no certainty of continued prosperity here until the country was made self-supporting to a degree much greater than at present. This could only be done by the protection of industries.

GOVERNMENT BLAMED.

The most serious aspect of the British situation for them was, however, the fact that the whole financial structure of the State was centred on London. Their currency was backed by British currency instead of by gold. This situation was not the product of the Treaty, but of the deliberate choice of the Free State Government. It meant that a financial collapse in England must produce a collapse here also. The danger of the situation could have been avoided, to a great extent, by the establishment of a central bank in Dublin and by the creation of their currency on an independent basis. If a period of financial stringency, followed by further depression and unemployment, was in store for them, the Free State Government was solely to blame.

When the present world depression developed, all other Governments took immediate steps to reduce expenditure and lighten the burden of taxation. From New Zealand, Australia, Italy, Germany, even Northern Ireland, one reads in the Press of drastic economies put into operation or in contemplation.

This year the estimated cost of Government services was £139,000 more than in last year, and that year had been higher than the year previous. This country was facing a serious situation, in any case, but with wastrels in office it would be impossible to stave off disaster. By reducing the burden of taxation, by protecting their industries against foreign competition, by providing employment for their idle workers, by State action on housing and the like, they could weather the storm, but not otherwise.

Pilgrimages in the West.

Celtic Cross Unveiled at Laser Well.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Sunday.

THE annual pilgrimage to Laser Well, Keadue, Co. Roscommon, was celebrated to-day, when thousands of pilgrims from all parts of Leitrim, Roscommon and Sligo attended at the holy well and performed Stations for cures and other reasons.

To-day's ceremony was performed at a cliff overlooking the present Laser Well, and the inscription in Irish on the beautiful Celtic cross which was unveiled by Mr. Henry Morris, Divisional Inspector of National Schools, and an authority on archæology, denoted that that was the place where Laser Well used to be in former times.

The cross has been erected through the efforts of Messrs. P. J. Guckian, P.C., N.T.; P. Duignan, P.C., and John Glynn, P.C., Co.C., and the memorial has been erected on what is now known as the glebe lands, through the kindness of the Protestant minister.

Near the present holy well a stone has been re-erected on pillars, and this stone served in the past to those who went under it as a means of curing people who suffered from pains in their backs.

In the coming months it is hoped to have a memorial erected to O'Carolan, the poet. Father Higgins, C.C., Keadue, presided.

Mr. Morris remarked that the clay around the spot where he stood was taken by emigrants to America in the old days, and when thrown on stormy waters as they crossed the Atlantic a calm resulted.

Strangers thought that Ireland had only three saints—Patrick, Bridget and Columbcille. That was not so, as each parish had its own saint, and he advised them to keep up the homage he saw displayed there that day.

CLONMACNOISE.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
ATHLONE, Sunday.

The annual pilgrimage to Clonmacnoise, the ruins of whose seven churches, rest on an eminence on the King's County side of the Shannon, was to-day participated in by people from King's County and the Counties of Westmeath, Roscommon and Galway, and was of much larger dimensions than usual.

Fr. O'Higgins, P.P., Shannonbridge, in whose parish Clonmacnoise is situated, officiated, and the arrangements were supervised by Boy Scouts from Ballinasloe under Diocesan Commissioner J. J. Stokes.

Fr. Reynolds, P.P., Ballinahowen, Athlone, said that Clonmacnoise was once a great seat of learning, and was attended by pupils not only from Ireland and England, but from France and Germany as well.

Fr. Higgins said that it was time the Government took more than a passing interest in the preserving of national monuments such as Clonmacnoise, and it was not too much to ask the county councils to improve the main approaches to them.

Net Poaching in the Suir.

Call for Protection of Fisheries.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
WATERFORD, Saturday.

At the meeting of the Waterford Fishery Conservators a letter was read from Mr. G. Fitzgerald, The Island, Waterford, complaining of frequent poaching by netting during the close season in the tidal part of the river about three miles from the city.

Poaching was frequent in the upper waters too, he alleged, and suggested that a uniformed Guard should be on duty from 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. on the upper waters, and on day and night during the close season on the tidal part of the river. He also suggested that uniformed Guards should patrol the spawning areas to prevent fish being hooked out.

At the meeting of the Board of Conservators of the River Boyne, which was held in Navan on Saturday, Mr. Dennis said that one of their fishermen, a Mr. Murphy, had captured two sharks in the Boyne, and as his nets were destroyed he proposed that the Board give him £2 compensation. The motion was passed, subject to the sanction of the Free State Department of Fisheries.

IRISH NEWS IN BRIEF.

AT a Special Court which was held in Downpatrick Police Barracks on Saturday, before Mr. H. Dixon, Constable A. V. Ferguson was charged on remand with wounding with a revolver shot John P. O'Brien, shopkeeper, of York street, Belfast, with intent to murder. Depositions were taken and the accused man was returned for trial in custody to the Winter Assizes.

Duke's Manager for Forty Years.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
NEWTOWNSTEWART, Sunday.

North Tyrone lost one of its ablest public men by the death this afternoon of Mr. Robert, Bell, J.P., for forty-three years general manager for the Duke of Abercorn at Baronscourt, near here.

He was until recently a member of Tyrone County Council, the Ulster Farmers' Union, Tyrone Unionist Association, and of the local Education Committees. In his later years he devoted much time to agricultural problems, particularly the difficulties of the dairying industry.

The Duke and Duchess of Abercorn, who are now in residence at Baronscourt, greatly regret the loss of a faithful manager.

Mr. Bell, although in failing health, was about till Thursday last.

Irish Fair.

Ballina (Co. Mayo), September 4.—Small cattle fair, the approximate numbers on offer being—Store cattle, 620; fat cattle, 50; springers and milch cows, 55; calves, 65. Some 190 lambs, 100 store and 100 fat sheep also were offered. The cattle fair was composed chiefly of Aberdeen-Angus stock. Small attendance of buyers, and store cattle met a slow demand, only those in forward condition changing hands. Fat cattle were hard to cash even at reduced prices. Choice springers and milch cows were in brisk request at values tending upwards. All classes of sheep and lambs were difficult to dispose of at lower rates. Ranges of prices, per head—Dropped calves, £2 15s. to £4. Other calves, under 6 months, £3 to £5 5s. Young cattle, 6 to 12 months, £5 10s. to £9 10s. Store cattle, 1 to 2 years, £8 10s. to £14; 2 to 3 years, £11 to £16. Fat cattle, 2 to 3 years, £16 to £17 10s. Springers (cows and heifers), £15 to £27. Milch cows (down calved), £14 to £22. Store lambs (under 12 months), long wools, 20s. to 25s. Fat lambs (under 12 months), long wools, 32s. 6d. to 45s. Store sheep (breeding ewes), long wools, 40s. to 50s. Fat sheep (wethers, etc.), 1 to 2 years; long wools, 45s. to 55s.

Two young men named Daniel Logue and Patrick Logue, of Ballymangan, Killeter, County Tyrone, on Saturday at Castlederg were returned for trial on a charge of assaulting John Logue, Creighdenniss, occasioning grevious bodily harm.

War on the Slums.

Westport Joins the Campaign.

AT a meeting of the Westport Urban Council the following resolution was adopted unanimously:—

"We call upon the Free State Government to take immediate steps to deal with the shameful housing conditions which are a daily menace to the health and life of the workers and the poor. We consider that necessary powers should be obtained without delay for the acquisition and clearing of insanitary sites and buildings, and the erection of houses suitable for families at a rent which they can pay.

"We also call upon the Government to pass suitable town and country planning legislation, and to raise a long-term loan, at low interest, to carry out the necessary housing schemes in the towns and rural districts of the Saorstat, and to organise an adequate programme of continuous building."

In Westport there are about two hundred dwellings which are unfit for human habitation. At least two hundred new houses are required.

The Tipperary Murder.

Views at County Council.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
LIMERICK, Saturday.

AT the meeting of the Limerick County Council to-day Mr. Sean Hartney moved that the resolution passed by the Council on August 1, condemning the murder of John Ryan at Cappawhite, Tipperary, be rescinded.

Mr. Hartney said that he took exception to the wording of the resolution, as it branded as assassins all the men who had fought for Irish freedom. He was not—and never would—defending the Tipperary crime, but this resolution branded the men of 1916 and those who fought subsequently as a band of assassins.

Mr. Hewson—How does the resolution read?

The Secretary said that it condemned the "recrudesence of crime by the murder of John Ryan in County Tipperary."

Mr. Lloyd—There is nothing in the resolution to convey what Mr. Hartney takes exception to.

Mr. O'Brien seconded.

Mr. Hewson said that it appeared to him that Mr. Hartney was largely drawing on his imagination, because the resolution did not refer to any person who fired a shot for freedom. He had the greatest respect for any man who had the courage of his convictions in fighting for Irish freedom, although, personally, he believed political ends could be attained without resort to violence. The assassination of young Ryan was a dastardly deed, committed under circumstances doubly heinous, his body being placed at the cross-road to intimidate the plain people of the county.

MURDER CONDEMNED.

Mr Cahill said that the assassination of Ryan was assassination pure and simple. The resolution condemned the murder, and no aspersion was placed on the men who fought for Irish freedom.

Mr. Madden said that, while the resolution was passed, there was not the slightest intention on the part of any member of the Council of reflecting on the brave and chivalrous men in the Irish fight. Fianna Fail had, through its leader and publication, condemned the murder, as it was condemned by every right-minded man who stood for good government and the development of the country.

Mr. Colbert said that he did not stand for or condone the murder of young Ryan, but the resolution was, unfortunately, worded in so far as it referred to a "recrudescence of crime." He belonged to a constitutional party that was out to achieve its objects by constitutional methods, but £10,000 was being spent in the country on secret service, and they knew what were the results.

The Chairman—I am afraid you are putting yourselves in a position I am sure you do not agree with. I am sure you do not agree with pulling a servant boy out of his bed and murdering him on the roadside.

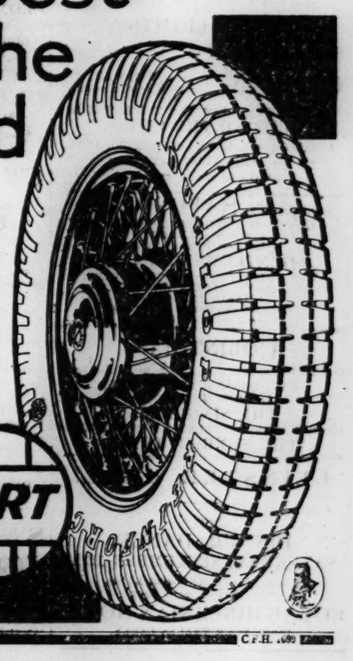

Mr. Colbert—No, I do not; but I would like some authoritative statement in regard to the word "recrudescence."

Mr. Hewson repeated that his motion did not refer to any armed action up to 1921 approved by the majority of the people, although he could find instances of where a man was murdered in this country apparently for political motives on a land question. He was agreeable to add a rider to the resolution to that effect.

Fifteen voted for the resolution and twelve against, two members not voting.

British Mycological Society.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Saturday.

THE annual meeting of the British Mycological Society was opened in Belfast to-day, and will be continued until September 12. Thirty-six members of the Society arrived from cross-Channel centres, and were met by prominent members of the Belfast Naturalists' Field Club. This is the first visit the Society, which has a world-wide reputation, has paid to Belfast, although it met twice previously in Dublin. The members are interested in the study of fungi and diseases of plants. During the forays large numbers of micro-fungi are collected, especially those which are parasitic on living plants. The study of these is of great economic importance.

Members of the Society accompanied the Belfast Naturalist Field Club on their tenth field excursion this afternoon to Mountstewart. The outing took the form of a fungi foray to collect specimens of fungi. The party proceeded to Mountstewart by motor coaches, and, by kind permission of Lord Londonderry, they were afforded an opportunity of inspecting the beautiful demesne, to which a Spanish garden has been added recently.

Douglas Rector's Bereavement.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CORK, Sunday.

Canon C. E. Scott, M.A., the Rectory, Douglas, Cork, and Mrs. Scott have been tragically bereaved by the death at their home of their son, Charles W. Scott, aged thirty three, who only returned a few weeks ago on leave from Nigeria, where he held a position as District Officer in the Colonial Office Service.

Educated at St. Columba's College, Dublin, he held a commission in the Royal Irish Regiment during the later years of the war, and was severely wounded while serving in France.

His death followed a brief illness.

MYSTERY OF THE SEA.

The body of an unknown person was washed up on the Clogherhead shore last night by the high tide, and when an inquest was held to-day by Coroner P. Tallan, Dr. McKevitt deposed that the body was probably in the water for several years, as it was decomposed beyond recognition, while the hands and feet were missing. There was a circular puncture in the forehead bone, which could have been caused by a gun-shot, but the body was so old that it might be that of a war victim.

A verdict of "death from an unknown cause" was returned.

The Irish Times.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1931.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

Speaking at Cashel yesterday, Mr. Sean Lemass, T.D., said that the financial crisis in England would inevitably have serious repercussions in Ireland, and it was the duty of the Free State Government to consider what action was best to lessen its effects to their economic welfare.—(Page 5.)

An open verdict was returned at the inquest which was held on the unknown man, whose nude body was found at Siskin, near Carrickfergus, Co. Antrim.—(Page 5.)

The conduct of the Northern Ireland Ministry of Finance regarding the drainage of Lough Erne was stigmatised at the meeting of the Lough Erne Drainage Board as "a stupid, unprecedented farce."—(Page 5.)

The floods in the Dublin and Little Bray areas are subsiding, and steps are being taken, by public subscriptions, to assist the victims.—(Page 8.)

ABROAD.

A six hours' fight between armed strikers and troops and police took place in Barcelona on Saturday. After the strikers had surrendered many of them escaped.—(Page 7.)

The Chilean Government has proclaimed a state of siege for thirty days. Official news received in London states that the mutinous ships are surrendering, and that the authorities have the situation well in hand.—(Page 7.)

Kaye Don won the first heat in the Harmsworth Trophy race for motor boats at Detroit last night.—(Page 7.)

At Manchester on Saturday Summer Princess won the Prince Edward Handicap.—(Page 10.)

At Folkestone The Stalker won the Stayers' Handicap.—(Page 10.)

FINANCIAL.

In Lombard street on Saturday loans over the week-end were offered at 3 p.c. and under. Discount rates were easy, with fine three months' bills 4⅛-3/16 p.c. No bullion operations were reported at the Bank.—(Page 12.)

New York was closed on Saturday, and will be closed again to-day.—(Page 12.)

Fruits of Freedom.

The centre of gravity of Spanish affairs has returned from the Basque provinces to Catalonia, and from the religious to the social field. During the past few days a state of civil war has existed in the streets of Barcelona. It is directly due to the activities of the formidable Syndicalist organisation, which has provided both Spain proper and the Catalonian Generalidad with the most serious obstacles to their peace since Don Alfonso made his hurried departure. That organisation makes no secret of its ambitions. A republican Spain is not sufficient for it; the country, according to its subversive programme, must realise Lenin's prophecy of the "Western Russia." The Syndicalists claim no spiritual allegiance to Russia; they reject the ideals of Stalin and his compeers; but they declare themselves frankly Communist, and their policy tries to achieve itself by the Communist processes of sabotage, bloodshed and revolution. In this respect they are at variance with the orderly and constitutional Spanish Socialists, who form the bulwark of the present moderate Administration. They wield an enormous power for destruction, and the general chaos which followed the advent of republican government furnished them with every opportunity to let it loose. Their influence extends throughout every quarter of the Republic, but hitherto has manifested itself most furiously in Barcelona, which, being the industrial centre of the Spanish peninsula, offers the fairest field for proletarian outbursts.

Syndicalism finds its chief weapon in the strike. Spanish and Catalonian history for five months has been a record of one strike after another—all designed to paralyse the peaceful efforts of the Republican Administration. The latest recrudescence of trouble dates from last Monday, when a number of workmen, engaged in the repair of telephone wires damaged by strikers, were attacked at Saragossa. Police who were protecting the workers returned the fire, incidentally killing an innocent bystander and wounding several others. On Tuesday, in retaliation, the Syndicalist Union declared a general strike at Saragossa. At about the same time a manifesto, issued by the Barcelona wing of the Union, struck a strange note in subversive politics. Whereas it made the usual violent attack on the Republican Government, it condemned in the strongest terms all efforts to further the Syndicalist cause by violence. Peaceful means, however, run counter to the nature of Communism, and it is not surprising that the exhortation bore little fruit. Simultaneously with the declaration of a general strike, serious rioting broke out in Saragossa and in Cartagena. On the following day disorder spread to Barcelona, where a number of Syndicalist prisoners, who were on hunger strike in the jail, tried to set fire to their quarters, and inspired a mob to besiege the building. The riot was put down without much difficulty, but, as a direct consequence of it, the general strike was extended from Saragossa to Barcelona.

Thus the Catalonian capital was assailed at once by commercial paralysis and by civil war. Thursday last was a day of terror. Bullets swept the city; communications were cut, and a mob of three hundred thousand strikers infested the streets. On Friday the troops stationed in the neighbourhood were called out to assist the police; naval and military reinforcements were summoned, and Barcelona for the space of a day presented a scene of the wildest chaos. During that evening the hopes of orderly citizens were raised when the Syndicalist leaders who had called the general strike declared it at an end; but Saturday brought a resumption of the stoppage, and the latest reports indicate that Barcelona, so far as supplies and communications are concerned, is virtually a dead city. It is easy to start an insurrection, but it taxes the power of the strongest to stop an insurrection once it has started; and it seems that the Syndicalist leaders, though they can organise their followers for subversive ends, can exert no check upon their destructive passions. For the present, at least, the authorities appear to have got the upper hand, but a renewal of violence can be expected at any moment. Hitherto, at a modest estimate, twenty persons have been killed; fifty have been injured, and many hundreds are under arrest. Moreover, unless the authorities bring the situation thoroughly under control, the agony of famine must be added to the unfortunate city's other ills. Certainly, the pendulum of public sentiment in Spain has swung to a bitter extreme.

The American Farrago.

In the fiscal year which ended in June the number of emigrants from Europe to the United States was lower than any total recorded in the past seventy years. The significance of this remarkable decrease is illustrated by the comparative figures issued by the American Labour Department, which show that, in the years of unrestricted immigration, two hundred unskilled labourers entered the country where three enter now. In 1914—when the number of immigrants was over one million, as against one hundred thousand in 1930-31—three countries in America contributed a greater number in one month than did the whole of Europe in the last year. While these figures must be attributed in some degree to the policy of restricted immigration, it is evident that this policy is not the only factor in the decline. Although the quotas of outside countries have been reduced substantially, many of them have not contributed the number allotted, and—a still more remarkable phenomenon—more than sixty thousand aliens quitted the shores of America during the year under review. Many of these men and women were on their way to Ireland, and their return may create a new problem in a country which, during the last 120 years, has sent from four to five millions of its people across the Atlantic. Ireland, however, is not the only country to be caught in the back-wash of the emigration wave, and the changed conditions have led thoughtful Americans to the conclusion that the mixture of bloods in their country is now complete. If America is, indeed, about to assume homogeneity, what new race will she bring forth? The world will hope to see emerge from the farrago a new America informed with the better parts of those old creeds and cultures whose adherents the country has taken to herself in the years of formation; but, if this hope is to be fulfilled, America must put her house in order. The dark corners must be made light, the structure swept and garnished. Lawlessness and crime flourish in American cities, but the suppression of the "gangster" will not put an end to the social problem. The negro population of the United States numbers more than eleven millions, and it is on the move northwards—the greatest exodus, according to a negro pastor, since Israel left Egypt. In the weight of numbers, the growing ambition, and the alien culture of the coloured people America long has had grave cause for concern. Their tendency to invade the populous centres of the north is as disquieting as it is new.

Vampires.

New, or at least mysterious, diseases are a feature of our artificial times, and the latest has inflicted itself upon the Island of Trinidad. The Correspondent of The Times reports that this disease is causing many deaths among human beings and animals. The symptoms in human beings resemble those of infantile paralysis, and death occurs within four or five days from the first attack. In animals the disease has been diagnosed as botulism, but the most recent experiments do not support this view. They suggest that in both cases, human and animal, the virus is carried by some sort of bite; and suspicion has fallen upon that already ill-famed creature, the vampire bat. Bats are common throughout the world, but the vampire species flourishes mainly in Central and South America, and it abounds in Trinidad. No doubt, its unholy reputation is based largely upon that secular tradition of Central Europe which gave Mr. Bram Stoker his blood-curdling plot for "Dracula." The peasants of the Danube still lock their doors at night against those dreadful things—once men and women—which emerge from their graves to suck the blood of sleeping persons, and so retain a hideous and nocturnal vitality throughout the ages. Even in seventeenth-century England corpses suspected of vampirism were disinterred, pierced with a stake, and re-buried at cross-roads. This tradition came to be fastened upon the vampire bat, which bites human beings, but, apart from its sinister aspect is, perhaps, neither more nor less dangerous than a mosquito. In the case of the Trinidad bats, however, a special horror is furnished by the suggestion that they are suffering from rabies. It seems that rabies in bats was the proved cause of many recent deaths among cattle in Brazil. Here surely "Dracula" is outdone. A sane vampire, with all its legendary associations, is bad enough; but a mad vampire—ugh!

Watchers of the Sky.

A telescope now under construction in America will enlarge greatly the scope of astronomical photography. To the layman it may come as something of a disappointment; for size is his criterion in the judgment of scientific instruments, and the new telescope will be much smaller than its compeer at Mount Wilson. Its forty-inch mirror, however, will photograph sky sections in which the clear area will be six times greater in diameter than that which can be obtained by the largest telescope at present in existence. The instrument, with its range of 1,500,000,000 light years, will photograph millions of individual stars in the spiral nebulæ, which correspond to the Milky Way in our own stellar system. While the forward march of scientific astronomy thus promises to deprive innumerable stars of the anonymity which their great distance from the earth has assured them hitherto, we learn with sympathetic interest that the day of the amateur astronomer's triumphs is not yet over. When a farmer on a melon ranch in California, engaged in the study of the heavens through his humble three-inch telescope, observed a nebulous hazy star near the Constellation of Leo, he did not realise at first that he had discovered a comet unknown to science. Yet so the matter proved; for when, later on the same day, he noticed that the supposed star had changed its position, he referred the problem to the Mount Wilson Observatory. Two photographs taken there confirmed his statement, and "Nagata's Comet" has placed its discoverer upon the scroll of astronomical fame.

QUEEN OF SHEBA'S MINES.

BIG GAME HUNTER'S CLAIM.

The claim that he has located one of the ancient treasure mines of the Queen of Sheba is made by Mr. Frank Hayter, a big-game hunter, who has just returned to England from Central Africa. From a cavern hidden in unexplored country, 320 miles due west of Addis Ababa, Mr. Hayter has brought back uncut rubies, diamonds, platinum and gold.

The expedition was started in 1930, when an English mining engineer obtained possession of an old map from an Arab. The engineer, believing that the map was a clue to Sheba's gold, approached Mr. Hayter, who was in Addis Ababa, and they decided to investigate.

"I am sure it is one of the caverns from which the Queen of Sheba drew her great wealth," Mr. Hayter said yesterday. "I am going off to Abyssinia again in a few months' time to try to find the reef from which was washed the alluvial gold I discovered in the cave."

TREASURY DESCRIBED.

Describing his discovery in the cavern, Mr. Hayter said that he followed a rough path and came to the margin of a tiny stream, which disappeared through a rift in a wall of rock. "With considerable difficulty we squeezed through the narrow aperture into which the stream disappeared, and at last we were inside, and resting on a flat bed of rock," he said. "When my eyes became accustomed to the darkness I saw hundreds of tiny spots of red light twinkling in the candle flame. As I went towards them the points seemed to fade, and finally they vanished.

"I pointed my torch to where I had seen the spots of light, and what a surprise we all had! As I moved towards these glowing objects the flashes became almost dazzling. I picked up a small pebble to examine it more closely, but dropped it as if it had been a red-hot coal, for as it passed the torchlight it flashed in my hand. Strange as it may seem, it was not until that moment that I had the faintest suspicion that these pebbles were precious stones, and, despite the fact that I believed myself to be in Sheba's treasure mine, I had stumbled on a hoard of uncut rubies. There were thousands of them, ranging from little fellows no bigger than a pin's head up to beautiful stones bigger than a pea. From that moment until Omar, the Arab guide, informed me that it was long past sunset I sat among those rubies, picking out stones of the best quality and putting them into my haversack.

CHISEL-MARKED SLABS.

"I conceived the idea of exploring the left-hand portion of the cavern, where I found huge slabs of rock on the ground, with rough chisel marks still on them. The largest of the slabs must have been nearly forty feet thick."

Mr. Hayter said that he saw ancient carvings on the walls, and on either side were entrances to other galleries, in which he found a lot of dull stones, which he thought were inferior rubies, but which were later found to be rose diamonds of the first water.

LONDON PLAY REVIVAL.

"THE SILVER BOX".

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.
LONDON, Sunday.

"The Silver Box," Mr. Galsworthy's well-known play, has been revived again for a London production, this time at the Savoy Theatre, where it has been given a warm reception. The revival is notable for the magnificent acting of Miss Nancy Price, as the charwoman, Mrs. Jones; while Mr. Norman McKinnel plays the navvy husband with great force. Excellent support is given to these two leading players by Miss Mabel Russell, Mr. Wilfred Babbage, and Mr. Lawrence Hanray. The fine acting stirred the audience to quite a pitch of enthusiasm.

WEATHER FORECAST.

General Inference.—A ridge of high pressure off West Ireland is moving slowly eastward. Weather will be quiet and mainly fine.

North-West, North-East, South-East and South-West Ireland.—Light, variable wind; fine; local morning fog; moderate day temperature; ground frost locally at night.

Irish Sea and St. George's Channel.—Light north-west to variable breeze; mainly fine; visibility mainly good, but local coast mist or fog early; sea slight.

Australian Scots, recently invited by the Victorian Government to join a regiment to be known as the Victorian-Scottish Volunteers, are protesting because they have been issued with khaki trousers instead of the traditional kilt, says Reuter from Melbourne. The pipers have refused to play in trousers.

COURT AND PERSONAL.

The King and Queen have only the Duke and Duchess of York and their little granddaughters with them this week at Balmoral Castle, Prince George having left for London at the end of last week. The Queen will start for Yorkshire next Monday, and will be the guest of Princess Mary and the Earl of Harewood at Harewood House, Leeds, for about a week. This will be Her Majesty's first visit to Harewood House.

The King and Queen of Bulgaria, Prince Cyril, Princess Eudoxia and Prince and Princess Albert Eugene of Wurtemburg had a trying experience last week, when compelled by storm to land from their motor boat on a desolate part of the shore of the Black Sea, near Burghas. They were obliged to spend the night in the open, round a fire lighted for them by some shepherds.

King George of Greece and Princess Helena of Rumania, who, having been paying visits to Scotland, have returned to London.

The Hungarian Minister has left London on a month's leave. The Chinese Minister has left London for Geneva. The Egyptian Minister has arrived in Paris from London, and will attend the Orientalists' Congress, which will be held next month at Leyden.

General the Earl of Cavan and the Countess of Cavan have returned to London from Le Touquet. Priscilla Countess Annesley has returned to Maidenhead from Ireland. Lord Charnwood made a short stay in London on his return from the Continent, and has now joined Lady Charnwood at Stowe House, Lichfield. Lord and Lady Templemore have returned to Upton House, Alresford, from Dunbrody Park, County Wexford. Earl and Countess Winterton have returned from the Continent, and will arrive in London to-day.

The baptism took place at St. James's, Spanish place, of the infant son of Viscount and Viscountess Ikerrin, and grandson of the Earl and Countess of Carrick. The Rev. Father Boustead officiated, and the sponsors were the Marquess of Bute, Lady June Charlton, the Hon. Evan Morgan, Miss Dorothea Donoghue and Mr. Lionel Woodforde. The child, who will bear the title of Baron Butler, received the names Brian Stuart Theobald Somerset Caher.

The engagement is announced between Brendan E. W. Robinson, younger son of the late Mr. Herbert W. Robinson and of Mrs. Robinson, of "Mawley," Cleobury Mortimer, Shropshire, and "Biddy," eldest daughter of the late Senator Martin FitzGerald, of "Ardilea," and of Mrs. FitzGerald, of Danesfield, Ailesbury road, Dublin.

A marriage has been arranged, and will take place at Colombo, Ceylon, about 27th October, between Captain P. L. O'Neill, of the Indian Medical Service at Cannanore, and late of Castledermot, Co. Kildare, and Dr. Josephine Walshe, of Kiltimagh, Co. Mayo.

The marriage of Edgar Martin Deale and Ruth Margaret Doran will take place on September 16th at Charleston Road Methodist Church at 8 a.m.

Doctor E. A. Magennis has returned to 70 Merrion square.

LONDON LETTER.

THE GOVERNMENT'S LIFE.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
SUNDAY NIGHT.

The duration of the National Government's life is much discussed in political circles, and among Conservatives the opinion is growing that a long life would not be advisable, though everything must depend upon the course of events. Conservative "die-hards" hold firmly to the idea that an early general election is necessary; otherwise the errors of the late Labour Government will be forgotten, and its sins will be visited upon the National Government. In some quarters a view is taken that the country requires a period of quiet, steady governing, in which greater attention will be given to administration and less to legislation. The country has been suffering, in the opinion of these thinkers, from a plethora of lawmaking, and from the adoption of so many measures involving the expenditure of large sums of public money.

Election Prospects.

Nevertheless, the possibility of a general election in the autumn is not neglected by the different parties, and preparations are going on apace in all the party organisations. Party agents in the country have been warned to be ready in the case of emergency, and the Labour Party already has opened a campaign in London. The new register of the electorate will become operative on October 15th, and it will be on that register that the election, if it takes place this year, will be fought. The Liberals, it is said, are not anxious for a general election, but this has been their consistent attitude ever since the last election.

The Conservative Rally.

An urgent whip has been sent out to all Conservative members of the House of Commons, warning them that they must be constant in their attendance during the coming sittings. A steady majority is essential to the maintenance of the National Government, and slackness in attendance is likely to have a bad effect. It is expected that the sittings, which will open on Tuesday, may continue for four or five weeks, and during that period there will be a number of important divisions. The Opposition in all probability will watch for an opportunity to defeat the Government, and, in such an event, the situation would become grave. Fortunately, there is a feeling in the Conservative Party that it must give Mr. Baldwin every possible ounce of support, and that this will be best demonstrated in the division lobbies.

Sunday Performances.

Nobody appears to know what will happen to the Sunday Performances Bill, introduced to legalise the opening of picture houses on Sunday; but the position of the measure probably will be made clear during the week. Liberal opposition to the bill was very strong, but it is understood that the official section of the party has moderated its tone, and may decide to withdraw its objection. The Lord's Day Observance Society, however, is proceeding with its opposition to the measure, and has prepared an immense petition, said to be ten miles long and to be signed by nearly one and a half million people. This will be presented to the Prime Minister and the House of Commons. A rather important point is that Sir Thomas Inskip, the new Solicitor-General, is President of the Lord's Day Observance Society, and, as such, the leader of the opposition to the bill.

The Round Table Conference.

The re-opening of the proceedings in connection with the India Round Table Conference to-morrow at St. James's Palace will be devoid of ceremony, inasmuch as the Federal Structure Committee simply will resume its work at the point where it left off some months ago. This Committee is drawing up a scheme for federation, and as soon as its work is completed will submit it to the full Conference for approval and adoption. Lord Sankey will preside over the deliberations of the Committee, and among those who will attend are Mr. Arthur Henderson, Mr. Wedgwood Benn and Mr. Lees Smith, representing the Labour Opposition. In political circles it is thought that the Conference is unlikely to make any great headway when the time comes for a full assembly, because the question of safeguards for the minorities continues to be a formidable stumbling block. In this connection it is said that the Moslem representatives are determined to demand strong safeguards for their people, but are not hopeful that they will secure them.

Danger in Spain.

News received yesterday in official quarters from Spain reveals that the situation in that country is far more serious than many people suppose. Transport generally is chaotic; industry is at a standstill in many big centres, and there is a prospect of a shortage of food in several districts. Barcelona is in a state approaching anarchy, and all the indications point to further attempts at a Communist revolutionary movement. The public is becoming affected, and there is a general tendency to withdraw savings from the banks, while many people are trying to realise their property and leave the country. People applying for the issue of passports are warned of the dangers that may confront them on entering the country.

Unemployment in all Lands.

Statistics compiled by the International Labour Office of the League of Nations estimate that the number of unemployed in the world, coming under the purview of the League during the coming winter, will approach twenty-five millions. The United States is expected to have ten million workless, and Germany seven millions. A programme of public relief work prepared for the Labour Office is estimated to provide work for 550,000,000 days. This includes the building of an international road system in Europe, with main arteries from Paris to Athens, and from Paris to Moscow, with the provision of a number of important cross-roads. Germany intends to build roads, power stations, flood prevention works, and to develop agriculture, while Belgium will build roads and power stations, will develop canals, and will undertake the electrification of her railway system. Turkey will construct roads, railways, bridges, harbour works, and power stations. All the suggested plans have been aproved by the European Economic Union, which proposes to help by transferring workers seeking employment to places where they are most needed.

Police Pay.

Sir Herbert Samuel, the Home Secretary, will meet some four hundred representatives of the police to-morrow from every station in the Metropolitan district. His object is to explain the proposed cut in police pay. It is said that these cuts will amount to virtually 12½ per cent., one part of the cut coming into effect at once, and the other in a few months' time. Strong protests will be made by the representatives, but the feeling is that the cuts will come into operation as proposed. I rather think that public opinion is opposed to cuts of such a great extent in the pay of the police. It will be recalled that, when the police pay was increased some few years ago, the idea was to induce men of good standing to enter the ranks. This has been accomplished, and, in the opinion of these men, it is scarcely fair that they should now suffer a considerable diminution of pay.

MAN'S CONQUEST OF THE AIR.

FOUR HUNDRED MILES AN HOUR ATTAINED OVER THE SOLENT.

BRILLIANT FLYING BY BRITISH PILOTS.

YESTERDAY'S TEST OF SCHNEIDER CUP 'PLANES.

SPEEDS of over four hundred miles an hour were attained yesterday by two of Britain's Schneider Trophy pilots in test flights over the Solent.

The officers concerned in this wonderful feat were Flight-Lieutenants Stainforth and Boothman, flying S.6B machines, each fitted with two thousand horse-power engines.

Some idea of what is meant by a speed of 400 miles an hour may be obtained from a glance at the accompanying map.

Map showing a radius of 400 miles from Dublin. Any point on the curve could be reached in one hour from Dublin at the speed attained yesterday by the Schneider pilots.

At this speed it would be possible to fly from Dublin to the Orkney Islands in one hour:—

DUBLIN TO LONDON	45 Minutes.
,, ,, PARIS	1 Hour 15 Minutes.
,, ,, ROME	3 Hours.
,, ,, EDINBURGH	35 Minutes.
,, ,, CORK	22 Minutes.
,, ,, BELFAST	16 Minutes.

Yesterday's flights were made under ideal conditions, but it is noteworthy that the engines were not those designed for actual participation in the Schneider race.

"STRANGE CREATURES OF THE SKY."

A BLUE and silver seaplane flashing like some strange meteor across the sunlit sky, screeching as if it were a wild beast, soaring upwards as if it would leave this planet, rolling majestically among the fleecy clouds and then dropping out of the mist, to return once more to a startled world.

Thousands of people who watched this wonderful, yet terrifying, sight at Calshot yesterday were seeing what Italy and France would have been up against had they decided to compete with Great Britain for the Schneider Trophy, and what can be seen next Saturday when we go out to win the trophy.

FLIGHT-LIEUTENANT G. STAINFORTH.

The man who sat in the cockpit of the wonder 'plane was Flight-Lieutenant George Stainforth, and the machine was the Rolls-Royce S6B, one of three seaplanes built specially for this year's contest.

NERVES OF STEEL.

For twenty minutes he gave the most impressive exhibition of high-speed flying that has probably ever been seen.

"George," as he is known affectionately among his colleagues, is the crack pilot, who would have flown the Gloster Napier 6 in the race two years ago, but the machine was not ready in time. He did, however, establish a new world speed record on the machine a few days later.

Flight-Lieutenant Stainforth is a pilot with nerves of steel—no one has ever seen him flurried.

He inspires confidence among others by his complete mastery of the machine under his control. His young wife is always present when he goes out in one of the racing machines. She never has the slightest fear for his safety. She was with two women friends to-day when her husband astonished thousands of people who were gathered along the Calshot beach and on the sands on the opposite shore.

There is an understanding that, unless it is considered absolutely essential, there will be no high speed flying during certain hours on Sundays at Calshot. So perfect, however, were the conditions after nearly ten days of appalling weather that permission was given to-day for the high speed flight to put in as many practice flights as possible; for only a few more days remain before the engines to be used in the race will have to be installed, and it is essential that the pilots should make themselves familiar with the course over which the race will be flown.

There had been three flights before Flight-Lieutenant Stainforth went up at one o'clock. He was carrying a full load of petrol, and one of his duties was to test the consumption of fuel. The direction of the wind made it necessary to take the machine out to Lee-on-Solent on a pontoon.

Holiday-makers basking in the sunshine were suddenly awakened to life by the roar of the 'plane's 2,000 horse-power engines. Away in the distance they could see the seaplane taxi-ing, and then, from the shower of spray which she threw up around her, the S 6 B rose into the air.

Stainforth climbed easily to a height of about five hundred feet and came screeching across the aerodrome. The next moment he was but a speck silhouetted against the clouds over the Isle of Wight.

For a few minutes he would be lost in the blue haze, but the music of the engines could still be heard. On the Isle of Wight, and across at Portsmouth and Southsea, people left their homes to watch the monarch of the air. "There he comes" would be the excited cry, and again Stainforth would come flashing across the sky flat out, the smoke from the exhaust trailing like a ribbon four or five miles long, and giving a weird impression that this seaplane was some strange creature of the sky.

"FEAR AND EXCITEMENT."

"We assembled with fear and excitement," telephones a reporter, "as Stainforth came screaming low over Calshot Castle with the throttle full open at a speed of over 400 miles an hour.

"We stood breathless as he nosed upwards into the sky over Southampton, climbing at an incredible speed to a height of over two thousand feet. It was soul-inspiring. Stainforth was the hero of the hour when he alighted after his superb effort.

Just previously Flight-Lieutenant Long had made the first flight on the S 6 A since it had been reconditioned.

This is the machine which was badly damaged and sank while being tried out by Flight-Lieutenant Hope.

Flight-Lieutenant Long handled the machine with great skill. With slight modifications the 'plane is now in perfect condition. Stainforth and Boothman had each made a flight on an S 5 before breakfast.

400 MILES AN HOUR.

The climax of a thrilling day came as the sun was setting.

Flight-Lieutenant Boothman, on the S 6 B, made an awe-inspiring flight, carrying out the precise conditions which have to be followed in the actual race. He took off with a full load, made a flight, alighted on the water, taxied for two minutes and then rose again. Those who saw the flight will never forget it. He encircled the heavens with the reflection from the sun tingeing the clouds a deep crimson, while fumes from the exhaust played round the machine as it flashed along.

Ships on the Solent had navigation lights twinkling in the gathering dusk when Boothman made his landing on the lee side of Southampton Water. The darkness was so advanced that he was hidden from the view of those who watched from Calshot. He was in the air for twenty minutes with the throttle full open, and for the greater part of the time was speeding at quite 400 miles an hour.

It was a magnificent end to a thrilling day.

Remarking that the gun was dangerous to the defendant and everybody else, Captain Gosselin, R.M., at Castlederg Petty Sessions on Saturday, ordered the forefiture of a single-barrelled, breech-loading gun, the property of Joseph Catterson, Lisleen, and for which he held no permit. A fine of 10s. was also imposed.

Empty Larders in Flooded Houses.

DUBLIN FIRMS OFFER OF FREE BREAD.

THE distress caused in Dublin as a result of the heavy flooding last Thursday and Friday is the principal concern of the municipal authorities at the moment, and already efforts are being made to alleviate the hardships and suffering, particularly among the poorer classes. As a result of the appeal issued on Friday by the Deputy Lord Mayor (Dr. Myles Keogh) subscriptions are being sent in from many sources.

Among the offers received by the Deputy Lord Mayor was one from a firm of Dublin bakers, who stated in a letter that they will be prepared to supply bread for the people in the afflicted areas free, and the members of the Corporation were asked to make the necessary arrangements to have it distributed.

The Lord Mayor arrived in Dublin on Saturday and made a tour of the affected areas. He appealed to all the citizens to contribute to the relief fund according to means, and pointed out that about £1,000 was immediately required for the purchase of beds and bedding. He added that about 400 houses in the city had been flooded, and in many instances he found empty larders.

DAMP HOUSES.

Although the floods are subsiding rapidly, many of the houses are yet uninhabitable. The walls and floors are damp, and the receding water left behind deposits of mud and gravel which will have to be cleared out before the inhabitants can return to their homes. In many cases it will be several days, and in some cases weeks, before the people can return to the houses, and in the meantime they are sleeping in the local schools, where everything is being done to make them as comfortable as possible. Fires are being provided in the schools so that the poor people may cook their food.

St. Mary's Church, Donnybrook, which suffered also from the flooding, was found to be in such a bad condition from mud and gravel deposits on the floors that the Sunday Services were conducted in the drill hall of the Masonic Girls' School, Merrion road.

The damage caused by the floods within the area of the Rathmines Waterworks at Bohernabreena is estimated at £20,000. The reservoir itself is intact, but the supply has been cut off from Lower Rathmines and Rathgar and other areas served from the waterworks, as a result of the bursting of the main supply pipes. It is hoped, however, to have the supply of water restored to the districts to-day.

FISHERMEN'S LOSSES.

Throughout Saturday calls were still being made on the Fire Brigade to pump out water in certain areas in Dublin, where the drains were still choked and water was collecting in the streets and houses. In the afternoon most of the water had been cleared away.

The principal sufferers in the Ringsend area were fishermen, whose boats were smashed by heavy waves and floating wreckage. In addition to the fishing boats, two motor boats and some yachts have been destroyed.

President Cosgrave paid a visit to the flooded areas in Bray on Saturday, and afterwards sent a subscription to the local relief fund, which now amounts to £500.

At all the Masses yesterday in the Church of the Holy Name, Beechwood avenue, Ranelagh, a collection was made in aid of the sufferers in the Milltown district.

DRIVER CRASHES INTO CROWD.

SPECTATOR KILLED AT MOTOR RACE.

MILAN, Sunday.

Italy's most famous motor Grand Prix was marred by a fatal accident in the preliminary rounds, when Etancelin, the French ace, driving an Alfa Romeo, got into a bad skid, his car charging the crowd when travelling at a high speed.

One of the spectators was killed and fourteen injured. Although himself unhurt, Etancelin retired from the race, which resulted in an all-Italian victory, Fagioli winning on a Maserati.

The race was especially notable this year, as the three largest motor racing firms on the Continent, the Bugattis, Maseratis and Alfa Romeos, had entered a newer and faster machine than ever before, and there was great rivalry as to whose new model would prove victorious. The unfortunate mishap to Etancelin may well have cost the Alfa Romeos the race, as he was one of their crack drivers.

Fagioli's time for the 150-mile course was 1 hour 32 mins. 39 secs., or an average of over 97 miles an hour, a most remarkable achievement. Second to him was Borzacchini (Alfa Romeo), then came Varzi (Bugatti) and Nuvolari (Alfa Romeo).

In the race for cars of a smaller capacity, Scaron, on an Amilcar, won, as he was generally expected to do.

This race was run over a shorter distance, about 86 miles, which Scaron covered in one hour and forty-seven seconds, to average about 84 miles an hour.

The other placings were:—Premoli (Salmson), Arco (Amilcar), Cabantous (Caban), and Klinger (Maserati).

CARS IN COLLISION.

PASSENGERS ESCAPE WITH A SHAKING.

Seven persons had a fortunate escape from injury early this morning, when a motor car and taxi-cab collided at the corner of Parnell street and O'Connell street. Both cars were slightly damaged. There were four persons in the motor car and three in the taxi-cab, and all got a severe shaking.

BRITISH BOND ISSUE OVER-SUBSCRIBED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PARIS, Sunday.

The issue of one year British franc 4½ per Cent. Treasury Bonds, in accordance with the recent arrangement for the protection of sterling, has now been completely covered by applications from the French public.

Many applications, especially from abroad, have been returned or reduced in amount. The speed with which 250,000,000 franc bonds (£20,000,000) have been taken up exceeds the most optimistic forecasts.

LORD WILLINGDON'S HEALTH.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SIMLA, Sunday.

Lord Willingdon, the Viceroy, who left here on Friday evening for Dehra Dun to take a complete rest, has distinctly improved. He is suffering from a slight attack of dysentery, and his removal to the plains from the misty mountainous country here, which is unhealthy during the rainy season, was considered advisable.

SUDDEN DEATH OF SENATOR.

THE LATE MR. P. J. HOOPER.

A WELL-KNOWN DUBLIN JOURNALIST.

WE regret to announce the death of Senator P. J. Hooper, which took place at his residence, 102 Morehampton road, Donnybrook, yesterday morning. He had returned only a few days ago from a holiday at Parknasilla, and, to his friends, seemed to be in almost robust health. The immediate cause of death was, it is understood, heart trouble.

Senator Hooper, who was fifty-seven years of age, had a very active and varied career. Essentially a journalist all his life, he found time while engaged as London Correspondent of the Freeman's Journal to study law, and was called to the English Bar. Later he was elected a member of the Irish Free State Senate, and when a vacancy occurred a few months ago in the Deputy Chairmanship of the Senate he was elected to that important office.

Senator Hooper was born in Cork City, his father being the late Mr. John Hooper, editor of the Cork Daily Herald, and some time a member of the old Irish Party, under the leadership of Mr. Parnell. He joined the staff of the Freeman's Journal, and was soon transferred to the London office, where he served for twenty years, first as assistant to the late Mr. James Tuoby, and afterwards as chief.

COURTMARTIALLED.

Later he was appointed editor of the Freeman's Journal, and during the troubled period of 1920 he, with two of the directors of the paper, was sentenced by courtmartial to a period of twelve months' imprisonment in Mountjoy. They were, however, released after a few weeks. During the trouble which followed the signing of the Treaty in 1921 the Freeman's Journal and its editor had many anxious times. Mr. Hooper remained editor until the paper ceased publication in December, 1924.

Since then he was actively engaged as Irish representative of the Philadelphia Public Ledger and its allied journals. He also contributed extensively to various other publications.

At the first election to the Senate Mr. Hooper was an unsuccessful candidate, but later was returned for a period of three years. He was due to retire at the end of the present year. He proved himself a diligent and conscientious member of the House, and though he did not take part frequently in debate, he was always active where the public interests were concerned. As Deputy Chairman he took his responsibilities very seriously. He served on several committees, notably on the Courts of Justice Committee, and contributed much useful work in that connection.

A YEAR OF GRIEF.

Mr. Hooper's unexpected death is the sadder from the fact that two of his brothers died within the past nine months. One of these was Mr. John Hooper, Director of Statistics, and the other, Mr. Richard Hooper, of the Oireachtas reporting staff.

SENATOR P. J. HOOPER.

At the meeting of the Emergency Relief Committee at the Mansion House, Dublin, yesterday, the Lord Mayor proposed that the sympathy of the meeting be extended to Irish Pressmen on the death of Senator Hooper, and to his relatives.

Senator Hooper, the Lord Mayor said, was one of the best known Irish journalists, and had been raised to a position of great dignity and honour when elected Deputy Chairman of the Free State Senate, a position which he was well able to occupy. That meeting of Dublin's prominent citizens sympathised with the late Senator Hooper's relatives, and wished them comfort in their bereavement.

The resolution was passed, all present standing.

THE ALL-IRELAND HURLING FINAL.

26,000 PEOPLE SEE DRAWN GAME.

A crowd of twenty-six thousand people, who paid £2,265 for admission, were at Croke Park, Dublin, yesterday to see the All-Ireland Hurling Championship final between Cork and Kilkenny. It was a thrilling affair from start to finish.

For the first time in forty-five years the match ended in a draw, each side having scored one goal and six points. This reflects the spirit and pace at which the game was played.

The pace was so great that nearly every player broke his stick. At first it seemed that the Cork team would win by a big margin; for they started off in great style, and had a lead of one goal three points to two points scored by Kilkenny at the interval. During the second period, however, Kilkenny had their innings, and not only drew level with their opponents, but at one period they were actually leading by one point.

They will probably fight again at the same venue next Sunday.

Dublin was invaded by men from the South of Ireland. Over thirty special trains and hundreds of motor cars and 'buses brought them to the city, and they paraded the streets carrying flags and badges in their respective colours.

Two serious accidents marred the match. Robert Morrissey, aged 30, a left wing player on the Kilkenny team, had his spine badly injured, and was taken to the Mater Hospital in the Fire Brigade ambulance. It was at first thought that he had injured his knee; for as he was being helped to the touch line he kept rubbing his right knee. At the touch line he was seen to collapse.

Mrs. Annie Murray (32), of 573 North Circular road, was crushed at the gate, and was taken to the Mater Hospital.

For a description of the match see the sporting pages.

THE EGYPT'S GOLD.

HUNT NEARING END.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BREST, Sunday.

The treasure hunt carried out by the Italian salvage vessel Artiglio is nearing its end.

She put in here on Thursday to fetch special grappling tackle designed by the diver Rafaelli to lift the cases of specie from the Egypt's strong room, and left again to-day.

The sea is calm, and it is hoped this trip will be the last, as the main deck is now cleared, and all that has to be done is to dynamite the roof of the strong room. The divers will control from a depth of sixty fathoms the movements of the tackle which are to haul up some hundred cases of ingots.

Road Race Won at Over 86 M.P.H.

ANTRIM COURSE THE WORLD'S FASTEST.

THE tenth annual race for the Ulster Grand Prix, which was brought to issue on Saturday last over the usual circuit of 20½ miles in County Antrim, may at once be described as the best of the series of events that has given Ireland the distinction of holding the fastest motor cycle road race in the world. The honours of the race went to Stanley Woods, the popular Dublin rider, who won the 500 c.c. class at a speed of 85.43 miles per hour, and did a lap at 89.67 miles per hour.

This year, in Holland, Percy Hunt, who won both the junior and senior races in the Isle of Man in June last, won the Dutch Tourist Trophy race at a faster speed than had been attained in the Ulster event, and, apart from the many other interests that were involved in the race, there was a special anxiety centred in the possibility of the speed "record" being taken from the Dutch course. Despite a high wind, which retarded the riders on the parts of the course where its help would have been a benefit, and blew in their backs on the long Clady stretch, where its assistance was unneeded, and also the fact that the Ulster race is run over a longer distance, the Ulster course regained its honours. Not only was Woods's winning speed 4.38 miles per hour in excess of the Dutch average, but it was actually faster than the fastest lap of the Dutch race.

CHILIAN NAVAL REVOLT.

MUTINOUS SHIPS ATTACKED.

OFFICIAL accounts secured in London indicate that the Chilean authorities are suppressing the naval mutiny and have the situation well in hand.

The Chilean Legation yesterday received the following cablegram from Santiago:—"A state of siege for a period of one month has been promulgated throughout Chile. The official military operations have been successful, and all naval bases now are in the hands of the Government."

AEROPLANES BOMBARD WARSHIPS.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, Sunday.

The Government aeroplanes sent out against the mutinous warships at Coquimbo are reported to have sunk the cruiser Riveros. The number of lives lost is not known.

The battleship Prat is reported to have surrendered.

A furious battle is raging, with the advantage to the Government forces.

Over 500 are reported to have been killed in the naval battle at Talcahuano, but there is no confirmation of this, says an Associated Press telegram from Santiago de Chile, via New York, dated Sunday. The destroyer Almirante Riveros was sunk.

It is officially stated that the mutinous Chilean warships at Coquimbo have left that place for the north, after negotiations for a peaceful surrender at that place had failed.

At Talcahuano, says the same correspondent, the capture of the arsenal cost the rebels numerous prisoners. The forts at Vergara, Valdivia, Yerba Buena and Renaca, which were held by the rebels, have surrendered.

The correspondent at Buenos Aires of the Associated Press telegraphs that reports reaching Mendoza, near the Chilean border, early this morning, said that the loyal Talcahuano forts had had a battle with the destroyer Almirante Riveros, which went aground, and that there is a rumour that the battleship O'Higgins has been sunk, presumably at Coquimbo.

Fighting is reported at Talcahuano, Valparaiso, and Playa Ancha, a suburb of Valparaiso.

Eight rebels were killed in an unsuccessful attack on the powder magazine at Fort Punta Parra. According to a later telegram from the same source, the Navy department announces that the naval bases of Talcahuano and Valparaiso are in the hands of the Government, and that if the operation continues in the same way the rebellion will be quickly quelled. Rumours that several vessels had been sunk are denied by navy men.

At Talcahuano the capture of the arsenal cost the rebels many prisoners. Four forts held by the rebels have surrendered.

Fighting is reported at Talcahuano, Valparaiso and Playa Ancho, a suburb of Valparaiso.

1,000 BELIEVED KILLED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

NEW YORK, Sunday.

A sanguinary battle has raged throughout yesterday and to-day at Talcuhuana, Chile, between the naval rebels and the Government forces.

It is believed that about a thousand were killed, according to an Associated Press telegram from Santiago.

FOOTBALLER DIES FROM INJURIES.

WELL-KNOWN SCOTTISH INTERNATIONAL.

John Thomson, a well-known Scottish international football player, has died from injuries received at a Scottish League match played on Saturday last at Ibrox Park, Glasgow, between the Rangers and Celtic, and attended by 55,000 spectators. Thomson, who suffering a fractured skull during the second half of the game, was removed to the Victoria Infirmary, where, following an operation, he died shortly before ten o'clock the same night.

An instance of the daring, so typical of Thomson's play, led to his going down fearlessly to the feet of the Rangers centre-forward when that player broke through the Celtic defence. Thomson dived down and received the blow that fractured the skull.

Twenty-four years of age, Thomson was regarded as one of the finest goalkeepers in football, and joined Celtic Club from Bowhill Rovers, a junior organisation in Fifeshire, five years ago. He played for the Scottish League against the Football League in 1930 and 1931, and gained full international honours last season, playing for Scotland against England, Ireland and Wales.

DUBLIN TO CORK.

With reference to a report circulated on Saturday that it was proposed by the Great Southern Railways Company to "single" the line from Dublin to Cork at an early date, leaving loops at specific stations, Mr. C. E. Riley, Secretary of the G.S.R., said yesterday that he did not desire to make a statement on the matter.

KAYE DON BEATS GAR WOOD.

MOTOR BOAT TROPHY RACE.

SPEED OF NEARLY 90 M.P.H.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

DETROIT, Sunday.

WEATHER conditions were good for the first heat of the Harmsworth International Motor Boat Trophy, in which Kaye Don, piloting Lord Wakefield's Miss England II., is competing against three American boats.

The course was a bit rough, but no "sea horses" were visible when, promptly at 6.30 p.m., Kaye Don shot across the starting line six lengths ahead of Miss

KAYE DON.

America IX., the faster of Commodore Gar Wood's two entries. Miss America VIII., with George Wood at the wheel, followed closely behind.

At the end of the third lap, a distance of fifteen miles, Miss England was nearly three-quarters of a mile ahead of Miss America IX., with Miss America VIII. far in the rear.

As was generally expected, Miss England II. skidded badly at the turns and lost much ground, but her superior speed on the straight dash made up the leeway, and she never lost the lead.

Miss England's average speed for the thirty-mile triangular course was 89.913 miles per hour, a new "record" for the Harmsworth Trophy races. Kaye Don won by over a mile.

This was Garwood's first defeat in the Harmsworth Trophy Series since he was victorious with his Miss America I. in 1920.

The white-hulled Miss England II. rode the course beautifully, and although losing ground at the turns, Kaye Don took her along at the fastest speed ever seen in Detroit, his speed while going round the course for the second time reaching 93.017 miles per hour.

Gar Wood's average was 87.027 m.p.h., and his fastest lap was accomplished at 91.989 m.p.h.

FROM "THE TIMES."

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE TASK OF THE GOVERNMENT.

In a leading article The Times to-day states:—To-morrow the National Government will meet Parliament, which has been called together to meet the gravest emergency confronting this country since the War. The nature of that emergency ought by this time to be clear to every citizen. It is nothing less than the imminent danger of the depreciation of the currency, owing to the recent flight from the pound; and the primary task which awaits the House of Commons this week will be to restore confidence in the stability of sterling by the drastic reduction of expenditure and the balancing of the Budget. Much, indeed all, depends upon the spirit in which this vitally important work is undertaken, and the courage which Mr. Macdonald has already shown in insisting, in the face of the majority of his followers, that it shall be done, and done thoroughly, is a good augury to the nation; but, in view of the strenuous campaign of misrepresentation already begun by the leaders of the trade union movement, with the expert assistance of some of his late colleagues, it would be foolish to under-estimate the force of the opposition which will be encountered.

That opposition, moreover, will have the immediate advantage of the flood light of the publicity focussed upon the proceedings of the Trades Union Congress, which opens to-day at Bristol. Meanwhile, instead of assisting in this national work of restoring confidence, the leaders of the trade unions and the Parliamentary Labour Party are bent on doing all that lies in their power to make the work of the National Government more difficult. Their campaign against retrenchment in every shape or form has been supported by a hurriedly concocted counter-plan, made up of a number of expedients, which are not only ludicrously inadequate to deal with the problems of the present crisis, but also extremely damaging to the national credit.

SAVING THE POUND.

Hypnotised by the word "mobilisation," these physicians of our national finances propose to maintain the extravagant courses which have brought us to this plight, by disposing of our remaining assets, as if the selling of the family estates to spend the proceeds in riotous living were the true road to solvency.

It is essential, proceeds The Times, that every worker should be made to understand that, in the saving the pound, Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Snowden were chiefly concerned in saving his standard of life, and not the pockets of the bankers. That may need a laborious end, perhaps, even a protracted course of education, but it is certainly not impossible. Already there are signs that the rank-and-file of the workers in this country are a good deal more far-sighted than their official leaders. Mr. Macdonald and his colleagues, by their prompt and decisive action, have already gone a long way to convince the foreigner that they are able to set their house in order; they need not fear any greater difficulty in convincing the country of the necessity of the course they have adopted.

MISS AMY JOHNSON.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

RIGA, Sunday.

Miss Amy Johnson was sighted flying over Libau to-day, says a telephone message received here.

If the identification of the aeroplane is correct, Miss Johnson would appear to be much off her course.

Earlier in the day it was stated that nothing had been heard of Miss Johnson since she left Welikiji Luxi, Latvia, for Koenigsberg on the previous day.

FROM "THE TIMES" CORRESPONDENT.

BERLIN, Sunday.

Miss Amy Johnson landed at Koenigsberg, in East Prussia, this morning.

WILD WEEK-END IN BARCELONA.

STRIKERS FIGHT WITH TROOPS.

TRADE UNION HALL BESIEGED.

MANY KILLED AND WOUNDED.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

BARCELONA, Saturday.

AFTER a week of civil war, in which twenty persons have been killed, fifty injured and hundreds arrested, the city has once more been plunged into chaos by the resumption of the general strike this morning.

Despite yesterday's declaration that it had been called off, the terrorist leaders have been unable to restrain the mob passions which they have let loose, and Barcelona awoke this morning to scenes of further violence after a night disturbed by intermittent rifle firing.

The casualties in yesterday's outbreak are not yet fully known, but that many were killed and still more injured is certain. Faced by a stiff opposition from the authorities, the terrorist elements threw themselves into a last gambler's throw for victory over law and order.

SIX HOURS' BATTLE.

Besieged in their trade union headquarters, about a hundred strikers, equipped with rifles, revolvers and plentiful supplies of ammunition, fought desperately against a large force of troops and police, and held them at bay for six hours.

In the first attempt by the police to rush the building eight of their number fell before the stream of bullets.

Fighting stubbornly, the strikers retreated step by step, and at last took refuge on the roof. It was not until the authorities rushed light artillery to the scene and threatened to blow the building to atoms that the terrorists agreed to parley.

At first they flatly refused to give themselves up to the Civil Guards, but after a good deal of discussion they agreed to surrender themselves into the hands of the soldiers. As they were brought out of the building to be taken to the Prefecture shots rang out. Some of the prisoners were said to have fired on their captors.

PRISONERS ESCAPE.

A wild melée ensued, during which sixteen out of forty prisoners succeeded in making good their escape. Three strikers were killed and five seriously wounded by the police during the struggle.

Firing broke out as the lorries conveying the prisoners passed along the streets. The police brought machine guns into play from the neighbouring roofs, and members of the English Club who were watching the proceedings with characteristic disregard of danger were ordered inside their premises for safety.

Firing from windows and roofs the anarchists ambushed the police in various parts of the city, and the crackle of machine gun and rifle fire could be heard on all hands.

A running battle between terrorists and a body of police who were rushing captured snipers to the police station resulted in two of the prisoners being killed, eight seriously injured, and the escape of a number of others.

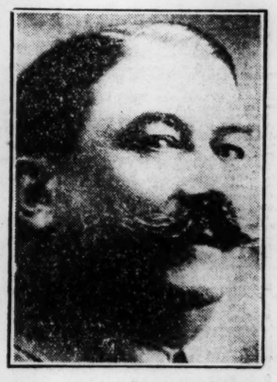

STRIKE LEADERS POWERLESS.

The strike leaders yesterday made determined efforts to call the strike off, but its resumption to-day showed that the extremists held the whip hand. Fears of renewed disturbances to-day were quickly realised. The strikers started the morning by overturning a number of omnibuses, and followed this up by tearing up tramway lines.

The Syndicalist leader, Señor Angelopestana, was arrested this morning, but was later set at liberty at the request of Colonel Macia, the veteran Catalan leader.

Over a hundred bombs were discovered by the police in the course of last night during raids on various Syndicalist meeting places. Hundreds of arrests followed, the prisoners being placed on board ships in the harbour.

Quantities of arms and ammunition, including a case of explosive bullets, were seized by the police during their search.

GENERAL BERENGUER.

A tramway driver, with a soldier as bodyguard, attempted to resume work this afternoon, but was detected by strikers and shot dead, the murderer being in turn killed by the soldier.

General Berenguer, who was Prime Minister for twelve months after General Primo de Rivera left office, and who had been detained in Segovia for several months, was brought to the Madrid military prison to-day. He occupies a cell near that of his brother, Don Frederico, who was arrested last week.

HELP FOR VICTIMS OF THE FLOODS.

400 FAMILIES HOMELESS IN DUBLIN AREA.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE'S VISIT TO LITTLE BRAY.

STEPS are being taken to afford speedy relief to the victims in the flooded areas in Dublin and Bray. A sum of over £600 has been received for the Dublin citizens' fund, but the Lord Mayor, who presided at a meeting in the Mansion House yesterday, said that they aimed at getting £5,000.

President Cosgrave paid a visit to the flooded area in Little Bray yesterday. A sum of £500 has been subscribed for the relief of the victims there.

BEDDING AND COAL FOR VICTIMS.

IN his tour of the affected areas, following his return to Dublin, the Lord Mayor saw evidence of distress everywhere; mattresses were so damp that to lie down on them would mean certain illness, and in many houses there was not a scrap to eat. The true position in which many families are placed is, according to the Lord Mayor, not sufficiently well known. Some houses will not be fit for habitation for the next few months, and during that time there will be a dearth of accommodation; for schools must be vacated at an early date.

The Lord Mayor called a meeting of citizens in the Mansion House yesterday, and public representatives and others who have played worthy parts in the relief of distress attended to give support to the launching of a general fund.

It was decided that every person driven from home who lost bedding and clothes shall be given an order to purchase a bed mattress and blankets and coal. Applications will be received at the Mansion House this morning by the special emergency committee appointed to deal with the situation. Effective steps are being taken to ensure that only persons entitled to procure such relief will be allowed to present claims.

The Committee, which is purely voluntary, and has no connection with any public body in the city, will try to measure out justice all round, and help the poor people in the unhappy circumstances.

OVERLAPPING OF WORK.

It was stated at yesterday's meeting that some other people in the city were organising relief funds, but while this may have its merits, it is urged that there should be only one fund to prevent overlapping and unnecessary confusion. Well-known people in the city are behind the Lord Mayor's appeal, which, if the public respond with the generosity which has marked the first results, will be able, it is believed, to mitigate the distress considerably. It is made clear, however, that the steps taken are to deal only with the emergency, and no consideration can yet be given to the question of paying compensation for loss of furniture and other property.

The meeting yesterday was loud in its praise of the splendid work done by voluntary helpers during the really dangerous period. Fire Brigade men and Civic Guards were especially thanked, and praise also was given to Dublin newspaper men who, on hearing the news of the calamity, went to report it, and while there assisted in the rescues. The Lord Mayor said that Dublin was proud of all those who had given a helping hand.

£3,000 NEEDED

Many letters and telephone messages have reached the Irish Times offices from convents and schools asking that thanks be given to all those who sent food, blankets, and bundles of clothes to the unfortunate victims. One such message from the St. Anne's Convent schools, where two hundred people were housed during Thursday night, says that the generosity of the people around Milltown was really remarkable, and the nuns there are thankful that, because of that help, they were able to feed and give warmth to the victims. Other messages express deepfelt gratitude for the magnificent way in which assistance was given, and so quickly.

It is calculated that about three thousand pounds will be needed to give immediate help to the victims, and the methods of distribution and organisation were discussed at the public meeting in the Mansion House yesterday.

MANSION HOUSE MEETING.

400 FAMILIES WITHOUT HOMES.

The Lord Mayor, opening the meeting at the Mansion House, said that he hoped that the fund would be sufficient to give every victim bed and bedding. He was informed that there were over four hundred families left without food or places in which to sleep. Furniture had been lost, but that meeting was called to deal with immediate relief only.

"We are not here," said the Lord Mayor, "as putting forward any claims for compensation from the public bodies, but I ask your approval and help and suggestions as to getting immediate relief of some kind. We want to get at least £5,000."

Already, he said, they had £600, which was a tribute to the Dublin public, who always responded when calamity came.

"I am hopeful," said the Lord Mayor, "that we will get a good subscription fund. We do not ask for large subscriptions, but we want everybody to contribute. I am hopeful that those people who live in areas that are never subject to the misfortune of flooding will give subscriptions more or less as thanksgiving. We want those people to send us small sums; no big subscriptions are asked."

APPLICATIONS INVITED.

The Lord Mayor suggested that victims of the flood should send in applications for assistance. Mattresses and blankets should be given to each of the victims, and they could talk about the expense later. The assistant medical officer of health for the city had told him that it was highly dangerous for people to sleep on half-wet blankets, and they should not be allowed to do so. It would take weeks to put things in order.

"It is up to us here and the citizens generally to see that these people and their children shall not be called upon to sleep on damp or dirty mattresses."

It should be remembered, said the Lord Mayor, that there is no suggestion of paying compensation from any public fund. We are here as an emergency committee.

A LORD MAYOR'S FUND.

Mr. S. T. O'Kelly, T.D., paid tributes to people who had rescued the victims of the flood. The fire brigade men worked heroically, as did the Civic Guards, and he mentioned that many Dublin Pressmen sent to report the calamity gave great assistance in taking people from flooded houses.

Councillor Gillespie took exception to the fact that another group were holding a meeting in Kilmainham to start a fund. There were three or four people he believed, trying to butt in, but he wanted people to follow the lead given by the Lord Mayor. The fund should be a Lord Mayor's fund and nothing else.

Mr. Benson described the poverty in the Milltown area, and mentioned that the members of the Milltown Golf club, when distress became widespread, collected £30 and sent it to the Sisters at St. Anne's Convent Schools.

Mr. William Norton said that any attempt to sectionalise the efforts to relieve the distress must be condemned. He said that it would be months before some people could return to their homes in Milltown, and he suggested that the Dublin Corporation, which had flats to let at Ranelagh and Hollyfield, should give them as temporary accommodation.

THE SUBSCRIPTIONS.

The Lord Mayor announced the subscriptions already received, including £50 from the wife of the Governor-General. The Lord Mayor said that it was not clear whether they should bring Bray under the scope of their appeal and provide bedding for people down there. It would be considered later on.

Mr. Robert Briscoe, T.D., suggested that poor men who assisted in the rescues should be compensated for loss of clothes. Those men had no money to buy other clothes and boots, and should be eligible for relief.

It was agreed that the meeting should form a committee to meet this morning and receive applications for relief. Every person will get an order for a mattress and blankets, and some coal to dry houses and cook food.

INCHICORE AREA.

MEETING IN ST. JAMES'S HALL.

A meeting of local residents was held in St. James's Parochial Hall, James's street, Dublin, yesterday evening for the purpose of opening a relief fund in aid of flood victims in the Inchicore and Kilmainham areas.

Judge Gleeson, K.C., who presided, said that everybody was aware of the helpless condition of the flood victims in that district. It was not their intention at that meeting to interfere with the laudable efforts of others in organising aid for flood victims.

"Our principal concern," he said, "is to help our neighbours, whose call for help is imperative, and that help must be immediate."

The chief help that was needed at the moment was by way of food, clothing and coal. The putting of the victims' houses in habitable condition would also need consideration. Again, the furniture of many of the victims had been ruined, and would have to be replaced.

The sufferings of these people, he said, must, indeed, be intense, because nearly all the damage was done in poor districts. Everybody would sympathise deeply with them in their plight. The health of the victims was likely to suffer if aid were not given promptly. He knew of the unemployment and distress prevalent generally. Everybody in different walks of life was having what might be called "a hard time," but nearly everybody could afford to subscribe something for the flood victims. Whether help would be given by any public authority or not was a problematical question. Great bodies moved slowly, and sometimes not at all.

"Whether they move or not, there is nothing that can relieve us of our duty to our neighbours, and that duty we will discharge by making a beginning now." (Applause.)

FUND OPENED.

On the motion of Alderman Lawler,

LATE NEWS.

THE NEW HOUSE OF COMMONS.

PROBABLE STRENGTH OF THE PARTIES.

The Times Parliamentary Correspondent writes to-day:—Both Houses of Parliament will reassemble to-morrow afternoon. At the worst, the Government expect to have a working majority of between 50 and 60. Leaving out of account the Speaker, the Chairman of Ways and Means and the Deputy Chairman, who do not take part in divisions, the Government can probably count on the following: Conservatives, 261; Labour, 11; Liberals, 55; Independent Liberals, 3; Independents, 6. Total, 336.

The Opposition is expected to be: Labour, 267; Independents, 9. Total, 276.

Several Ministerialists and members of the Opposition will be unavoidably absent to-morrow, but, as they are almost equally divided, their absence should have little affect on the Government's majority, which, according to the above figures, would be exactly 60.

OPPOSITION SURPRISED.

A meeting of former Ministers who are now in opposition will be held this morning. Evidence of the difficulties in which Mr. Henderson and his followers find themselves is growing, and it is not impossible that there may be no division to-morrow night, and that the Government may get their vote of confidence without opposition in the lobbies.

The speed and firmness with which the Government have handled the situation and prepared their plans have been a surprise, and, so far, it has only been possible for the Opposition to criticise the proposal to cut unemployment benefit by 10 per cent.

Apart from this, the members of the Opposition have been kept completely in the dark as to the Government scheme, and have had to confine their criticism to generalities. As the majority of the members of the Labour Cabinet supported general measures of economy and fresh taxation, it may be thought expedient not to vote against the Government until Mr. Snowden has announced the details of the Emergency Budget.

AIRCRAFT BOMB CHILEAN SUBMARINES.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.
SANTIAGO DE CHILE, Sunday.

It is announced here that Government aircraft bombed mutinous submarines assembled at Coquimbo, putting two of them out of action. The Government also claims to have put a destroyer out of action. The bombing lasted twenty minutes.

The crews of the two submarines swam ashore.

PEERAGES FOR LABOUR LEADERS.

The Political Correspondent of the Daily Herald to-day writes:—I understand that when the Government resigns His Majesty will offer peerages to Mr. Macdonald, Mr. Snowden and Mr. Thomas. The Prime Minister, I believe, will decline the honour, and will withdraw for a while from political life.

If, and when, Lord Willingdon retires it is very probable that Mr. Macdonald may be not only asked, but strongly pressed, to allow his name to be submitted to the King for appointment as Viceroy of India.

seconded by Mr. D. D. Healy, T.C., a fund was opened. Both speakers expressed deep sympathy with sufferers, as did also Mr. P. J. Munden, M.R.I.A.I., who said that he and his co-directors of the Fountain Picture House had placed that building at the Lord Mayor's disposal for a benefit performance for the flood victims.

A committee was elected to administer the fund, with Judge Gleeson as Chairman, Mr. D. D. Healy, T.C., Vice-Chairman; Mr. W. Smith, Secretary, and the Rev. Father O'Callaghan, C.C., and Mr. P. J. Medlar, T.C., Hon. Treasurers.

Subscriptions totalling £42 were handed in at the meeting.

LITTLE BRAY AREA.

At a representative meeting of the people of Bray last Saturday a working committee was appointed, of which the Earl of Meath was elected president, for the purpose of providing relief for the unfortunate people of the district who have suffered by the flood of Thursday night and Friday last.

The Rev. Chancellor Scott and the Very Rev. Canon Bowden, P.P., were appointed vice-presidents; Mr. P. J. Meghen (Commissioner), Chairman, and Mr. H. McCaull, Town Clerk, hon. secretary. Other members of the committee are:—Dr. Raverty, Messrs. Ed. Byrne, D. J. Hennessy, M. Daly, J. Cleary, J. W. Lefroy, J. McGarry, S. Moore, T.D.; D. G. O'Mahony, T.D.; J. Everett, T.D.; Miss Scott, Mrs. Day, Mrs. Roantree, Mrs. Le Fanu, Mrs. Byrne, Mrs. J. Cleary, the Misses Raverty, Mr. Hennessy, G. D. Findlater, Mrs. Dalino, Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. McCaull.

Catering, clothing, accommodation and inspection sub-committees were formed.

The members of the several committees met yesterday in the Town Hall and made arrangements for sections to visit the places where the sufferers are located.

It was stated that over £500 in subscriptions has already been received, and that bedding for the sufferers in Bray has been supplied; also bread from Messrs. Johnson, Mooney and O'Brien.

PRESIDENT COSGRAVE ON THE SCENE.

President Cosgrave, Mr. Mulcahy, Minister for Local Government and Public Health, and The O'Mahony, T.D., visited the flooded areas in Little Bray yesterday. They were astonished at the amount of damage done, and they expressed deep sympathy with the distress and suffering caused to the poor residents.

President Cosgrave gave a donation of £10 to the relief fund.

The Earl of Meath presided at a meeting of the Relief Committee yesterday, at which it was stated that 350 persons were still being accommodated in the International Hotel.

The Chairman pointed out the necessity of having these people restored to their homes as soon as their dwellings were made habitable.

The Rev. Father Gleeson, C.C., said that some of the houses were now ready for occupation. He paid a tribute to the men who had been driven out by the floods for the splendid efforts they had made to make their homes clean and tidy.

It was also stated that the most urgent need of the moment was coal, because some families who had not left their homes were without coal since Friday. One child is ill with pneumonia as a result of the bad conditions.

Mr. McCaull (Secretary of the Relief Committee) mentioned that the Earl of Meath had given £20, in addition to his subscription to the general fund, in order to provide coal. About three tons had been delivered to the most deserving cases on Saturday. It was decided to grant £20 from the general relief fund for the provision of coal.

The Very Rev. Canon Bowden, P.P., stated that the Sisters of Charity, Ravenswell, were prepared to give two meals a day to the school children in the distressed area.

The O'Mahony gave a donation of £10.

The factory of Messrs. W. and E. W. Houghton, manufacturers of Felix Boot Polish, Lower Dargle road, was flooded in parts to the height of six feet. It was stated by a member of the firm that it was impossible to accurately estimate the damage done, but that the actual loss caused by the flood itself would be about £500. The consequential stoppage of work would entail a loss of something between £700 and £500. It was hoped that the factory would be in full swing again by the end of this week.

T.U.C.'S VIEW OF PATRIOTISM.

ATTACK ON VESTED INTERESTS.

ENTHUSIASTIC scenes were witnessed at Bristol last night, preliminary to the Trade Union Congress which opens there to-day. The affiliated membership is 3,719,401, a decrease of 24,919 compared with that of last year. There will be 587 delegates as against 606 last year.

It is hoped that Mr. Arthur Henderson, leader of the Opposition, will address Congress on Thursday morning and return to London in time for the Budget statement that afternoon. It is possible that the main debate will be adjourned until Friday to enable Congress to discuss Mr. Snowden's Budget speech. There will be no consideration of the Trade Union Congress policy until Thursday.

CREATING "PANIC."

Mr. Arthur Hayday, M.P., Chairman of the Congress, presided at last night's demonstration. He said that the industrial and political wings of the Labour movement had been able to take up an outstanding position in consequence of the prolonged and vicious attacks which had been made on the standards of life and well-being of the people. These attacks had been going on for some time, and they had culminated in the banding together of all the most vicious forms of vested interests. Attempts had been made to create a sense of panic in the public mind, as though the present situation was a sudden crisis arising in twenty-four hours. That was all nonsense. The trade union movement accepted the grave responsibility that devolved upon it, of standing up in defence of those measures of social protection, and those standards for which so many of their people had made great sacrifices.

They were told that they were anti-patriotic. It was because they were patriotic and keenly sensitive of responsibility to the nation that they were prepared to defend and fight for the people who were, after all, the nation. If there is anything in this talk about class prejudice, Mr. Hayday said, it is emphasised by the acts of those vested interests which have been deliberately heading for a crash. If we have to choose, there is only one choice for us to make.

TOWARDS SOCIALISM.

Mr. J. Bromley, M.P., said that almost in the twinkling of an eye the whole political outlook had changed. The Labour movement had become very apathetic, and Socialism was sinking into the background, but now the inevitable series of battles between vested money interests and the rest of the pople had begun, and their great opportunity had arrived. To grasp it they must not merely change the leaders, or get new masters with the old policy, but, as a rank and file, they must demand a new alignment politically in the direction of Socialism.

He recalled the fact that the Trade Union Congress at Nottingham last year adopted unanimously a resolution asking the Government to take over national credit from the Bank of England. This, he said, was a war, and he hoped that they were now seeing the opening manœuvres of the final war in this country between working people and the financial interests. Money power to-day was too great to be left in private hands.

DUBLIN CORPORATION.

TO-NIGHT'S MEETING.

The monthly meeting of the Dublin Corporation will be held in the City Hall to-night, and many important matters will be discussed.

They include the Electricity Supply Board's erection of poles and structures in front of private property, the Board of Works's proposal to let the triangular green known as the "Cannon Plot" at Kingsbridge for building purposes, the amount of money being expended on able-bodied relief, Crooksling Sanatorium, the dismissal of employés of the Great Southern Railways.

A number of letters will be read and discussed. They include one from the Department of Local Government conveying the Minister's consent to the borrowing by the Corporation of £17,631 for the Grangegorman Mental Hospital, and others from the Department of Local Government sanctioning the following loans:—£20,720, £3,850, £139,730, £15,481 and £224,900 for the purpose of building houses and flats in different parts of the city.

The Rev. William George Coleman, B.A., formerly of Bailieborough, was instituted Rector of Coonean and Mullaghfad Parishes, Brookeborough, by the Right Rev. Dr. MacManaway, Bishop of Clogher, in succession to the Rev. J. Switzer, B.A.

DUBLIN TROPHY PLOT.

SUGGESTED NEW 'BUS TERMINUS.

OBJECTION TO BUILDING SCHEME.

IN the course of a letter to the Irish Times on the Crimean Trophy Plot in Parkgate street, Dublin, Mr. J. A. Conway, B.A., Connaught terrace, Rathgar, states that the fact that the Board of Works has invited tenders for a lease for ninety-nine years of the plot for building purposes is news for the residents and shopkeepers there.

On the 14th May, 1930, Mr. Conway says, a deputation of twelve leading residents of that area was received by Mr. Commissioner Murphy, and I acted as spokesman for the deputation. We urged the advisability of converting this Crimean Tropty Plot into a terminus for long-distance 'buses arriving in Dublin from the Southern and Midland counties. The congestion of traffic in the centre of the city at O'Connell Bridge and along the city quays was greatly accentuated by the passage through the city of long-distance 'buses, and the citizens and traffic authorities were alive to the magnitude of this traffic problem. 'Bus termini would also be found for long-distance 'buses coming into the city by north and south city routes, say, at Mountjoy square and South Stephen's Green respectively.

Mr. Commissioner Murphy gave the views of the deputation very deep consideration, and later pointed out that he was advised that the cost of the proposed scheme would be approximately £2,000, and that he was not prepared to spend that amount of the general ratepayers' money. He also pointed out that there were other streets in the vicinity that could be utilised as a 'bus terminus.

General Murphy, as head of the traffic control authority for the City of Dublin, was also interviewed, and gave his opinion that nothing could be done till the overdue Traffic Bill was passed. The argument that the Trophy Plot is one of the city's open spaces and should, therefore, not be interfered with was stressed by the Chairman of the City Commissioners. In reply, it was pointed out that this plot is not the usual type of city open space—nobody may enter it—no children play there—by no stretch of the imagination can it be called a thing of beauty.

All parties, Mr. Conway adds, are agreed that a portion of the plot nearest to the Park must be used for street widening purposes. The remainder is ideally situated and ideally suited as a terminus for the long-distance 'buses.

"The Tramway Company — one of our greatest industrial concerns—may be counted on to do all in their power for the transport in comfort to the heart of the city of the passengers from Parkgate street.

"While we await the Traffic Bill, the City Corporation can be counted on, let us hope, to prevent this plot from being used for building purposes."

IRISH RAILWAYMAN'S DEATH.

BODY FOUND ON THE LINE.

Mr. Christopher Holt (65), a railway signalman, of Moretown, County Kildare, was run over by a train near his home late on Saturday night, and killed. The body was discovered yesterday by the driver of the first train passing along the line, which is on the main Dublin to Cork route, and he had the news conveyed to the local Civic Guards.

It is not known at what time Mr. Holt met his death, but he declined an invitation to have tea at a friend's house shortly after ten o'clock on Saturday night, and said that he was going home, and apparently had walked the distance of about a mile. The body lay about seventy-five yards from the signal cabin at Cherryville Junction, where he was employed.

His wife died some years ago, and he lived with his only son, who is twenty-six. An inquest will be held to-day.

Traffic on the line was delayed for a considerable time, and special trains from Cork for the all-Ireland hurling match at Croke Park yesterday arrived in Dublin after the scheduled time.

"Death from shock and hæmorrhage, resulting from laceration of the brain, caused by a gunshot wound accidentally received," was the verdict of the jury at an inquest held by Dr. T. J. Duane, Coroner, Queen's County, on Saturday night last, on the body of John Neill (43), labourer, at Glenmolyne, Ballybrittas.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

FREE STATE CURRENCY NOTES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your correspondent need not have been so "much annoyed" if he had equipped himself with the elementary knowledge that sterling is not another word for gold, as he evidently thinks. No one ever undertook to redeem his Irish note in gold. The Irish Free State Government, which makes its currency notes legal tender in this country, has further undertaken to pay sterling for them on demand in London—naturally at a particular place where arrangements have been made to do so. This liability has nothing to do with Great Britain and the Bank of England, and when, as he admits, he was offered the standard currency of Great Britain, as established by law—which is sterling—the obligation was discharged. To what extent and on what conditions sterling is convertible into gold is a matter for Great Britain, and there was no reason why your correspondent should be favoured above its own citizens in the matter. As he confuses token coinage with debased coinage, and, presumably, Treasury notes with Bank of England notes, the Bank will possibly survive his pronouncement that it has defaulted.

As no one suggests that Irish notes are current in England, it is hard to understand your correspondent's grievance that they were not accepted in payment for his lunch, or that a small commission was charged for cashing them at a bank. The notes are useless to the English holder for making payments there, and can only be converted into sterling at some cost of time and trouble. Why should this be undertaken for nothing for a casual stranger?

I will not attempt to discuss the reasons for anchoring our currency to sterling, but your correspondent's adventures in search of annoyance do not establish that it is "imperative" that we should follow the example of Canada, South Africa and New Zealand. He may not be aware that the New Zealand pound is now worth a little over 18s. in London, and that of Australia less than 16s. I, too, feel some annoyance that anyone should bring our country into discredit in English eyes by an exhibition of unfounded complaints and unreasonable demands—Yours, etc.,

"ANNOYED, Too."

RAINFALL AT BRAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your correspondent, Mr R. H. S Truell, gives us interesting information in your issue of the 5th inst. about the rainfall at Rathnew on August 25th, 1905, and on September 3rd, 1931—two dates which are, no doubt, being compared by many at the present time. At Fassaroe, Bray, the rainfall on the former occasion was 4.450 inches, which is much higher than Mr. Truell's figure (3.26 inches) for the same occasion. I should not be surprised, therefore, if Thursday's rainfall at Bray was considerably greater than 2.89 inches, which is the amount recorded at Rathnew. Unfortunately, I have no statistics of the rainfall at Bray in recent years, but possibly some of your readers in the Bray district would be able to give the total fall for September 3rd, 1931.

Looking over some rainfall records kept by my family at Bray as far back as 1844, I find that the average fall for September works out at 3.240 inches. The maximum fall for the same month is 7.905 inches (recorded in 1896), and the maximum fall in twenty-four hours for the same month is 2.640 inches (recorded in 1902). These figures are based on the fifty year period 1856 to 1905. The wettest Septembers in the same fifty year period, as judged by the number of days in which rain fell, were in 1876, 1885 and 1899, but the September with the greatest total fall was, as previously mentioned, in 1896.

For the average of fifty years the wettest month at Fassaroe is October, the month with the greatest number of rain days is January, and the months in which the most "heavy downpours" (two inches of rain or over in twenty-four hours) took place are August and September. If, however, I take the sixty year period 1856 to 1915, then the order as regards "heavy downpours" is August first with six occasions, January and September equal second with four. Disastrous floods, such as we are at present experiencing, are very often brought about by a sudden heavy rainfall after a long period of comparative drought, though in the present instance this does not seem to have been the case.

It is interesting to note that May, 1916, possesses the distinction of being the only month in which two falls of over two inches were recorded at Fassaroe. The rainfall for the three days 5th, 6th and 7th of May amounted to 6.040 inches. In contrast, the rainfall for the 24th, 25th and 26th of August (the "great flood" period) amounted to 5.180 inches. In the former case the rainfall was more evenly distributed over the three days, and, consequently, no very disastrous floods took place in the locality.—Yours, etc.,

SCHOOL CHILDREN'S HOLIDAYS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I saw in a recent issue a table giving the dates upon which the principal private schools in this country were opening. As most of these schools closed in the beginning of July, it would appear that the summer holidays now amount to from nine to ten weeks. As far as the children are concerned, these holidays seem to be far too long, as the children are apt to forget a good deal of what they have learned, to get tired of playing continuously, and to become disinclined to do school work.

As far as the parents are concerned, it gives them a considerable amount of work looking after the children, keeping them amused, and probably, in many cases, giving them lessons, so that they may not forget all they have learned. As far as the teachers are concerned, it would appear that those engaged at private schools get considerably more holidays than those engaged at Government schools, although their duties are probably less arduous. It would, therefore seem that, so far as the children, the parents and the teachers are concerned, there is no good reason why these long holidays should be given, and I would like to suggest that the holidays should be as follows:—

At Christmas .... two weeks
,, Easter .... two ,,
,, Summer .... seven ,,

THE HOME FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—The Governors of the Home wish to thank all those who came to the sale in such terrible weather on Thursday, and those who tried to reach the Home on Friday, and were prevented by the flood, which spread too rapidly on Thursday night to enable them to postpone Friday's sale. As the receipts are less than half those received in previous years, the Governors hope that some of the good friends of the Home may still come and buy some of the children's work and baskets, which are to be sold at the Home, or what is left of the fancy stalls, which will be sold during this week at any time at Pembroke Lodge, Bray.—Yours, etc.,

Unknown Man's Fate.

Verdict at Inquest.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Saturday.

WHO is the mystery man who was found dead at Siskin, an isolated spot near Carrickfergus, Co. Antrim? This is the problem which the Belfast Criminal Investigation Department is endeavouring to solve. The unknown man was 6ft. 2in. in height, and his features indicate that he was either of Jewish or foreign extraction. He had two small revolver wounds in his head. A blue and white bathing cap was on his head.

Many theories have been put forward as to the manner in which the man's body was conveyed to the lonely spot, and the view now is held that he was shot in his sleep and conveyed by a motor car, or lorry, to the spot and thrown over a small wall on the side of the road into a field. There were found no traces of a struggle, and it is believed that more than one person took part in disposing of the body, in view of the great height and weight of the dead man.

Owing to the isolated spot where the body was left, it might have lain undiscovered for weeks had it not been for the nervousness of a horse attached to a cart, and driven by a farm labourer, when it was passing the spot.

THE INQUEST.

At the inquest this evening, James McCalmont, Millvale, Ballyclare, described how he found the body when collecting milk runlets. He stopped the horse for the purpose of taking some of these small barrels from the cart, and the horse became frightened, and was very hard to keep under control. He looked over the wall to see what had frightened the horse, and witness saw the leg of a man. He looked further, and saw the body of a man, completely naked, lying on the grass. He immediately reported the matter to the police.

Police Sergeant O'Rourke, Carrickfergus, described his visit to the scene. He found the nude body of a man lying on his back upon the grass, with a white and blue bathing cap properly fixed upon his head. There was a wound near the right ear and a small wound below the right eye. Beside the body he found marks as if one or two persons had stood alongside it. There were no signs of a struggle. On a small ledge at the back of the ditch there were marks which seemed to indicate that some person or persons had stepped there on going into the field.

Dr. Grace Pollock conducted a post-mortem examination along with Professor Wilson, of Queen's University. She stated that as a result of a superficial examination she came to the conclusion that death had occurred about ten or twelve hours before. The body was that of a well nourished man. There were two wounds on the right side of the face, one below the eye, and another about an inch in front of the right ear. The post-mortem examination revealed that there were marks of a bullet on the vault and base of the skull. This bullet penetrated the brain, and, apparently, ricochetted off the back of the skull and came out below the eye. There were no marks of violence upon the body.

Professor W. A. Wilson, Malone road, Belfast, corroborated the evidence of Dr. Pollock. The only point, he said, on which there might be a difference of opinion was as to whether death was instantaneous or not.

Addressing the jury, the Coroner said that the affair was most mysterious and astounding. It was hard to tell how the man had got there. Professor Wilson could not tell them whether the wounds were self-inflicted or not. It was on the condition of the body and other circumstances connected with the case that the jury would have to find their verdict. If there had been scorching, it might have been a case of suicide, but there was none, and in his opinion there was only one verdict at which the jury could arrive.

After consultation the foreman of the jury said that they were unanimous in arriving at an open verdict, and they returned the following:—

"That death was due to shock consequent on fracture of the skull and laceration of the brain, the result of a gunshot wound, there not being sufficient evidence to show how they were inflicted."

POLICE ACTION.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Sunday Night.

The Criminal Investigation Department of Northern Ireland still is investigating the mystery. It is now definitely established that the victim was a Jew, and the body will be buried to-morrow by the Belfast Jewish community. Up to a late hour to-night he had not been identified.

ANOTHER BODY FOUND.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
BELFAST, Sunday Night.

Another unidentified body was found at Carryduff, near Belfast, to-night, that of a man, about sixty years of age. The only clothing he had on was a shirt and socks. There were no marks of violence, and the cause of death cannot be ascertained until the post-mortem to-morrow.

Looking To The New Paper.

Mr. Ruttledge at Ballinrobe.

FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
CLAREMORRIS, Sunday.

THE Free State Ministers are endeavouring to impress the people by talking about the country having turned corners. Do not be carried away by these wild statements, said Mr. P. J. Ruttledge, T.D., at a Fianna Fail meeting at Ballinrobe to-day.

Referring to the new daily newspaper, Mr. Ruttledge said that Fianna Fail would no longer be misrepresented to the public. A national newspaper, with truth in the news as its motto, would take the place of an alien and pro-English Press.

Referring to the new public safety measures to be introduced on the re-assembly of the Dail, the speaker described it as a deliberate attempt to provoke trouble in the country, in order to make the people forget the present economic muddle which existed. It was an unscrupulous attempt to secure another lease of life for the present Government, who wanted to go to the electorate with the old cry of "war."

Messrs. E. Donnelly, T. Harris, T.D.; R. Walshe, T.D., and M. Cleary, T.D., also spoke.

THE TEMPERANCE EDUCATION BOARD.

An advertisement appears elsewhere showing the distinctions gained at the annual examination conducted under the auspices of the Temperance Education Board (Ireland). In addition to these special prizes, almost 1,000 books, together with a large number of honour certificates and pass slips were won. The examination was held this year on 25th March at 160 centres distributed all over Ireland, 22 out of the 32 counties being represented. The number of pupils presenting themselves in the various standards was well over 6,000. The annual examination indicates only a portion of the educational work carried on by this Board. Throughout the year the lecturers visit the schools all over Ireland, and deliver addresses based on the syllabus to thousands of pupils and teachers.

SUDDEN DEATH IN DUBLIN.

Mr. John Blake (57), of 104 Lower Baggot street, Dublin, while waiting for a taxi on the steps of his home yesterday, collapsed. He was removed to the Royal City of Dublin Hospital, where life was found to be extinct.

He had been in poor health for some time.

THE DAIL AND SENATE.

BUSINESS FOR THE COMING SESSION.

NO GENERAL ELECTION FOR A YEAR.

(BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.)

BOTH Houses of the Oireachtas will meet on the 14th October on the conclusion of the recess. It is very unlikely that deputies will be troubled with the general election for a long time to come, and so they will be able to settle down earnestly to the heavy agenda which awaits them at the opening of the new session.

Remembering the insistence of election rumours during the weeks preceding the adjournment, many people are wondering how these originated. It seems certain that such rumours had their genesis outside the Dail rather than within it. Among members of all parties there was little desire for an immediate appeal to the ballot-boxes; and, even though the Fianna Fail Party after its success in the by-election in Kildare professed to be eager and confident for the fray, it is doubtful if its individual members were not as glad as most of those on the other benches that the conflict was postponed. Anyway, when the Dail rose on the 17th July members went away convinced that there would be no interruption of the recess. Actually there was no reason why President Cosgrave should think of going to the electors fifteen months before the expiry of the full term of the Dail's existence. The result of the Kildare by-election provided no reason for a dissolution. The Government Party, it is true, did not win the seat: but, on the other hand, it did not lose it. The seat was a Labour one, and the Fianna Fail Party won it. To that extent Fianna Fail had reason to rejoice, but the Government's following in the Dail was unaffected.

GENERAL ELECTION NEXT AUTUMN.

At the moment there seems to be no reason why President Cosgrave should go to the country during the late autumn or spring. Indeed, there are many reasons to assume that he contemplates nothing of the kind. Consequently, inasmuch as the early summer will be occupied with the activities connected with the Eucharistic Congress in June, the assumption that the general election will take place not earlier than August or September of next year seems to be well founded.

The session which will open on the 14th October promises to be one of exceptional interest, to judge by the importance and urgency of the measures which are to be put through both Houses. Amongst these the following may be mentioned:—

Extension of Powers for Civic Guard,
Circuit Court Rules,
Housing Bill,
Traffic Bill,
Transport Bill,
Privy Council Appeals,
Courts of Justice Bill,
Redistribution of Seats,
Citizenship Bill,
Moneylenders Bill

These are only a few of the subjects in respect of which legislation has been promised or has been already initiated. The extended powers for the Civic Guard, and other regulations regarding the trial of persons concerned with treasonable offences, are required to deal with conditions which have arisen in different parts of the Free State. According to the Minister for Justice, Mr. Fitzgerald-Kenney, the Government is determined to put an end at once to illegal drilling and all such practices, and a new bill to provide the necessary powers is to be one of the first measures of the new session.

While the terms of the bill will be considered adequate to meet the circumstances which have arisen, it is unlikely that they will be of such a drastic nature as the terms of the Public Safety Acts of 1923 and 1927.

CIRCUIT COURT RULES.

The question of rules for the Circuit Court will occupy the early attention of the Dail. The rules are, of course, in existence already. They will again be submitted to the rule-making authority for revision in the interval, and will be placed on the table of the House probably on the opening day of the session. All that will be necessary then to make them operative will be an expression of approval by the Dail, which will be asked in the form of a motion. The validating of costs taxed during the interval, which will require retrospective legislation, will have to take the form of a bill to be passed by both Houses.

The Traffic Bill, which was introduced before the Dail rose, and the text of which has now been published, will provide material for serious debate. It is hoped that the provisions of the promised Transport Bill, which is intended to meet the case of the Free State railways, will be available early in the session. More than a year ago this was spoken of as an urgent measure, which brooked no delay. The bill to rearrange the allocation of seats in the Dail, and to adjust the representation of the constituencies in view of the fall in population since 1923, is not necessary until 1933. The Constitution requires that the representation in the Dail shall be not less than one member for each thirty thousand of the population, or more than one member for each twenty thousand of the population. It is probable that when the Government tackles this question a rearrangement of constituencies may also be undertaken, which would involve a substantial reduction of the personnel in the Dail.

The Money-lenders Bill was before a Committee of the Dail during the last session. The Committee concluded the taking of evidence, but has not so far issued its report. When this appears it will be found to recommend radical alterations in the measure as originally drafted. A committee on standing orders in respect of private business will report to both Houses early in the session.

DUBLIN THEATRES.

THIS WEEK'S PROGRAMMES.

"Sons o' Guns," the popular musical comedy, which was played for over nine months at the London Hippodrome, will be seen at the Gaiety Theatre this week. Miss Gwen Stella, as Yvonne, the French girl, has a part which suits her admirably, and gives her much scope as an actress and vocalist. Other principals in the caste include Frank Major, Ralph Coram, Diana Maxwell, Phil Williams, Charles Draper, Henry Fielding, Andre Brouard, Reg. Ryan, and Ivor Jones.

"Quick Fire," presented by Syd Coppin, "starring" Jean Kennedy, the Scottish comedienne, will be the big attraction at the Olympia Theatre this week. In a well-arranged programme, she will be supported by Harry Hobart and Charlie Hobbs, "comedians, generally speaking"; the Darwood Trio, in a novel musical, singing and whistling speciality; the Great Gerrard and lady, in strength, skill and comedy; Jimmy Law, and other capable entertainers.

Mr. J. M. Synge's "The Playboy of the Western World" and Lady Gregory's "Hyacinth Halvey" will be revived this week at the Abbey Theatre. Performances will begin nightly at eight o'clock, and there will be a matinée at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday.

To-morrow evening the Gate Theatre will produce "The Melians," a new play by the Earl of Longford. It will be presented for the first time on any stage. The theme of the play is that of the famous Island of Melos and its relations with Ancient Greece. It will call for the services of the entire Gate Company, and will offer individual players ample opportunity. It is a chapter of history full of dramatic possibilities. The production will be under the direction of Mr. Hilton Edwards, and the settings and costumes have been designed by Mr. Miceal MacLiammoir. Performances will be given on every evening of the week at eight o'clock.

NEW BLOOD FOR IRISH FLOCKS AND HERDS.

FROM OUR AGRICULTURAL CORRESPONDENT.

A valuable consignment of pedigree stock was recently landed at Waterford by the s.s. Ballycotton from the quarantine station, London. Most of the animals were purchased at the time of the Royal Show at Warwick, and, as a precaution against the introduction of foot-and-mouth disease, were placed in quarantine before being shipped to Waterford, whence they were sent to their destinations after a period of rest in Mr. Palmer's yard.

There were three high-class stock boars which had been purchased at the Royal Show by the Department of Agriculture, one large white boar, bought by Mrs. F. W. H. Watson, Ballingarrane, Clonmel, and a boar and sow for Colonel Wemyss Quinn, Borleagh Manor, Inch, County Wexford.

There were eight sheep, including two very fine Oxford Down stock rams, for the Agricultural Station, Athenry; a well-bred Suffolk for Mr. J. S. McCulloch, Gerrardstown, Ballybought, County Dublin; three Hampshire Down rams for Captain Law, Rosnaree, Westmeath; a Shrop ram for Colonel Charteris, Cahir, and a Jacob (horny) ram for Lady Constance Butler, Shanbally Castle, Clogheen.

Amongst the cattle were a Jersey bull for Mr. W. H. Odlum, Ardmore, Bray; Hereford bulls for Captain Purdon, Killucan; Lieutenant-Colonel Odell, Moate; Mr. J. E. Kennedy, Rathcoole, County Dublin; a Hereford heifer for the Earl of Granard, and a very useful dairy shorthorn cow for Mrs. Watson, Clonmel.

On Saturday afternoon a carpenter employed by the Grand Canal Company named Robert Stafford, of 28 Oxmantown road, Dublin, sustained a fractured right leg and severe head injuries when struck by a lock gate while at work in the Ringsend Dockyard. He was subsequently conveyed to Sir Patrick Dun's Hospital in the Corporation ambulance and detained.

CAN CAMERONIAN WIN THE LAST OF THE CLASSIC RACES?

PROUDSTOWN PARK.

MR. R. H. WALKER SADDLES TWO WINNERS.

An excellent afternoon's racing was provided for patrons of Proudstown Park meeting on Saturday, and, following the terrible weather of the few days previous, the conditions were much appreciated. Except for one very heavy shower half-way through the proceedings, it was a pleasant afternoon, and, considering what rain had fallen during the week, the course rode remarkably well.

A USEFUL STEEPLECHASER.

The Athboy trainer, Mr. R. H. Walker, usually sends a few horses to this meeting, and on Saturday he did so to good purpose by winning a couple of races. Thomond II., a son of Drinmore, owned by the Duke de Stacpoole, made a sorry example of the lot opposing him in the Stewards' Steeplechase. Having to make his own running, he carried on at a good pace out clear of the field throughout the tiring three-mile journey of this course, and finished forty lengths in front of his nearest attendant, which was Golearia, to whom he was conceding 14lb. It was a striking achievement, even allowing for the fact that there was not strong opposition; for no horse could have accomplished the task in better style. This was his fourth win off the reel, and he also won a couple of point-to-point races during the winter months. He was bred by his owner, the Duke de Stacpoole, who hunted him throughout last season. He is a five-year-old, who may possibly be capable of achieving far greater honours than the winning of a race such as this.

Mr. R. H. Walker.

Mr. Walker's other winner was Bengerstown, the property of Mr. A. Mathews, who, in a field of eleven runners for the Autumn Plate, beat the favourite, Ole Man River, after an exciting tussle. It was a race confined to amateur riders, and Lord Nunburnholme rode his recent purchase, Chota Sahib, a son of Pucka Sahib, and, considering that he had to carry 14lb. overweight, the horse did remarkably well to finish fourth. Bengerstown was ridden by the crack amateur, Mr. F. E. McKeever, who also had the mount on Thomond II.

A PROMISING HURDLER.

Black Gold, who dead-heated with Saracen's Song in a five furlong race at the recent Laytown Strand meeting, disappointed his connections in the Meath Hurdle Race. He was backed with considerable confidence, but in a good finish was beaten by both Tangeroo and Yes Or No, the former gaining the verdict by a short head. It was a useful performance on the part of the three-year-old, Yes Or No, to go so near to gaining the spoils, and this daughter of Knight of The Garter should be able to pick up some races during the winter season.

Mr. Gould Shaw, an owner whose colours have only recently been registered in Ireland, won the Navan Plate with La Sorciere, but it was only after a hard finish that the filly got the better of Girdle, who was running on strongly at the end of the race. Loreto, the favourite, did not flatter, and Eagle's Charm spoiled her prospects by refusing to leave with the others when the tapes were raised.

GOMAR DISAPPOINTS.

There was little to choose between Gomar and Croppy Queen as regards favouritism for the September Steeplechase, but in the actual running one horse predominated. This was Croppy Queen, who, taking command at the second last fence, won with the greatest ease from Roseate Dawn and Gomar. Camelot Halls had every chance to win the Corporation Plate, but was outstayed by another three-year-old, Sir Jonah, a son of Knight of The Garter, owned by Mr. J. G. Fitzgerald. Details:—

2.30—THE MEATH PLATE of 40 sovs. Second 3 sovs., third 2 sovs. A hurdle race for maidens. 1½ m.

Tote (2/-)—Win, 22/-; places, 12/6, 14/-.
Yes or No led from Black Gold, One More and Jack Hope for half-way, when One More drew to the front, followed by Jack Hope, with Yes or No, Black Gold and Tangeroo next. At the last flight of hurdles Tangeroo took command, and holding Yes or No and Black Gold at bay won by a short head; three-parts of a length between second and third. One More was fourth, Jack Hope fifth and Leafy Palm sixth.

3.0—STEWARDS' PLATE of 40 sovs.; second 3 sovs., third 2 sovs. out of plate. A handicap steeplechase. 3 m.

The Duc de Stacpoole's ch. g. THOMOND II., by Drinmore—St. Luke, 11-0 Mr. F. E. McKeever 1

Betting—2 to 1 on THOMOND II., 6 to 1 agst. Wise Maid, 8 to 1 each Golearia and Ting a Ling, 20 to 1 Cadamstown Lad, 50 to 1 Partesian.
Tote (2/-)—Win, 3/-; places, 3/-, 5/6.
Thomond II. went off with a long lead from Wise Maid, Cadamstown Lad and Sanders. Partesian fell after half a mile. Thomond II. continued to make strong running, and coming away from Golearia and Cadamstown Lad won by forty lengths; eight lengths divided second and third. Sanders was fourth. Ting a Ling and Wise Maid were eased up approaching the last fence.

3.30—THE NAVAN PLATE of £40. Second £3, third £2. For maidens, two years old. 5 f.

Tote (2/-)—Win, 22/6. Places, 4/6, 4/6, 12/6.
Eagle's Charm stood still at the rise of the tapes, and La Sorciere showed slightly in front of Loreto, Produce, Solustina and Girdle, with Togoland next. Close home Girdle challenged, but failed to get on terms with La Sorciere, who won by a neck; half a length separated second and third. Togoland was fourth and Produce fifth.

4.0—THE SEPTEMBER PLATE of £40. Second £3 and third £2. A steeplechase for horses that have never won a steeplechase. 2 m.

Mr. C. J. Wall's br. m. CROPPY QUEEN, by Bachelor's Jap—True Irish Queen, 5, 11-7 S. Magee 1

THE ST. LEGER SITUATION.

CAMERONIAN AND SANDWICH THE FAVOURED PAIR.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.
LONDON, Sunday Night.

There has been some improvement in the weather in the course of the last twenty-four hours, so the going may not be quite so bad when the Doncaster meeting begins on Tuesday as seemed likely earlier.

Fred Darling, the trainer, and others associated with the favourite, Cameronian, were beginning to grow a little worried about the prospects of the colt if it should be very soft when the St. Leger is run on Wednesday; for, although there is nothing to suggest that he will not be able to act in heavy going, the fact remains that in all the races he has run for the going has been distinctly good. In every other respect the colt's prospects could not be better, and he will start one of the shortest-priced favourites that we have seen for several years.

F. Darling.

Orpen seems a very firm second favourite, and his chance is thought highly of at Manton. It is thought there that he may outstay Cameronian, and his owner has leased Birthday Book from Lord Astor, and is starting him, to ensure that the pace will be a good one. Orpen did not seem to have any conspicuous bad luck in the Derby, and I see no reason why he should reverse the running with Cameronian.

A PROVEN STAYER.

I do not think he would have been even second in the Derby had Sandwich enjoyed anything like the same good luck. Lord Rosebery's colt continues to do well. He is one who will not be bothered by soft going, and he is a proven stayer. The stronger the pace is the better he will be suited by it.

There does not seem much prospect of the race going to an outsider. Lord Derby's filly, Salaam, has been backed a little, and she is a good stayer. Indeed, I think her prospects will be regarded much more hopefully if the going is heavy on the day than they would be were the race to be run on the top of the ground.

Goyescas was well beaten in the Derby, and again was beaten, with everything in his favour, in the Eclipse Stakes by Caerleon.

Khorsheed is moderate, and another Manton runner, Inglesant, has done nothing in public to suggest him as the likely winner of a classic race.

Sir Andrew is a moody colt who is easily upset by a crowd, and Doncaster is about the worst place to take a horse with that sort of temperament. The French filly, Suze, stays well, but it is possible that she may be kept for the Park Hill Stakes on Friday. She won in very good style at Goodwood, and is probably better now than she has ever been. I see no reason at present to revise an opinion that the race will be won by either Cameronian or Sandwich.

BETWEEN THE PAIR.

The Champagne Stakes on Tuesday will tell us whether Cockpen or the Golden Hair colt is the better. The race seems to rest between the pair unless M. Boussac's colt, Mowgli, who has won the only race he has run for—the Lennox Plate at Hurst Park last month—should happen to be out of the ordinary. There was nothing in his Hurst Park performance to suggest that he is.

Lord Glanely's Paddington has been left in, but he has given his trainer a good deal of trouble through the summer, and it may be that we shall have to wait until next season to see the best of him.

It is likely, I understand, that Argonaute II., who started favourite for the Ebor Handicap, where he finished third, will be among the field in the Great Yorkshire Handicap on the first day of the meeting. He may be opposed there by the American colt, Yarn II., who is understood to be fancied for the Cesarewitch, for which he has already been backed. It has taken him some time to acclimatise, and he has shown no form to speak of in England so far.

The Rufford Abbey Handicap on Wednesday should throw some light on the Cesarewitch, for which the weights appeared last Thursday. Lord Glanely has already shown his opinion of the handicap by at once striking out Singapore, who was given top weight, 9st. 10lb.

One of the most interesting races of the whole week will be the Portland Handicap, on Thursday, for Xandover will be in the field, as will Portlaw, Heronslea and Poor Lad. Easily though Heronslea won the Wokingham Stakes, Xandover now enjoys a pull of 12lb. in the weights with him, and Xandover ran very well in the Wokingham Stakes before beating Stingo in the July Cup. Old Tag End was taken out at the acceptance stage, but we are likely to see him run for the Fitzwilliam Selling Stakes on Tuesday.

Zanoff is another likely runner for the Portland Handicap, and I should not be surprised to see him reverse the Stewards' Cup running with Poor Lad, for he did not seem to have the best of luck at Goodwood. The Portland Handicap generally falls to one high in the handicap, for horses seem to be able to defy weight in this race, as witness Irish Elegance, and Xandover seems to have a very bright prospect of winning.

On Friday the Doncaster Cup is the big event, and with Brown Jack opposing Singapore and Noble Star this should be a really good race. It was intended to run the Ebor second, Coaster, but he was withdrawn last week. Brown Jack has to give 2lb. to Singapore and 12lb. to Noble Star, and a great deal will depend on the pace at which the race is run.

Brown Jack will have Mail Fist to act as his pacemaker, but this horse was no good to him at all in the Goodwood Cup, which he just lost to Salmon Leap.

AT MANCHESTER.

The going was so bad at Manchester yesterday that it was decided not to risk Noble Star in the Prince Edward Handicap in the conditions, and he was not saddled. The race had looked something like a good thing for him in ordinary circumstances, and his defection was a disappointment.

The winner turned up in the lightly-weighted Summer Princess, by Prince Galahad, owned by the theatrical magnate, Mr. Charles Gulliver, for whom she is trained at Epsom by Barclay. She was ridden by that very promising boy, F. Rickaby, and taking the lead in the straight she won easily by three lengths and four lengths from Joyous Greeting and Arctic Star.

Brantwood, who started joint favourite with Arctic Star, was helpless in the going, and was so distressed that she had to be pulled up, as had Lord Puttenden. Brantwood was so worn out that she could barely walk past the post.

Medarlin, who ran away with the race two years ago, was again the pacemaker, but he was a spent force soon after turning into the straight, and Redeswood passed him, only to lose the lead in turn to the winner, who was never headed again. Arctic Star generally does well in the soft going, but it is doubtful whether he is as good as he was.

RICKABY'S DOUBLE.

Rickaby had another winner; for he took the first race of the afternoon, the Egerton Handicap Sweepstakes with Pomerellen, who had won at York, and proved too good by a length and a head from Multorb and the favourite, Red Queen, who did not make her prospects in the Portland Handicap, where she has bottom weight, look any the brighter.

De Mestre won the Exchange Selling Welter Handicap with his own Papris, who, in a good finish, beat Sergeant Custume and Princeshee by a neck and a short head.

Then there was a runaway win in the Yarn Maiden Plate for Perfect Night, a daughter of Knight of the Garter, owned by another impresario, Sir Alfred Butt, for whom Frank Butters trains her. She made all the running and beat the King's filly, Frivole, by four lengths.

Sir Alfred Butt and another patron of Butters's stable will, I understand, be buying several more yearlings at Doncaster. Butters, who only started as a public trainer with a scratch lot of horses at the end of last season, will have one of the strongest stables at Newmarket next year—a tribute to his great ability as a trainer.

Perfect Night was favourite, as was Diamantee, who won the Wilton Nursery in the colours of Mr. George Lambton, for whom Butters trains her. This daughter of Diophon, who had run second in a selling race at Kempton last month, made all the running here, and won by three lengths from Fury, the Irish trained filly, Rahab, finishing unplaced.

It was a better day for backers than those which had preceded it earlier in the week, but they finished up on a wrong note; for the Ascot winner, Grindleton, on whom odds were laid in the St. Denis Plate, was beaten by half a length by Princetown.

GALTEE MORE.

AT FOLKESTONE TO-DAY.

A JUMPING INTERLUDE.

PROMISING HURDLERS IN MARGATE HANDICAP.

On the opening day of the most important week of the back-end calendar there is no flat racing, but an interesting meeting under National Hunt Rules will be held at Folkestone. One of the most interesting events on the day's card may be the Margate Handicap Hurdle, in which one or two horses that have run this season under flat racing rules are engaged. Nosiamas is one of these, and though his flat racing record is bad he has in the past done very well in this branch of the sport.

Irish Monarch is a most promising young hurdler, and has shown ability on this course, for he won a good hurdle event here last May, when he beat Abbess and Motiwala. Pure Knight ran extremely well when he beat Rossignol during the Grand Military Meeting at Sandown Park, and if he can reproduce that form he will be bad to beat. Lemurian should be up with the best of them, but my selection falls on Furlough, who is owned by Miss Dorothy Paget. Miss Paget has no bad horses in her stables, and Furlough is one of her most promising hurdlers.

Tootenhill could win the Westgate Handicap Steeplechase if he gave of his best, but, unfortunately, he has taken to refusing, an almost incurable fault in a 'chaser. Lordi is sure to give his followers a good run for their money, but has only one pace. Sonny and Largie may not be good enough, and my selection falls on Moontoy, a winner on the flat here on Saturday, who is very nicely handicapped.

Sound Box has two engagements at the meeting, but if he runs in the Ramsgate Steeplechase he will be bad to beat. My money, however, will go on Uncle Batt, whom I hope to see win a lot of steeplechases this year.

The Shorncliffe Three-Year-Old Hurdle, the last event on the card, will not appeal to careful speculators, but for those who wish to have some financial interest in the race I should advise the support of Don Patrick, about whom I hear the most convincing reports.

Gossip from Newmarket.

Preparing for Doncaster : Horses Likely to Score this Week.

NEWMARKET, Saturday.

The morning was dull and cold, and rain fell at intervals during exercise hours, but some good gallops took place by horses holding engagements at Doncaster. Darling brought his team to the racecourse side, and in a good stripped two miles gallop Brumeux moved well in company with Oletta, Nitakrit (H. Southey), and Tullycross. Brumeux has, no doubt, benefited by his race for the Ebor Handicap, and he will prove hard to beat for his selected race at Doncaster, whilst Tullycross, who moved well for the greater part of this morning's spin, is nicely weighted in the Alexandra Handicap on Thursday, an event he should very nearly win.

In a good pace gallop of one mile and a quarter, Ardglass, assisted by Yenna and Leopardus, was seen to advantage, and the time is not far distant before he will be seen carrying winning colours.

ARGONAUTE II. AT HIS BEST.

Captain Boyd-Rochfort subjected his Great Yorkshire Handicap candidate, Argonaute II., to a good stripped mile and three-quarters spin with Corn Belt, Royal Pilgrim, Quarter Sessions and Pahokee, and, being now at his best, he will be difficult to beat for that event.

Praetor moved well in a good pace gallop over one mile and a quarter with Racedale, and his chance of winning the Doncaster Stakes on Friday is an excellent one.

In a good stripped spin over a mile the St. Leger colt, Sir Andrew, moved in his best style, accompanied by Flange.

Sir Walter Raleigh, Sol de Terre and Clogheen were sent one mile at a good pace. The last-named is still making good headway, and will be winning shortly. In a good seven furlongs spin with Kinswoman, Victory VI. appeared to go much the better, and is worth attention for the Clumber Maiden Plate on Tuesday.

B. Jarvis stripped his St. Leger colt, Goyescas, who, accompanied by Sphinx II., Collingham and Tippets, was sent an end-to-end gallop over one mile and a half, and the colt gave the utmost satisfaction.

Antiquary strode out in good style in a good pace gallop over seven furlongs with Oban, Pharian, Estate Duty and Apperley, and he has an excellent chance of making good his defeat by Rivalry at Goodwood in the Doncaster High-weight Handicap on Tuesday.

Xandover showed his usual dash in a fast five furlong spin with Craig Bhan and Fearsome, and he is in excellent trim to meet his engagement in the Portland Handicap on Thursday.

J. Jarvis gave his St. Leger charge, Sandwich, a good pace gallop of one mile and a quarter with Buoyant Bachelor, in which he moved well.

The Hon. Geo. Lambton subjected Caerleon and Salmon Leap to a rousing pace gallop over one mile and three-quarters, and, should the former be seen out for the Alexandra Handicap, he will, despite his heavy weight, run well. Cap Finisterre (E. Lambton), with Knight of Lorn, Cruiser, Bute and Norland, was given a good pace gallop over one mile and a quarter.

SALAAM GOES FREELY.

The St. Leger filly, Salaam, moved in her usual free style in a good spin over seven furlongs with Scotch Mist and Zane Grey, and will probably do her final long spin either to-morrow or Monday.

Fara and Pricket galloped briskly five furlongs, and are in good trim for their immediate engagements.

D. Waugh's Wedding Favour moved in grand style in a good stripped mile and a half gallop with Riviere and Cole's First Principle, and I quite expect to see her improve upon her York form if allowed to take her chance in the Great Yorkshire Handicap on Tuesday.

CURRAGH TRAINING NOTES.

A fine morning.

BEHAN'S Ballyspellin and Lisburn went a fast six furlongs gallop; The Greek, Rathlin Isle, Another Chance, Mytilus and Gold Amulet went five furlongs sharply; South Sea Bubble, May Turn and others of the Mountjoy Lodge team cantered.

BRABAZON'S Carey Dennis, Chelsea and Custodian traversed six furlongs at a good speed; Clonford was sent a mile and a quarter at a nice pace; the two-year-olds went five furlongs sharply.

COLLINS'S Ole River Bridge and Little Boy Blue came the same distance at three-parts speed.

DAWSON'S Bwana and Montigny travelled a mile and a quarter; others of the Rathbride Manor team were usefully employed over five furlongs.

DOYLE'S Kildare's Pride and Ripple On were sent a good mile and a half; Olive's Pride and Some Gift cantered six furlongs; the two-year-olds went five furlongs at half-speed.

FETHERSTONHAUGH'S Partoi and Orbeal covered a mile at a good pace; Prince Pat was sent the same distance; Greek Scholar and Silver Fort went five furlongs sharply; Hy-Spy, Copper Court and the rest of the team cantered.

HARTIGAN'S St. Teira cantered six furlongs and was schooled over hurdles; Kilcash Hill and Lady Frivol travelled a mile and a half steadily; Summary, Arlen and the two-year-olds cantered five furlongs.

PARKINSON'S Johnny Green and Kyleclare went a mile and a half; Prince Prosper and Not Maw were given a good mile gallop; Alfa Romeo went six furlongs; Double Toy, Swift Bird, Film Fan, Curragh Calling and the two-year-olds were given useful five furlong spins.

ROGERS'S Crested Wave, Nice Token, Heraclida and Talkative travelled a mile and a half at a nice speed; Wise Act, Hidden Gem and Essexly were sent six furlongs at a good pace; others of the Crotanstown House team were usefully employed over five furlongs.

SPORTING GOSSIP.

Shirley Races Abandoned.

The Shirley Stewards inspected the racecourse at Shirley, near Birmingham, on Saturday, and owing to the fact that there was over a foot of water on parts of the course they abandoned the National Hunt fixture which had been arranged for to-day.

Binfield Grove Stable to Be Sold.

Miss Norah Wilmot, who, since the death of her father, Sir Robert Wilmot, has controlled the Binfield Grove racing stables, intends to sell the training establishment, and will move into the Manor stables, Ogbourne, in Wiltshire, at the end of the season. T. Martin, who is at present the licensed trainer at the Binfield Grove establishment, will accompany her to the new stables, and they intend to operate there until smaller quarters can be found.

Back-End Handicap Scratchings.

The scratchings of Pomme d'Api out of the Cesarewitch leaves H. H. Aga Khan still represented in the race by Isfandiar, Khorsheed, Ut Majeur and Sultan Ranee, and in the Cambridgeshire H. H. Aga Khan still has Bibi Tella and Vamos, although Rustom Pasha has been taken out. Lord Glanely has scratched Singapore, the top weight, in the Cesarewitch, but is still represented by Blue Don and British Sailor.

The Recorder and the Cambridgeshire

In view of the fact that The Recorder has become a public fancy for the Cambridgeshire, Mr. J. A. Dewar, the colt's owner, and Fred. Darling, his trainer, have informed the Press Association that the present intention is to run The Recorder in Paris on October 4, when he has an engagement in the Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe.

St. Leger Call-Over.

The card on the St. Leger will be called over at the Victoria Club on Monday at 12 noon and on Tuesday evening at 8.15, and at the Beaufort Club at 6.15 on Tuesday evening.

Northern Betting on Big Races.

Speculation on the St. Leger in the North of England has been chiefly confined to Lord Derby's filly, Salaam, each way. There were inquiries on Saturday for prices about Anthurium in the Cambridgeshire, and up to the present Blue Vision is the only one seriously supported for the Cesarewitch. Bookmakers, however, are acting very cautiously over the week-end handicaps, and are declining to accept big money.

Irish Amateur Rider Injured.

When Partesian fell when running in the Stewards' Steeplechase at Proudstown Park on Saturday her rider, Mr. J. R. Alder, sustained a broken collar bone.

Racehorse Injured at Folkestone.

Khartoum, who should have contested the Elham Handicap at Folkestone on Saturday, bolted, and did not come under the starter's orders. After throwing his jockey, D. Sullivan, who twisted his ankle rather badly, the horse jumped the rails and fell into a ditch. He cut his legs and hocks, but was able to walk back to the paddock.

CYCLING.

P. J. McKENNA RETAINS THE PALMER CUP.

The Southern Centre of the Irish Road Club brought their season to a conclusion yesterday with the hundred miles road race for the Palmer Challenge Cup on an out-and-home course, starting and finishing at Ashtown. The event was contested by two tandem pairs and seven riders on solo machines. The field included J. P. Woodcock and J. J. Masterson, who represented the Irish Free State in the recent world's championship road race. Neither of the scratchmen rode up to form. Masterson retired at 30 miles, and two punctures caused Woodcock to lose a considerable amount of time. P. J. McKenna, the holder of the cup, did 5 hrs. 27 mins. 43 secs., and, with 15 minutes' handicap, secured an easy win from J. J. Killeen, who rode off the same mark. The times and placings were as under:—

NO SURPRISE RESULTS.

SHAMROCK ROVERS AND DOLPHIN SHARE LEAGUE LEAD.

THERE were no surprises among the six Free State League matches which were played at the week-end, and Shamrock Rovers and Dolphin still retain their joint leadership, with five points out of a possible six.

Both had capital victories, Shamrock Rovers being a far superior combination to Shelbourne, although the latter only lost by a goal margin, a result very flattering to them. Seldom can Shelbourne have made a more unimpressive start to a season.

Dolphin furthered their claims to be considered the most attractive side in the League, beating Bray Unknowns after an excellent game.

Cork had the biggest win, with six goals to spare over Jacobs, and share with Rovers and Dolphin an unbeaten record.

Dundalk's collection of "stars" again proved rather disappointing, and they had nothing to spare over Drumcondra in winning by the odd goal of three.

Another scrambled odd goal win was that of Bohemians over St. James's Gate, the only team without a point so far.

Waterford, at home, gained two valuable points at Brideville's expense, and the latter, who led the League for so long last season, are having a different experience in this campaign.

SECOND HALF VICTORY.

BOHEMIANS' NARROW WIN AT DALYMOUNT.

BOHEMIANS .... 3 ST. JAMES'S GATE 2

After a lively, but, from a football point of view, rather scrappy match, Bohemians beat St. James's Gate at Dalymount on Saturday by 3 goals to 2. The losers played the better football, but their lack of scoring inside forwards and the inexperience of their outside right saw a lot of good mid-field play wasted. They are a young side, and should give some excellent displays before the end of the season. The defence is good, and the halves are a sound, defensive line, as well as having a good idea of how to support their forwards, but the latter are slow and hesitant near goal. Kennedy, probably the youngest player on the side, was given the best chances of the match, but, though he tried hard, his lack of ball-control and his slowness to get the ball across were fatal.

Bohemians still show their faults of last season—lack of control in their passing and weakness at centre-forward. They might as well resign themselves to the fact that McMahon will never fit in there, and in consequence attacks will not be driven home as they should be. The wing players, and especially O'Dempsey, played well, but the two best players were P. O'Kane and Kirby, who started most of the attacks, and took a hand in them themselves. The defence was quite sound, though it was caught napping for Gate's first goal.

St. James's Gate had the better of the first half, and they deserved a score when after forty minutes Comerford got possession from a badly placed corner, and, with the defence hesitating, he beat Cannon with a fine shot. Bohemians re-started with great dash, and quickly equalised, a free kick by McMahon cannoning off Kavanagh for O'Dempsey to dash up and score. A scramble in the goal-mouth, which ended with three or four Bohemians forwards rushing the ball over the line, put them ahead, and they got a third when McMahon converted a penalty awarded against Kavanagh for handling a goal-scoring shot. The "jizz" went out of the game after that, and Gate never looked like saving a point, even when T. Murray scored a clever goal from a centre by Whelan. Teams:—

Bohemians—Capt. H. Cannon; C. McEvoy, J. McCarthy; P. O'Kane, W. McGuire, J. Kirby; J. Bermingham, W. Cleary, J. McMahon, G. Cullen, J. O'Dempsey.

St. James's Gate—Cass; Kavanagh, Clarke; McKay, Simpson, R. Murray; Kennedy, Comerford, T. Murray, Mundow, Whelan.

Referee—Mr. T. G. Davies (Bury).

DOLPHIN'S FINE HALF LINE.

DOLPHIN ...... 3 BRAY UNKNOWNS 1

At Harold's Cross yesterday, Shiels, Kelly and Watt scored for Dolphin; Ledwidge for Bray.

It was a thoroughly interesting game, which produced good football by both sides. Bray made a splendid fight, but were beaten by a team whose general superiority was pronounced for the greater part of the game.

The outstanding players were Watt and Kelly for Dolphin and Leckie for Bray. So well did the former pair play that the Bray forwards were rarely able to make suitable headway. Bray certainly made some rapid bursts of attack, and were rather luckless in front of goal, but, despite this they were made to appear second best.

Kelly and Watt were more than holding powers. Their fusion with the forwards was excellent, and they seldom wasted a ball. They were responsible for the game developing into a duel between their attack and the Bray defence, and their goals were the results of being able to appreciate the requirements of the moment.

Dolphin's forwards worked well together, and created many dangerous moves. They would have scored many more goals against little less resourceful defenders; for here Bray were remarkably well served. Leckie was a brilliant goalkeeper, whose anticipation and agility were masterly.

Both Bray backs were rugged, but were more confident than the Dolphin pair, with Chalmers the best of the four. Bray had three useful half-backs, even though they had not the ability of the opposing trio in turning defence into attack.

Dolphin had more skilful and speedier forwards than Bray. Somers was a forceful leader, who opened out the play, and was well supported by Giles.

Smith and Patterson made splendid passes into the centre, but the latter shot erratically when well placed. On the whole, the Bray forwards did well, and there was one period in the second half when they were so aggressive that on a number of occasions Dolphin's goal all but fell. Loughlin made a sound debut in strange company, and could never be left alone. Buchanan, Ledwidge and Hogan also did all that could be expected of them. The line should improve with each outing, with a strengthening of the left wing position. Teams:—

Dolphin—Power; Nisbet, Doyle; Robinson, Kelly, Watt; Smith, Giles, Shiels, Somers, Patterson.

Bray Unknowns — Leckie; Chalmers, Williams; Rigby, Preston, Byrne, Buchanon, Ledwidge, Loughlin, Hogan, Scoular.

CORK IN SCORING FORM.

CORK .... 6 JACOBS 0

At Rutland avenue yesterday. The scorers were:—Cunningham (2), Rerguson (2), Connolly (2).

The result provides a true indication of the run of the play in a game that was at all stages too one-sided to be interesting. Jacobs defence—Collins, E. Farrell and Crowley—had, as usual, to bear the brunt of the Cork attacks, as, apart from Kelly, the home half-backs were poor, while the forwards were neither speedy nor clever enough to even look like being effective against the Cork defence.

Cork gained a lead of five goals at half-time, just before which an altercation between Ferguson and Temple led to the two players being sent to the pavilion by the referee. Teams:—

Cork — Fitzroy; O'Hare, Bradford; Richmond, Morgan, McLoughlin; Smith, Paton, Cunningham, Connolly, Ferguson.

Jacobs—Collins; E. Farrell, Crowley; Temple, Kelly, Owens; Hickey, Heron, Wade, J. Farrell, Carlisle.

DRUMCONDRA'S STRONG FIGHT.

DUNDALK .... 2 DRUMCONDRA 1

Dundalk defeated Drumcondra at Dundalk yesterday by 2 goals to 1, Patton and McCluggage (penalty) scoring for Dundalk, and McCarney for Drumcondra. The game was interesting in the first half, when Drumcondra were at least as good as the home side. Dundalk got many opportunities, but the forward line was weak in finishing. Reid, the visiting centre-half, was splendid in making openings for his forwards, and when he sent McCarney through after twenty minutes the centre forward shot strongly, and the ball went into the Dundalk net off McCluggage. Dundalk tried hard to equalise, but the defence of Pidgeon was good.

Twelve minutes of the second period had gone when Patton raced along the wing and shot high. The flight of the ball completely beat Pidgeon and fell into the back of the net for the equaliser. Following this Dundalk played better football, but they were unable to beat down the robust defence of Drumcondra, which tackled with energy and cleared well. When Hirst was going through he was taken down in the penalty area. McCluggage scored from the spot kick.

In a sense Dundalk were lucky to gain both points; for, though they had more of the play, their forwards were shaky. Joe Cassidy, the Scottish inside forward, played his first League game for Dundalk, but was not altogether impressive. Harrison, Dundalk's centre-half, and Reid, the Drumcondra centre-half, were the outstanding players. Teams:—

Dundalk—Hampton; McCluggage, McDiarmid; Sloey, Harrison, Reed; Patton, Cassidy, Bullock, Hirst and Donnelly.

Drumcondra — Pidgeon, Dunne, Moore; Kavanagh, Reid, Farrell; Thomas, Farrell, McCarney, Crofts and Sherwin.

A REMARKABLE RESULT.

SHELBOURNE FLATTERED BY FINAL SCORE.

SHAMROCK ROVERS 4 SHELBOURNE 3

At Milltown road last Saturday. The scorers were:—Moore (2), Mathews and Flood for Rovers; Mathews (own goal), Lennox (penalty) and Walsh for Shelbourne.

Had the margin in the winners' favour been 4-0 it would have been a much more accurate reflex of the general trend of a game that ran in Rovers' favour from the outset until the last twenty minutes. With a lead of four clear goals at that stage Rovers eased in their efforts, and, in doing so, almost brought disaster upon themselves, as a couple of defensive errors resulted in two goals being conceded by Mathews and Burke, while Leonard, too, was not blameless in his attempt to save the third—a weak shot by Walsh, which he carried back into the net.

For seventy of the ninety minutes the winners' team work was excellent, and their attacks were carried out with a degree of skill and speed that literally left Shelbourne standing still. Shelbourne, by contrast, were made appear little better than novices, and their forwards when in possession made the mistake of holding on too long. Consequently, their efforts were invariably spoiled by rapid intervention on the part of Rovers' backs.

It was a surprisingly poor display by Shelbourne, not one of whose forwards, apart from Howieson, gave the winners' defenders any trouble. Devlin got several fine openings, and twice in the second half had the goal at his mercy, but shot against the upright, and, on the second occasion, outside. It is obvious that drastic changes will have to be made in the League champions' side if they are to be an effective force this season. It may be remarked, however, that the refereeing was not all that it might have been, and Shelbourne had the upsetting experience of having three of their men pulled back for offside when in almost assured scoring positions.

Smith, a former Aberdeen player, made his first appearance at outside left for Rovers, and gave an impressive display. He showed speed and an ability to shoot, while he fitted in with the remainder of the forward line in the smoothest fashion.

After fifteen minutes Kinsella gave Flood a good pass, and the latter, running round the Shelbourne backs, beat Shevlin with a splendid drive from outside the penalty area. Ten minutes later Mathews put in the second, and it was from his pass that Moore put in the third a few minutes before the interval. Byrne appeared to be offside at the time, but this escaped the referee's attention. Mid-way through the second half Smith had a splendid run on the wing, and sent in a shot from fully twenty-five yards out. Shevlin attempted to punch clear, but the ball rebounded off the upright to Moore, who netted the fourth. Teams:—

Shamrock Rovers—Leonard; Cherry, Burke; Glen, Mathews, Kinsella; Byrne, Flood, Moore, Fullam, Smith.

Shelbourne—Shevlin; Lennox, Byrne; Walsh, McKnight, Thomas; Carroll, Russell, Devlin, Howieson, Murphy.

USEFUL POINTS FOR WATERFORD.

WATERFORD .... 3 BRIDEVILLE 1

The Waterford v. Brideville match at Waterford yesterday, although opening somewhat tamely, provided plenty of thrills in the second period. Waterford never really settled down until the second half was well advanced, and, on the whole, played better and more finished football than against Shelbourne last week.

Swan (2) and Foster scored for Waterford, and Brideville's goal was the result of a successful penalty kick by Forrest.

In the first half the visitors played with dash and determination, but lacked finish near goal, and missed two good openings. The home defence, however, especially Sampy and Richardson, was impenetrable. Richardson, late of Wolverhampton, playing really high-class football, whilst Sampy's deadly tackling was much in evidence. The Waterford forwards, on the other hand, also missed some openings, and, though retiring at half-time with a lead of one to nil, they should, on the play, have been at least another goal up. A reshuffle of the Waterford forward line brought about a decided improvement. Crawford, who returned on Saturday, resumed his old place at outside left, and he was partnered by Middleton, who hitherto played inside right, Waugh and Swan, former left wing combination, being transferred to the right, and proved effective, Swan scoring two of Waterford's three goals. Foster, the centre forward, was swift to take advantage of an opening. Waterford's half-line was sound rather than attacking.

The feature of Brideville's play was their defence, Gaskins and Redmond proving towers of strength. O'Callaghan, between the posts, was not troubled too frequently.

Thirty-five minutes' play had elapsed before Foster, from Middleton's pass, scored the only goal of the first half for Waterford. Twenty minutes after the second period opened Harris fouled, and the resultant penalty was scored with a fast, rising shot into the roof of the net by Forrest. Frequent rallies by Waterford of the most determined description followed, during which swift and clever movements baffled the visitors' defence. Swan beat O'Callaghan and gave Waterford the lead once more. Swan soon afterwards from a melee got through, and with another goal made Waterford's victory assured.

The flag of the local club was flown over the pitch at half-mast in memory of Thomson, Glasgow Celtic's late goalkeeper.

LINFIELD'S SOUND FORM.

Following their heavy defeat by Ards in the Gold Cup on Thursday evening, Cliftonville also sustained their first Irish League defeat on Saturday, when Linfield conquered them by 3 goals to 1. The winners owe their success primarily to a great half-back line in Edwards, Jones and McCleery, but their forwards were more incisive than those of the amateurs, and Bambrick scored two goals, the other being obtained by McCracken. Cliftonville were well served by their goalkeeper, Gardiner, and the backs, McGuire and Skelton, while Falloon at centre-half also fought hard.

Belfast Celtic could do no better than draw, no score, with Bangor; and while they, like Linfield and Derry City, are still unbeaten Linfield head the table with seven points for four matches.

Glentoran had revenge for their Gold Cup defeat at Coleraine, the Belfast team winning 3-2 at the Oval; while Distillery had a good win over Glenavon at Grosvenor Park by 4-2, McAdam performing the "hat trick" for the winners.

Derry City managed to score the only goal of the match against Newry, while Ballymena a disappointing side this season, were beaten by three clear goals at Larne, and, like Newry, have not yet won a match.

THE HURLING MATCH.

A Kilkenny forward having a duel with J. Coughlin, Cork's goalie, in the All-Ireland final at Croke Park, Dublin, yesterday.

Thrilling Game at Croke Park.

Kilkenny's Great Display in the Second Half.

(By PAT'O.)

CORK .... 1-6 KILKENNY 1-6

THE first draw in forty-five finals, and the best game in a decade—clean, hard, vigorous, where the prospects of the rival contenders fluctuated in a thrilling manner; where experience and ashcraft met speed and youth; where neither side gave quarter to the final whistle—these features made yesterday's All-Ireland hurling final between Cork and Kilkenny at Croke Park a memorable one, and left spectators eager for the re-play between two counties who invariably serve up hurling of a high order. Its sequence of scores followed closely on my forecast on Saturday.

Almost 27,000 were comfortably accommodated when the big game was opened by Mr Sean Robbins, of Offaly. Cork played the identical fifteen which overwhelmed Waterford in the Munster final; Kilkenny brought in Morrissey, of Mooncoin, on the team which beat Galway.

It was unfortunate that the newcomer was seriously injured in the closing stages, when excitement was at its height.

A draw was a fair verdict, with the game swinging round to either end in a great finish.

A FAST OPENING.

The sod had drained well, and from the break-away the hurling was fast and open. The backs at both ends were severely tested, and bore the brunt well. Hard hitting broke down many promising attacks, and frequent dangerous onslaughts failed to bring a score. O'Reilly, Larkin, and Doyle, of Kilkenny, controlled Cork's famous front line; Coughlan, O'Connell, and Collins held Kilkenny's speedy forwards at caman-length. Ten minutes had passed before Matt Power broke away on Kilkenny's left, and a deft, flying ball brought the long-awaited opening minor. Quickly did Cork balance when Aherne trapped a ball of Hurley's to sweep it above the cross-bar.

Meagher, Kilkenny's captain, recovered the lead, but a grand ball of Hurley's from the 70 mark set the teams level once more. Exchanges were even as the teams settled down to close tackling. M. O'Connell broke up a ruck to find the posts high for Cork. Both goalies cleared shots in turn. O'Regan was cool and steady in Cork's back line. Both goals had narrow escapes, and P. Larkin and the Byrne pair put in some brilliant work for Kilkenny at this period.

CORK'S GOAL.

Hurley's overhead hitting won applause, and E. Coughlan was always dangerous. At last he got an opening, and crashed the ball low to the posts. At lightning pace Aherne doubled it, to give Cork a sound half-way lead of 1-3 to 0-2.

Cork re-opened at a fast pace. Every man on the team seemed eager to pull off a score. The Blackrock captain pointed a free with deadly accuracy, and Kilkenny's plucky backs seemed to be weakening under the fierce onslaughts of their opponents. When P. Aherne burst past for Cork's fifth point the game slowed down with Cork leading by 8 points to 2.

KILKENNY'S RECOVERY.

Just then a revolutionary change came over the game. Meagher dropped a free on the square, and Dunne, meeting it on the drop, doubled to the net. Before spectators realised what was happening Larkin had swept another above the cross-bar, and the score was 1-5 to 1-3.

Now within measure of the leaders, Kilkenny hurled with unwonted fire. They were here, there and everywhere.

It took all O'Regan's and O'Connell's steadiness to hold them out. Meagher pointed again, and frees against Cork brought the balancing score eight minutes from the end.

The teams were "all out" now, and followers shouted their men on. A player, on either side, was being attended to for injuries whilst Meagher, whose eye was now in, lobbed across the leading point for Kilkenny. The sands were running out when E. Coughlan picked up a ball whilst lying prone and hurled it on his knees high above the posts for the last levelling score of a nectic game. Teams:—

Cork—J. Coughlan (goal); Madden, E. O'Connell, Collins; Murphy, O'Regan, Barry; Hurley, M. O'Connell, E. Coughlan (capt.), O'Grady, Delea, Clancy, M. Aherne, P. Aherne.

Kilkenny—Dermody (goal); P. Larkin, O'Reilly, Dalton; Carroll, P. Byrne, Doyle; L. Meagher (capt.), E. Byrne; Whelan, Morrissey, Dunne, Whyte, Power, P. Larkin.

ANTRIM'S CLEVER PLAY.

EASY WIN IN JUNIOR SEMI-FINAL.

ANTRIM .... 4-9 GALWAY 1-4

Antrim and Galway hurlers met in the Junior semi-final. The Ulster hurlers showed unexpected proficiency. They showed greater speed on wings, and their sharp shooting more than balanced Galway's longer drives. Nearing the half-way two great shots brought goals, and Antrim led by 3 goals and 1 point to 1 goal and 3 points at half-time.

Combining nicely the northern team, though lighter and less experienced, opened up the game with good results, leading by 4 goals 3 points to 1 goal 3 points after forty minutes' play. Galway's marking was very faulty, and they lacked precision in attack, driving many balls wide of the posts.

Antrim were the more earnest team and closer tacklers to the end. Near goal they were particularly accurate, running up score after score. McKeegan, Gunning, Elliman were most prolific scorers for Antrim, while Derivan, O'Connell and Gilligan were Galway's best.

CENTRAL COUNCIL MEETING.

Mr. Seán Ryan presided. Consideration of grants to Fitzgerald Park Memorial, in Killarney, and Tralee Sports Field were referred to Finance Committee. Kerry Minors' failure to play their semi-final against Louth yesterday was explained by Dr. E. M. O'Sullivan, who said that Kerry would play any day on due notice. They had an important local fixture.

Mr. O'Keeffe announced an amicable agreement on Athlone's ground question. Votes of sympathy with the relatives of late Mr. P. McGrath, Secretary, Munster Council, and with Mr. R. O'Keeffe, Leix, on his family bereavement were passed.

HANDBALL.

DUBLIN LEAD CAVAN.

Three matches in the All-Ireland Championships were played in the Garda Ball Court, Phoenix Park, yesterday. The opening contest was the first six games in a home-and-home rubber for the semi-final of the Senior Soft Ball Doubles Championship between C. Ryan and A. Finn (D.M.G., Dublin) against J. Molloy and H. Smith (Cavan). Molloy was the better of the Northern pair, who, however, did not play as well as expected, and the Dublin pair won all six games on the score 21-12, 21-8, 21-16, 21-18, 21-8, 21-12, and now want only one game to win the tie.

KILKENNY DEFEAT CARLOW.

The final of the Junior Hard Ball Doubles lay between J. McGrath and J. O'Connell (Kilkenny), and J. Sweeney and J. McEvoy (Carlow). The play of the Kilkenny team was of a high standard, and only at one period of the rubber were they behind. This was in the third game, when McEvoy gave his side a lead of nine aces. By winning four games straight out Kilkenny won the championship on the scores—21-1, 21-7, 21-14, 21-9.

MEATH BEAT WEXFORD.

The Junior Hard Ball Singles tie between A. Doyle (Meath) and W. Dunphy (Wexford) was the only match of the day in which the loser got a game. Doyle was the more consistent, and while Dunphy was brilliant at times he was erratic. Doyle won by three games to one, the scores being 21-10, 21-16, 2-21, 21-12.

WORLD'S FASTEST ROAD RACE.

"RECORD" SPEEDS IN ULSTER GRAND PRIX.

SOUTHERN RIDERS SWEEP THE BOARDS.

(BY OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT.)

STANLEY WOODS gained the honours in the Ulster Grand Prix, over the 20½ miles circuit in County Antrim on Saturday, by winning the 500 c.c. class, with a speed of 86.43 miles per hour.

It is a misnomer to speak or write of the "race for the Ulster Grand Prix"; for while it was a handicap race for a single prize at the time of its inauguration, of recent years it has become a series of scratch races, with which are combined handicap events. The machines are divided into classes according to the cubic capacity of their engines, the divisions being for 500, 350 and 250 c.c. machines. With each scratch race there is a class handicap, for which manufacturer entrants are not eligible, and this year, in addition, there was a combined handicap for all classes for a fine trophy presented by the Governor of Northern Ireland (who, by the way, witnessed the race) and a cash prize of £50. There were thus seven races held simultaneously, but as the riders were started en masse it was relatively easy to follow the progress of each of the classes. The big class did 12 laps (246 miles), the 350 class did 11 laps (225½ miles) and the 250 c.c. class did 10 laps (205 miles). These distances were fixed so that the three classes would finish practically together, and in this respect the handicappers' efforts were very successful, as a matter of seconds divided the winners of the three classes.

WOODS-NOTT DUEL.

It was the second year in succession that Stanley Woods had won the big class of the race. Last year he had a ding-dong struggle with "Charlie" Dodson, beating the Manchester man by the narrow margin of 18 secs. This year his runner-up was G. E. Nott, of Coventry, whom Woods beat by 1 min 16 secs. The pair filled the first two places from the start to the finish of the race, but although Woods at one time led the Coventry rider by as much as 2 mins., the issue was in doubt right up to the last lap. The pair did not meet on exactly level terms, as while Woods had to refuel twice during the race, Nott's tank held sufficient spirit to make a second stop unnecessary.

The first three laps of the race were most exciting. In the mass start two riders collided—J. J. Byrne, of Dublin, and W. J. McCracken, of Belfast—but fortunately they did not interfere with any of the other riders. Byrne could not get going again, and a broken handle bar compelled McCracken to retire after a few laps.

Nott led at the end of the first circuit, but he had Woods on his heels, and Simcock, an Australian rider, was so close to the pair that the timekeepers returned their times as equal. Behind the trio were four other riders, and a dozen yards covered the seven.

At the end of the second lap Nott, Woods and Simcock were still in a bunch, and another lap did not bring any change in the positions. Woods went to the front on the fourth circuit and passed the post 24 seconds ahead of Nott, who was, in turn, 24 seconds ahead of Simcock. The latter had to retire at the end of the next circuit with mechanical trouble, and J. H. Simpson, of Birmingham, came into third position, only to be displaced by W. L. Handley, of Birmingham, on the sixth circuit.

With half the distance covered Woods was a bare six seconds ahead of Nott, but in the next few laps he went away, and at one time had over two minutes in hands. His second stop for petrol reduced this lead, and a broken clutch lever interfered with his cornering to some extent. Nevertheless, he held his lead, and although Nott gained a few seconds on each of the last few laps the Irish rider ran out a winner by 76 seconds, having covered the 246 miles at an average speed of 86.43 miles per hour. Nott's average was 85.86, and Percy Hunt, who came into third place on the seventh lap, finished in that position with an average of 84.92 miles per hour. Of the fifteen starters in the 500 c.c. class, seven finished.

DAVENPORT'S FEAT.

In the 350 c.c. class, in which there were twenty starters and nine finishers, victory went to a London rider, L. H. Davenport, who accomplished the fine feat of winning the class for the third successive year. Guthrie, the well-known Scottish crack, led the class for eight of the eleven laps, Davenport and Walls, of Belfast, being second in turn. At the end of the ninth lap Davenport went in front for the first time, leading Guthrie by the narrow margin of 15 seconds. He was 51 seconds to the good when he completed the penultimate circuit, but Guthrie was faster on the last lap and was only beaten by 21 seconds, while Walls was 101 seconds behind the latter. The speeds in the 350 c.c. class were little below those of the big division, the winner averaging 79.43 miles per hour, and doing a lap at the rate of 83.29 miles per hour.

While overshadowed in point of speed by the bigger classes, the eighteen riders in the 250 c.c. class provided one of the best races of the day, the margin of time between the first three riders being considerably less, for most of the race, than in either of the other divisions. E. A. Mellors, the winner of last year's Leinster "Hundred," took the lead at 73.58 miles per hour at the end of the first lap, with E. M. Mitchell, of Dublin, in second place, and C. W. Johnston, the Cork-born rider, in third position. Johnston went into the lead on the second lap and held it for seven circuits. For the first four of these Taylor, of St. Anne's-on-Sea, was second; but from the fifth to the eighth lap Mitchell was on Johnston's heels, and gradually reducing the Cork man's lead, he led him at the end of the ninth circuit, and beat him by 53 seconds at the end of the tenth lap, with an average speed of 72.63 miles per hour. Mitchell did the fastest lap of the class—76.16 miles per hour. Only four riders went the full distance.

MITCHELL'S FINE RIDING.

Mitchell's performance ranked second to that of Stanley Woods. He was a late entrant, and had less opportunity of familiarising himself with the course than most of the other competitors. He had the misfortune to have to change a plug on the second lap, which lost him a lot of ground, and he had a long, stern chase to get on terms with the leaders.

The class handicaps were won by C. J. Williams (500 class), P. Walls (350 class), and E. M. Mitchell (250 class), and the latter had the further distinction of winning the Governor's trophy, in which the first four placed men were from the Irish Free State.

NEW WORLD'S WALKING RECORD.

PARIS, Sunday.

The Italian walker, Valente, to-day lowered by 26 secs. his world's record for the 25 kilometres (about 15½ miles) walk, covering the distance in 2 hours 3 mins. 13 secs. The walk was staged at Colombes, and took place prior to the France v. Germany athletic match. The race, which was of an international flavour, attracted 28 starters. Valente was followed home by Schwab, of Switzerland, with the well-known English walker, Tommy Green, of the Belgrave Harriers, third. Green's time was 2 hours 6 mins. 55 4-5 secs. This race, which is held annually, was won by Valente the two previous years.

GARAVOGUE'S NINTH SUCCESS.

LEILA SECURES THE BOYD CUP.

THE "Magdalene" special prizes—presented by Mr. W. G. Jameson and named after his splendid schooner yacht—were legacies from 1930, and now luck has it that two of them, those for Small Cruisers and Wags, have to be left over to next year.

It was blowing so hard from the Nor'ard, and there was still so much of a sea running in the bay on Saturday before racing hours that only the 21-Footers and the 17-Footers decided to race. Had either Mavis or Mercia III. known the other would start the Small Cruisers match might not have fallen through. As for the Wags, the boats were found unready, they having had to be hauled up for safety's sake in Friday's gale, and their sails and gear put away, and so the afternoon's programme of six matches (including two of the Seapoint Club) was reduced to a couple.

GARAVOGE'S SUCCESSFUL SEASON.

Garavoge scored her ninth first at the line in thirteen starts when she won the 21-Footers race on Saturday. She will be laid up next week. In her last race she had Maureen and Oola to beat, Geraldine being a non-starter (the weather was too heavy for her veteran owner-helmsman) and Innisfallen hors de combat with her bowsprit carried away.

Maureen led at the start (3.5 p.m.) and was the only boat to sport a topsail. It is an academic point whether this paid or not, and Garavoge overhauled her on the beat to Seapoint mark (the "alternative" course was being sailed). On the run back from the Bar buoy Maureen gambled on the wind keeping steady; instead of that it backed steadily to N.W., and her leeward position did not pay her, she being astern of Oola at the close of the first round.

Going this again on the short final round to Seapoint mark Garavoge sent up topsail in a lightening wind. Maureen overhauled Oola, but could make no impression on Garavoge, which finished an easy winner. Finish:—

LEILA WINS 17-FOOTERS MATCH.

Leila's first at the line gave her the Magdalene prize and custody of the Boyd Memorial Cup for the year. The 17-Footers are hardy craft, and eight turned out on Saturday, the An Seodac from Wicklow being included in the number. Leila got the start (at 3.10 p.m.) with Echo next, and it was a dual between the pair for the lead until Echo's jib burst and she lost ground. Anita's peak halliards gave out, and she retired, and so did An Seodac. Leila finished the course with a great lead of Pauline and Echo, which were only divided by seconds at the winning line. Finish:—

FINANCIAL NEWS AND NOTES

LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE FEATURES.

HOPEFUL ANTICIPATIONS.

POSITION OF BRITISH FUNDS.

FROM OUR FINANCIAL CORRESPONDENT.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON, Sunday.

Towards the end of this week the City should have some definite idea of the Government proposals for balancing the Budget and improving the state of the national finances. It is generally expected that there will be no tax on fixed interest-bearing securities or a compulsory conversion of 5 p.c. War Loan. The semi-official hint to this effect was the cause of last week's substantial rally in the Funds, a movement which in turn induced a better tone in markets generally. The rally in prices was assisted by a considerable amount of bear covering before this week's settlement, while it is also probable that fresh speculative buying was induced by a belief that the outlook had materially improved. Whether the worst of the depression has been witnessed it is impossible to say, but most operators are inclined to the view that it is, and, barring untoward developments, that the trend of prices in the future will be more favourable to holders.

ESSENTIALS TO RECOVERY.

It is recognised that the provision of huge credits for the protection of sterling and even the balancing of the Budget, supposing that is accomplished, will not constitute a return to normal conditions. The country has to receive an assurance that the previous extravagant expenditure has been definitely checked, and there should be some indication that the fresh taxation which has been decided upon is likely to provide the necessary extra revenue without producing harmful effects. The position cannot be satisfactorily dealt with by a mobilisation of our foreign investments, a tax on fixed interest securities, or a compulsory conversion of 5 p.c. War Loan. Anything that savours of inflation must be ruled out. What is needed more than anything is a development that encourages a revival in trade, with a reduction in production costs that will enable our manufacturers to compete with foreigners.

TAXATION QUESTIONS.

Because of the importance of encouraging rather than discouraging industry, it is considered that some part of the necessary extra revenue will be obtained not by increasing the income tax from 4s. 6d. to 5s. in the £ but by a somewhat drastic alteration in its incidence by which many of those who at present escape the impost will be drawn in. In other words, the present exemptions will be greatly modified and allowances will be reduced with the object of obtaining a much larger sum without raising the standard rate. The authorities may have decided upon this because of the possibility that an increase in the rate to 5s. in the £ would for the next year or two produce no more revenue than the present 4s. 6d. rate because of the serious diminution in the income of the tax-paying classes. To take only one section of the community, the Stock Exchange, many firms for a considerable time past have been making no profits at all, and some are thankful enough if they can cover running expenses, for very many cannot. It is regarded as virtually certain that there will be an increase in the duties upon beer, tobacco and some other articles which cannot be classified as necessities.

THE 5 P.C. WAR LOAN.

Probably the outbreak of the crisis in Central Europe, with its repercussion upon Great Britain, has put back a conversion operation relating to 5 p.c. War Loan for nearly a year. It is known that the Chancellor of the Exchequer had a cut-and-dried plan in his pocket some months ago, and in the light of recent events it is a pity that this was not launched when conditions generally were favourable to such an operation, and there was a prospect of a further reduction in the interest rates. Now the scheme must wait until financial conditions have become more normal, and how long that will be it is impossible to say. It is to be hoped that the operation will not be unduly delayed, for apart from the prospective saving in the debt charge it is certain that a successful conversion on lines regarded as not unsatisfactory to those concerned would result in an improvement in the country's credit.

FOREIGN HOLDINGS.

Presumably, foreign holders would refuse to convert, for naturally they will retain an investment yielding 5 p.c. without deduction of British income tax, as long as possible, but that probability should not deter the authorities from attempting to replace as much of this stock as possible by one bearing a lower rate of interest at the first favourable opportunity. Many people consider that the existence of this huge 5 p.c. War Loan would be a serious obstacle to an appreciation in British Government securities when conditions generally are more favourable.

WHAT TO BUY.

As our Stock Exchange reports have indicated, investors have been holding aloof from markets for a considerable time past. There has been an almost entire absence of public buying, while occasionally there has been a certain amount of panicky selling, which is now regretted. It looks as though it is the time to buy, and those who form this opinion naturally ask what stocks should be acquired to give the best return in interest yield or early capital appreciation. The question can only be answered by emphasising the qualifying "if." It is believed that the position has really improved in the last week or two, and if the Government proposals provide no disagreeable surprise, and if there is a reasonable assurance that they will achieve their objective, practically anything in the Stock Exchange could be bought at the present moment.

GILT-EDGED STOCKS.

Government Stocks would certainly appreciate further, but obviously those securities would rise most which have fallen most. It is easy to pick these out. There is much scope in Home and Argentine Rails, and having regard to the possibility that Argentina, as a primary producing country, will return to prosperous conditions more quickly than some others, perhaps a purchase in the latter group is to be preferred. A materially higher level for our own Railway Stocks will only be justified when trade is materially better, and, unfortunately, there is little sign that there will be a real improvement for a considerable time yet. Probably the extent of the decline in many foreign Government and municipal securities in the last year or two is not generally recognised.

HEAVY LOSSES.

The news that the Chilean Government has decided on a moratorium with respect to the external debt came as a great shock to investors here, because previously the country had an unsullied record in such matters. Prices, consequently, fell very severely, and for a time it was practically impossible to sell even at the lower level, for there were no buyers. The three series of 6 per cent. bonds, which last year got to little over 100, and did not fall below 79, were dealt in last week at prices ranging from 33-35, with a 10 point difference in the official quotations. When the country resumes interest payments a purchaser of these bonds at 35 will leave an investment yielding 17 per cent. Some of the Brazilian 4 per cent. Bonds have been dealt in lately at prices down to 25, representing a return of 16 per cent.

EFFECTS OF THE EUROPEAN CRISIS.

Argentine and Uruguayan Bonds have also fallen, but in the former case to a much smaller extent. Naturally, the crisis in Central Europe has led to a serious depreciation of German, Rumanian and other similar issues. Berlin 6 p.c. and Dresden 5 p.c. last year touched 96½ and 87½, but current prices are only about 50 and 55 respectively, and are largely nominal. In 1930 Estonia 7 p.c. touched 92 and Poland 7 p.c. 92¾, but the former is now quoted at the wide price of 48-58, and the latter at 67-72. These represent only one group of securities the movements in which have involved holders in heavy capital losses, at least on paper. It is a moot point whether the present valuations are a true indication of the merits or demerits of these stocks, or whether they are largely due to nervousness as to what may happen in the future.

WORLD ECONOMIC CONDITIONS.

Many other Stock Exchange securities will recover with an improvement in the world economic conditions which enables manufacturing and trading companies, producers of rubber, base metals, oil, etc., to earn satisfactory profits. The depression in rubber shares need not be emphasised. Similarly, shares of tin-mining companies and of tea plantation undertakings have fallen very heavily. The world depression will not last for ever; sooner or later it will be followed by better conditions, and those who have the courage to buy securities that have been heavily depreciated by the prolonged depression are almost certain to do well. Admittedly, a good deal of courage is required, and, broadly speaking, this quality is at present lacking, because investors generally have suffered such heavy losses in recent years.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

BILL RATES EASIER.

The usual Saturday conditions prevailed in Lombard street on Saturday, loans over the week-end offering at 3 per cent. and under.

The tendency of discounts was slightly easier. Fine three-months' bills were quoted at 4 3/16 per cent. But there were buyers at 4¼ per cent., and the "hot" Treasuries were bid for at 4 3/16 per cent. Octobers were wanted at 4 per cent.

No bullion operations were reported at the Bank of England. Silver rose ⅛d. for spot, and 1/16d. for forward delivery to 12 15/16d. and 13d. per ounce, respectively, on Eastern buying. Gold remained at 84s. 9¾d. per ounce fine.

Quiet conditions were witnessed in the Foreign Exchange Market, and quotations were barely altered. The sterling dollar rate on New York was 4.85 15/16. Dutch florins were easier, but belgas and pesetas moved against the £.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS.

METALLGESELLSCHAFT (METAL CO.) OF FRANKFORT.—The board has decided that no dividend will be paid by the group for the year 1930-31 which closes on September 30th. Although the business done has been relatively satisfactory and a net profit has been made the general economic situation has necessitated the writing-down of the assets. Last year the Metallgesellschaft reduced its dividend to 5 per cent. from 8 per cent. paid for 1928.

BRITISH DRUG HOUSES.—Usual quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent. on Preference Shares.

BROWN BROTHERS.—Interim dividend declared of 2½ per cent., less tax, on Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

CARRICKS (CATERERS).—Interim dividend of 3 per cent., less tax, on Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

COLCHESTER BREWING.—A final dividend of 6 per cent., less tax, making 10 per cent., less tax, for year. Forward, £47,230. (Same.)

CARLTON SHOE.—No dividend will be paid on 12 per cent. Cumulative Preference Shares for half-year ending September 30, 1931—paid to April, 1930.

DAVIS AND TIMMINS.—The directors announce that it has been decided to defer for the present the consideration of the payment of the usual half-yearly dividend on the 100,000 £1 6½ per cent. Cumulative Preference Shares. At this time last year an interim dividend of 3 per cent. was paid on the 70,000 £1 Ordinary Shares, and this was followed by a final of 5 per cent., making 8 per cent. for 1930, against 20 per cent. in the two previous years.

ELECTRIC SUPPLY CORPORATION.—The usual 4 per cent. interim dividend on the Ordinary declared. In each year since 1924 the total payment on these shares has been 11 per cent., less tax.

HENDON ELECTRIC SUPPLY.—Interim dividend of 10.85d. per share, free of tax, on Ordinary Shares. (Same.)

LACTAGOL.—A dividend of 3 per cent. (4 per cent.) on Ordinary Shares. Forward, £516 (£124).

THOMAS TILLING.—Interim dividend declared on the £1 Ordinary Shares in respect of 1931 of 10 per cent., less tax. A similar payment was made last year, followed by a final of 10 per cent., together with a bonus of 5 per cent. and a capital bonus of 50 per cent. The Ordinary capital ranking for dividend now, therefore, is £791,025, against £527,350 previously. The company, which was registered in 1897, and which has a total issued capital of £1,091,025, owns inter alia, jointly with the British Electric Traction Company, a controlling interest in Tilling and British Automobile Traction, Ltd. A working agreement has been entered into with the London General Omnibus Company, and is now in operation. The company also controls the National Omnibus and Transport Company and the United Counties Omnibus and Road Transport Company. Profits earned have been largely in excess of the dividends paid, earnings on the Ordinary Shares in the last three years being equal to 55.4, 44.4, and 45.3 per cent., respectively, against payments of 25 per cent. last year and 20 per cent. in the two previous periods.

WOODFORD AND WORMLEIGHTON.—Directors cannot recommend final dividend on 7½ per cent. Preference Shares or any dividend on Ordinary Shares for year. (Last Ordinary dividend, 20 per cent., in 1928-1929.)

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS.

THE OUTLOOK.

The long spell of uncertainty regarding the financial proposals of the Government is about to end. On Thursday Mr. Snowden will introduce his emergency Budget, and thereafter the progress of events will be rapid. Parliament will no doubt agree to give immediate legislative effect to the new taxation, the nature of which is still a matter of surmise. It will not, at all events, include a compulsory conversion of War Loan 5 per Cent. stock or a special tax on fixed interest securities (writes The Sunday Times). What will be included, in all probability, is a lowering of the super-tax limit, whilst the possibility of an increase in income-tax cannot be ignored, though the effect on trade would be so prejudicial that it is hoped that this will be avoided. Whatever new taxation is imposed—and an increase in the liquor and tobacco duties is regarded as practically certain—will be on the orthodox lines, and every effort, it may be safely assumed, will be made to avoid disturbing confidence, either at home or abroad. With the publication of the plans for balancing the Budget it may be reasonably hoped that foreign balances that have been withdrawn from London will gradually be returned, and that sterling exchange may be before long left to take care of itself. But we are not "out of the wood" yet, and the margin between safety and catastrophe is still perilously thin. The best that the Stock Exchange can hope for is the replacement of the recent feeling of fear and suspicion by trust and confidence in the ability of the country to weather the storm. It is not sufficient to balance the Budget on paper. The Government must do its best to help industry to recover the ground lost in recent years, or otherwise the extra revenue required will not be earned. What is needed above all things is a definite and sustained lead and a steady determination to stop extravagant expenditure without indulgence in that panic retrenchment which, by stopping work in all directions, would only serve to make things worse than they are now.

BANKERS' VIEWS.

The banking view that the way out of England's difficulties should be found by economies rather than additional taxation is emphasised by writers in the current issues of Barclay's and Lloyd's banks monthly reviews. Lloyd's Bank Review suggests that the May Committee should have covered a wider field, for it "has left whole areas of national expenditure ripe for the economy axe unexplored and untouched." It continues:—"If comparison be made of the relative scale of taxation, both national and municipal, here and abroad, and the handicap that this difference imposes on British industry, it may well be found that even more drastic economies are required than those implied in the Majority Report. The plain truth is that we are over-governed, and trade and industry need more freedom from official interference. There is scope for immense simplification in administration, and a rigid rationing of departmental expenditure seems imperative if we are to place our economic life upon a sound basis." The writer in Barclay's Review says that the fundamental point of the May report which it is essential to stress is that the margin between expenditure and revenue must be covered mainly by drastic economies. He adds:—"Some additional taxation is inevitable, but it must be restricted to a minimum, for one of the principal factors in retarding industrial progress in Great Britain during the post-war years has been the exceptionally heavy burden of both national and local expenditure. The balancing of the Budget is not the only task to be accomplished if the country is to be restored to economic health. An urgent need exists for a sustained effort to reduce production costs for British goods. If Great Britain is to regain her former prosperity she must secure for her products a larger share of the world's markets, and to achieve this objective her price must be on a competitive level with those of other countries."

AMSTERDAM DEPRESSED.

The Sunday Times Amsterdam Correspondent wired on Saturday—:"In spite of unfavourable news from Wall Street, most sections of the Amsterdam Stock Exchange opened steady to-day, but before long the prices of all important shares reacted rather sharply owing to fresh selling pressure, which was partly due to the approaching holiday at New York. The unimportant support experienced early in the morning was swept away by heavy offerings of the leading shares, which prompted some professional selling in other directions, and the market closed at the lowest level of the day. Royal Dutch, after opening steady at 167, closed 5 points lower owing to heavy offerings. Sugar shares declined rather sharply after being firmer at the opening. Industrials were dull early in the session, and fell generally later on owing to lack of support. Unilevers were 6 points lower. Rubber shares were rather neglected and mostly lower, and Tobacco were also somewhat easier. Shipping and Mining securities were neglected. The Young Loan was easier.

BERLIN BOURSE CLOSED.

The Berlin Bourse remained closed on Saturday.

HOLD BRITISH STOCKS.

The following circular issued to its clients on Saturday by a leading firm of London stockbrokers is exceedingly appropriate at the present moment:—"In view of the numerous inquiries we are receiving daily with regard to the advisability of disposing of Sterling securities and re-investing the proceeds in securities expressed in foreign currencies, we feel it incumbent upon us to express our views on the correct financial attitude to be adopted at this time of crisis in the affairs of our country, and to arrest, as far as lies in our power, such ill-conceived action. We now emphatically put on record our firm conviction that such a course is extremely ill-advised, for the following reasons:—Firstly, action of this kind is definitely unpatriotic, and can only serve to aggravate the difficulties of His Majesty's Government, who have the right to expect the support of every private individual and financial institution, however large or small. Secondly, we feel strongly that, bearing in mind the present extremely low realisation value of sterling securities, any nervous investor will pay a heavy penalty for his timidity in sacrificing sound securities at the present "scrap" prices. Thirdly, we view the general national acceptance of the true principles of thrift, economy, and strict financial prudence as the turning point in our nation's post-war history, and that, therefore, we shall emerge triumphant from this period of crisis, which is undoubtedly international in character. We are, moreover, firmly convinced that the inherent financial stability of our great country is unimpaired, and that the present time may accord a unique opportunity for the purchase of British Government securities, which we still regard as being the safest investments in the world."

COMING FINANCIAL EVENTS.

To-day the directors of Thomas Tilling will meet to decide on the interim dividend to be paid to the Ordinary shareholders. It is generally expected that the rate will be maintained at 5 per cent. Later in the week interim dividends are due to be announced by Brown Brothers, British Aluminium and Meux's Brewery Companies. The Gaumont-British final dividend is also anticipated.

COMMODITY PRICE RALLY.

The Evening Standard financial barometers continue to move in opposite directions. Mainly owing to firmer quotations for wheat and oil, commodity prices have rallied nearly half a point to 70.3, but British industrial share prices are down over two points to 69.1.

This is the lowest level recorded since early June, when the index fell to 67.9. Following are the movements in the Evening Standard barometers to date:—

POOR HOP CROPS.

"The year 1931 has proved the most difficult one ever experienced by hop growers. The almost continual and excessive wet weather prevented cultivation for long periods, and the gales of wind thrashed the cones so badly that a certain amount of discoloration has resulted in some cases." Messrs. Manger and Henley, 59 Borough, S.E.1, from whose annual report on hops the above is taken, add that heavy rains, gales of wind, cold nights, and absence of the necessary amount of sunshine have brought about irregularity in the development of the cones. The golding hops are the chief sufferers, and unfortunately many acres have already been passed over. It is impossible for anyone to hazard an opinion as to the weight of the crop which will ultimately be harvested. It must prove the smallest crop, with one exception, since 1882.

RAYON AND COTTON PIECE GOODS.

According to the latest returns available the exports of cotton and artificial silk mixed piece goods from the United Kingdom for the seven months ended July show a decrease of 14,651,000 square yards, valued at £1,040,434, as compared with shipments during the same period a year ago. Total exports for the seven months amounted to 22,701,159 square yards, as compared with 37,352,190 square yards a year ago. British South Africa is the only market which has taken larger quantities than last year. There has been a big decrease in the trade with India, amounting to 4,678,676 square yards, and Canada's takings are down by 2,993,000 square yards, Australia by 1,449,000 square yards, Dutch East Indies by 1,078,099 square yards, Egypt by 802,225 square yards, New Zealand by 712,396 square yards, and British West Africa by 342,367 square yards.

CANADIAN CROPS.

The manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce has received the following cable message from the superintendent of Manitoba branches, Winnipeg:—In Manitoba harvesting resumed after four days' delay account wet weather. Cutting practically completed; threshing about 25 per cent. Wheat yields variable, ranging from 5 to 20 bushels; probable average 10. Coarse grains, especially oats, affected by rust in many districts, and yields disappointing. In Northern Saskatchewan slight interruption caused by scattered showers; no damage reported. Wheat 75 per cent. cut; probable average yield 20 bushels. In Central sections 80 per cent. cut; threshing commenced. Slight hail damage over small area. In Southern districts crops very poor, and only small quantity grain will be threshed. In Alberta weather conditions favourable, and harvesting progressing rapidly. In Northern districts crops still free from frost damage, and prospects excellent, with wheat 25 per cent. above normal.

COSTLY RUBBER PRODUCTION.

The Mincing Lane Tea and Rubber Sharebrokers' Association, Ltd., in its monthly circular, calls attention to the fact that although additions are continually being made to the list of estates which have closed down, production still increases, forcing the conclusion that "those that are still producing are giving yet another turn to the vicious circle of meeting a falling market by reducing costs through increased production which, in its turn, can only result in a still lower price." It commends for special attention the report of the Sablas (North Borneo) Rubber Company, Ltd. Rubber production was suspended at 31st December, 1930, and for the last four months of the period covered by the report the estate was presumably on a caretaking basis. The directors have divided the profit and loss account into two sections to show the figures appertaining to each of these periods, and it is most instructive to notice that eight months' production realised, with sundry revenue, some £8,758, and cost, with its proportion of depreciation and London expenses, some £16,078, thereby creating a loss of £7,320, whereas the four months' shut-down expenditure was £1,971, which, less sundry revenue of interest, etc., made a net loss of £1,653. Brought up to a yearly basis, these figures are equal to £10,980 loss on production, or £4,959 loss on non-production, apart from the fact that unwanted rubber has been kept off the market. We would recommend the example of this company to all directors of producing companies, both in their estate policy and in the publication of these interesting figures, says the Association.

LIVERPOOL.—WHEAT: The wheat market was favourably affected by better American markets, bad weather on the Continent and here, with fears of an import duty being imposed, and forward deliveries gradually improved from the outset, and showed a liberal advance at the finish. C.i.f. parcels wheat were unchanged to 3d. dearer, but business was confined to hard winter (old crop, Atlantic), 12th September sailing, at 17/3 per quarter. C.i.f. parcels MAIZE River Plate unchanged. December selling at 13/4½ and January 13/6 per quarter. Wheat on the spot firm and dearer. Maize—Spot parcels River Plate easier at 3/0½ to 3/1 per cental. FLOUR quiet at unchanged prices. Graded wheat futures opened ⅜d. per cental dearer, and further improved under a preponderance of buyers, in the end being firm at ⅜d. to ⅝d. over Friday night. Sales 100 loads at 3/8½ for October, 3/10¾ to 3/11⅛ December, 4/2⅛, ¼d., ⅛d. March, and 4/4 to 4/4¼ for May delivery. Values—October 3/8¾. December 3/11⅛, March 4/2⅛, May 4/4¼ per cental.

PROVISIONS.

LIVERPOOL.—BACON: Continental rules easy, owing to supplies exceeding requirements, and, with holders anxious to reduce stocks, prices are irregular, all descriptions being obtainable at a discount from Friday's reduced quotations. Irish quiet at the recent decline, and American generally favours buyers. HAMS quietly steady at late rates. Shoulders dull, but no further decline reported. LARD on the spot quietly steady at late currencies for both steam and American refined, but buyers operate cautiously. CHEESE quiet, but no further change in values reported. BUTTER more steadily held, and an improved inquiry reported in some quarters. EGGS firm at higher prices. Extra selected Irish hen raised to 13/6 to 14/-, selected 13/- to 13/6, and mediums 11/- to 11/6 per 120, with duck nominal. Saturday's imports into Liverpool (cwts.):—Bacon, 76; lard, 125; cheese, 393.

DUBLIN VEGETABLE.—Swedes, cabbages and peas in good supply; other arrivals small. Opening sales were well supported, but owing to heavy late arrivals of cabbage prices dropped sharply. Peas were slow to finish at much cheaper rates. Other stuffs steady on light supply:—York cabbage, early sales 40/- to 75/-, later 15/- to 30/- large load, small 6/- to 10/-, extra 15/- to 22/-; Swedes, large loads 1/7 to 2/3 cwt., small 2/4 to 2/5; cauliflowers, best 2/- to 3/-, extra 4/3 doz., seconds 1/- to 1/2; lettuce 3d. to 9d. doz.; parsnips 1/- to 1/2 doz.; beet 1/3 to 3/- doz.; carrots 1/- to 2/4 doz.; rhubarb 9d. to 1/- doz.; celery 1/2 to 2/4 bunch; raddish 7d. to 9d. doz.; marrows 4/- to 6/- doz.; cucumbers 3/- doz.; peas 7/- to 10/- bag, sack 16/- to 22/-; scallions [illegible]/- bunch; onions 1/2 to 1/6 bunch; white turnips 3d. to 9d. bunch, jellies 7d. to 8d.; parsley 6d. tray, bags 2/- to 2/6; kidney beans 6d. lb., broad 2/- box; tomatoes 4½d. lb.; plums 2/6 to 4/-; extra 5/- chip; apples 2/3 to 3/- chip, kegs 6/- to 10/-, and barrels 20/-.

DUBLIN POTATO.—Supplies again light, for which there was a fair inquiry at last day's prices, namely, 8/- to 9/- per cwt.; latter prices exceptional.

CORK BUTTER.—The market presents a stronger tone; prices advancing, creameries 125/- per cwt.

DUBLIN FISH.—Arrivals to this market were very light, there being on offer six chests lobster and a sprinkling from country and local senders. Sales closed early at the following fair prices:—Lobsters 10/- to 15/- per 13 large, medium 5/- to 7/6, small 2/6 to 4/-; soles 25/- to 35/- per pairs large, medium 15/- to 17/6; slips 5/- to 7/6; turbot 6d. to 10/- each; brill 6d. to 2/- each; plaice 10/- to 15/- half-box, and ray 7/6 to 20/-.

BILLINGSGATE FISH.—Soles 18d. to 22d., slips 16d. to 20d. lobsters 8d. to 16d., brill 9d. to 11d., doreys 2d. to 3d. per lb., live eels 16/- to 20/-, dead 12/- to 14/- draught, turbot 9/- to 11/-, plaice 5/- to 11/-, halibut 12/- to 14/-, lemon soles 6/- to 11/-, hake 7/- to 9/-, skate wings 3/- to 5/-, haddocks 2/- to 5/- per stone.

HIDES AND LEATHER.

(SPECIAL REPORT.)

For the third week in succession there were no bids for ox and cow hides, and the whole offering was withdrawn, and this week there were no bids for calf skins. The demand for foreign hides were exceptionally quiet and values generally ruled easier. B.A. Americanos sold down to 4⅝d., B.A. Inservibles to 3d. and Cuyabano to 4½d. East Indian kips are about ½d. per lb. cheaper. In the leather trade conditions remain practically unaltered, the demand for sole leather continued of a hand-to-mouth character, both in bends for repairing and for manufacturing purposes. There was, however a slightly improved inquiry for bends of about 12-14lb. The official position shows no change, prices remaining low, with stout shoulders chiefly in request, while rough leather remains quietly steady. In the upper leather market a fair business was transacted at about recent rates whilst American black kid and various descriptions of Russian upper leathers were obtainable at very attractive prices.

MANCHESTER MARKETS REVIEW.

BUSINESS "HELD UP."

(FROM OUR COMMERCIAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Saturday.

It has been very obvious this week that there is a general "hold-up" of important business pending the publication of the Government's economy plans, and at the moment traders appear to be marking time, and, with one or two exceptions, the tone is generally fairly steady. The Lancashire holidays conclude this week-end, and it is sincerely hoped that these will be followed by an improvement in trade generally; but, according to the latest statement on the subject which has been issued by the Ministry of Labour, the registered unemployed on August 17th numbered 2,719,376, an increase of 5,017 on the preceding week. Such a deplorable state of things must necessarily have a great influence upon retail trade conditions.

BETTER FEELING IN BUTTER.

A better feeling is reported in butter, and the Danish official quotation has this week been wired unchanged at 200 kroner per 100 kilos; at the corresponding period of last year the figure was 236 kroner, and in 1929 308 kroner. Recent changes in the butter market have been remarkable. The primary reason for the recent advance in quotations was mainly the presumed improved position in Germany. Very high prices were then established for Danish butter on active operations on the part of Germany, and free buying from the United Kingdom and other countries. Since then, however, when the highest point was reached, decided weakness ensued, and Danish f.o.b. prices have slumped very considerably. It may be difficult to assign the reason for the change in the market that has recently taken place. There is a certain unrest in general commercial and financial circles; moreover, there is a feeling of doubt as to how affairs may develop. It is reasonable, however, to take a more optimistic opinion of the future course of the butter market. Butter prices are below those which ruled at this time last year; furthermore, the consumption of the article has greatly increased, and butter, like many other commodities, is passing through a time of depression.

BACON STEADY.

The general tone of the bacon market can hardly be described as satisfactory; demand for both Irish and Continental cures has been quiet and irregular during the week, and importers have been forced to accept lower prices to effect a clearance. Spot prices of Irish are about 5s. per cwt. lower, and at the weekly meeting of the local Bacon Committee it was decided to reduce the price of Irish 5s., Swedish and Polish 6s., and Dutch 5s. to 6s. per cwt. Whether this move will stimulate the demand remains to be seen, but prices of all descriptions are now at attractive levels. There has been no marked fluctuation in egg prices during the past week, and moderate supplies have moved quietly into consumption.

CATTLE PRICES EASY.

At the Manchester Cattle Market on Tuesday both home-fed and Irish fat cattle were in increased supply, and Irish dairy cows were also shown in larger numbers, but there was a falling-off in the number of sheep and lambs penned. A steady trade was experienced for fat cattle, but sheep and lambs were rather easier to buy. There was little alteration, however, in prices as compared with the previous week. There was also little change to report in values at the Manchester Pig Market, but, with supply and demand fairly good, dealers were inclined to take a more optimistic view with regard to the future. No great amount of activity has been noticeable at the Manchester Dead Meat Market during the week, and there was a rather poor finish, with prices occasionally on the easy side.

Dead poultry fairly plentiful, but demand generally rules quiet. No improvement is reported in demand for grouse, notwithstanding present low prices, young birds being quoted 4s. and old 1s. 9d. per brace.

CRAIGIE BROTHERS' SHEEP SALE.

The second great autumn sale of breeding sheep and store lambs was held by Craigie Brothers in the Cattle Market, Dublin, on Friday, 4th September, when, notwithstanding the fact that well over 1,000 head were unable to reach Dublin owing to the flooded state of the roads, the numbers forward were the largest offered so far this season. Owing to the appalling weather of the previous 24 hours stock were looking at a decided disadvantage. There was a large company of buyers present, including several from Northern Ireland. Shrop, Suffolk, and Border-Leicester rams were in good demand, and almost the whole of the 100 on offer found purchasers. Prices of Galway and Cheviot ewes were lower than those current at the opening sale in August, but black-faced hornies were fully as dear, and, although the numbers on offer were big, every lot showing quality was cashed. The sale finished at 4.30 p.m., Mr. Robert Craigie and Mr. Alex. Craigie wielding the hammer. The following were the principal sellers and prices:—

Rams, Shrop. — Richard K. Wright, 5½ to 7 guineas; J. W. Greene, 5 to 5½ guineas; P. J. O'Neill, 6 guineas; P. Dunne Cullinan, 5 guineas; Harristown flock, 6 to 6½ guineas. Suffolk—Harristown flock shearling rams, 6 to 7½ guineas, ram lambs 5 to 5½ guineas; J. McS. McCulloch, ram lambs, 6½ guineas; James Dreaper, ditto, 5 to 5½ guineas; Colonel St. George Smith, ditto, 3½ to 4½ guineas. Border-Leicester—H. Price, shearling rams, 6 to 7 guineas, ram lambs 3½ to 4½ guineas; Harristown flock, ram lambs, 5 to 5½ guineas.

Galway Ewes — James Mulhern, 43/- to 47/-; William Fallon, 41/- to 45/6; John Owen Flynn, 36/- to 41/-; Joseph Doherty, 35/- to 40/-; Ed. O'Shaughnessy, 30/- to 42/-; Ed. Brady, 34/- to 40/-; Christopher Doherty, 34/- to 36/-; Charles Kelly, 32/- to 36/-.

BANK OF BRAZIL.

GOVERNOR'S RESIGNATION.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Saturday.

Senhor Mario Brant, the Governor of the Bank of Brazil, sent in his resignation to the Government to-day. His resignation was accepted.

The resignation is, doubtless, connected with the formation of the new Central Reserve Bank in accordance with Sir Otto Niemeyer's recommendations for the economic rehabilitation of Brazil. The new Central Reserve Bank would have the sole right to issue notes throughout the country. Senhor Brant is a strong supporter of the Niemeyer scheme.

LIVERPOOL MEAT IMPORTS.

Saturday.

During the past week five steamers landed cattle and fresh meat at Liverpool from the various South American and Colonial ports. The vessels, with their freights, were as follow:—The Navasota, from Buenos Ayres, with 21,079 sheep and lamb carcases, 100 sides of veal, 607 carcases and 752 cases of pork, 2,239 bags, etc., of meat and 32,680 quarters of beef; the Idomeneus, from Australia, with 9,337 sheep and lamb carcases, 633 bags of meat and 4,497 quarters of beef; the Melita, from Montreal, with 521 boxes of meat; the Manchester Producer, from Montreal, with 428 cattle, and the Duchess of Bedford, from Montreal, with 368 boxes of meat—making a total of 428 cattle, 30,416 sheep and lamb carcases, 100 sides of veal, 1,359 carcases and boxes of pork, 3,761 bags, etc., of meat and 37,177 quarters of beef. Compared with the arrivals of the preceding week these figures show an increase of 100 sides of veal and a decrease of 197 cattle, 1,122 carcases and cases of pork, 5,093 bags, etc., of meat, and 61,489 quarters of beef.

A MILLION DROWNED.

YELLOW RIVER'S TOLL.

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

PEKING, Sunday.

A million people have been drowned in the Kunghsien area, on the south bank of the Yellow River, in North Honan, owing to the overflow of the Yellow River, according to the Kuowen News Agency. Although definite figures, such as these concerning the loss of life in the Chinese flood, should be accepted with the greatest reserve, as no trustworthy bases for the compilation of statistics exist, the present floods are probably the worst that have ever occurred in the history of China, and figures such as those quoted by the Kuowen Agency are quite within the bounds of possibility.

IRISH RAINFALL ASSOCIATION.

The report of rainfall for August, 1931, at Castle Townshend is as follows:—Total fall for the month, 2.45 inches; number of "rain days," 15 (only nine of .04 or over); greatest fall in twenty-four hours, .39 inches on the 11th; total fall for eight months, 27.67 inches.

The fall for the month is 2.31 inches less than that for August, 1930, and 1.82 inches less than the average for the last seventeen years. The number of "rain days" is nine less than for August, 1930, and five less than the average.

The fall for eight months is 3.19 inches less than that for the same period in 1930, and 1.79 inches less than the average for the last seventeen years.

Remarks and Observations.—A cold, sunless August, with a lot of east wind. With the exception of 1926, when 2.37 inches fell, last month was the driest August since 1913, when 2.04 inches fell in fourteen days.

Henry Marsden (aged 22), of Morris row, Collycroft, Bedworth, who was injured in the Newdigate colliery explosion, died at the Coventry and Warwickshire Hospital yesterday morning. This brings the death roll to seven.

GREAT TUSSLE AT NEWCASTLE.

SCOTLAND WIN BY ODD MATCH.

The Irish team made a courageous bid for victory over Scotland in the deciding match for the championship, on the course of the Royal County Down Club, on Saturday, but just failed in the effort, and were beaten by seven matches to six, with two halved. On the foursomes, which were played in the forenoon, the Scotsmen led by one match—three to two—and, with three of the singles to come in, the position was all square. On the whole, the weather was pleasant, after what we had experienced in Dublin during the week, as although there was a heavy cold wind blowing across the links there was not much rain until late in the evening, when the course was swept by a severe rainstorm. But the links was playing splendidly, and should be in perfect condition for the Irish Open Amateur Championship, which opens to-day.

From the Irish golfer's viewpoint, it was a thousand pities that our top men disappointed. Had they played up to their reputations all would have been well. That the margin was so small was a fine tribute to the men at the bottom, who won two matches and halved a couple. We usually do well in the foursomes against Scotland, but on this occasion we failed where we expected otherwise. For instance, in the leading match, in which M. Crowley partenered John Burke, against W. Tulloch and W. Campbell, the result was a heavy defeat for the Irishmen, who played very indifferent golf and were beaten by 4 and 3. As a matter of fact, the golf all round was distinctly poor, and the Irish pair at no stage looked like giving their opponents a tight match. Ireland stood three down at the turn; fell further into arrears at the tenth, and when the Scots became dormy four, that was about all that there was to it.

Major Hezlet and Roy McConnell usually make a formidable foursome paid, but they did not hit it off, and were beaten by J. A. Lang and R. B. De...nholm by 3 and 2. Their weak start suggested that something of the sort would occur, as they lost the first three and were going very badly at the sixth, where they were five down, having lost the fifth and sixth also.

The rot was checked by Redmond Simcox and Frank McConnell, who outclassed J. N. Smith and J. B. Stevenson, mainly as the result of the super-excellence of the Royal Portrush player on the greens; but Simcox also played his part splendidly, indeed. I do not remember having seen the Corkman play better golf for a long time back. He had not much to do in the putting way, McConnell looked after that end of the job for him by holing the long ones, and when the match ended in a 7 and 5 win for the Irish couple they were on better than fours.

The position was equalised by A. W. Briscoe and Dr. T. M. Healy, who won from J. E. Dawson and A. T. Roberts by 3 and 2. They had much the better of it on the way out, Dr. Healy revealing capital form and turning with a lead of three holes. They continued to play sound golf, and at the sixteenth were level fours. The Royal County Down captain, D. Wilson Smyth, and J. C. Timbey were in a parlous plight in the early stage of their match with E. McRuvie and H. M. Dickson, as they were 4 down with only seven holes played. From that point, however, they recovered grandly, and brought the match to the home green, squaring at the twelfth and making a very brave fight of it indeed, and so when the teams went to lunch Scotland was leading by one match.

BURKE'S VICTORY.

In the singles, Burke restored the balance by a capital win over the Scottish leader, Tulloch, on the seventeenth green. Playing sound golf without being really brilliant, the Lahinch man turned 3 up, but he had to fight uncommonly hard on the return journey, the Scotsman putting splendidly in a surprisingly strong finish, his last six holes being done in fours each. Four up at the eleventh Burke was brought back to 1 at the fourteenth, the other producing a string of fours. He had to hole a good putt at the fifteenth to retain that slender lead, but he won the sixteenth in a 3 and the next hole was halved.

McRuvie outplayed Hezlet in the long game. He got home at the longest hole on the course with a drive and iron, and when he secured this 4 and 3 victory he was only 1 over fours. A much more interesting match was that in which Briscoe brought Smith to the seventeenth green. There was not more than a hole between them to the fourteenth, but that was the turning point, as it was taken by the Scot, to become 2 up. Briscoe, however, reduced the deficit at the sixteenth, but it was then too late.

Frank McConnell went down by 4 and 3, but in the match following Wilson Smyth was greatly pleasing the gallery with his high class golf. For the first eight holes with Campbell he required only 30 strokes, but the ninth cost him a 6 through getting into a bunker. He had twos at the fourth and seventh and another at the tenth, and when he won by 5 and 3 he was level fours. Simcox played most convincing golf against Lang to win by 5 and 4, but there the Irish successes came to an end. Results:—

A VETERAN'S VICTORY.

FRANCIS OUIMET WINS AMERICAN AMATEUR.

CHICAGO, Saturday.

Francis Ouimet, who won the title as far back as 1914, repeated his success in the final of the American Amateur Championship at the Beverly Country Club here to-day, when, over thirty-six holes, he defeated Jack Westland—a golfer who two years ago competed in the British championship, and who was not included in the twenty "seeded" players in this championship—by 6 and 5.

Ouimet compiled a big lead on the first round, going into lunch with a substantial lead of five holes, and he never lost a grip on the game, to win comfortably. Ouimet, it will be recalled, won the American Open title in 1913, after a tie with Harry Vardon and Edward Ray.

OUIMET'S CAREER.

Ouimet, who is thirty-eight years old, first came into prominence when he won this Championship. In the following year he beat J. D. Travers by the same margin as he beat Westland to-day to win the American amateur title. Since he won the American title in 1914 and the French Open amateur of the same year, Ouimet has several times been near to repeating the feat, but he has always failed, although he was runner-up in 1920, when Charles Evans, junior, beat him by 7 and 6. He has been a semi-finalist on five subsequent occasions—in 1923, '24, '25, '27 and '29. He has represented the United States six times in the Walker Cup, the last time being last year, when, at Royal St. George's, Sandwich, he had the unenviable distinction of being the only American to be defeated in the singles.

ATHLETICS.

ANOTHER GERMAN VICTORY.

SURPRISE DEFEAT OF DR. PELTZER.

PARIS, Sunday.

Following upon her victory over England, Germany scored an easy win over France at Colombes this afternoon in their annual athletic meeting. Although defeated by ten events to five, France did better in the matter of points by which this contest was decided, scoring 62 as against the Germans' 89.

There was only one surprise result, that of the 800 metres, in which Dr. Otto Peltzer was defeated by Jean Keller, but seeing that the German has been nursing an injury which kept him out of the side against England, this was not altogether unexpected. After a thrilling duel, the Frenchman won by a few feet in 1 min. 55 3-5 secs., with Danz, who ran such a good race in the Medley relay at Cologne against Hampson, another few yards behind.

The performances, with the exception of the field events, were not, on the whole, up to international standard. Results:—

100 Metres—Jonath (Germany), 10 4-5 secs.

110 Metres, Hurdles—Beschetnick (Germany), 15 secs.

800 Metres—Jean Keller (France), 1; Otto Peltzer (Germany), 2; Danz (Germany), 3. Time—1 min. 55 3-5 secs.

Putting the Weight—Sievart (Germany), 48ft. 7¾ins.

400 Metres—Metzner (Germany), 49 4-5 secs.

200 Metres—Koernig (Germany), 21 3-5 secs.

High Jump—Phillippon (France), 6ft. 0¾ins.

5,000 Metres—Rochard (France), 15 mins. 3 3-5 secs.

Throwing the Discus—Sievart (Germany), 150ft. 10¼ins.

Long Jump—Kochermann (Germany), 24ft 4½ins.

1,500 Metres—Ladoumegue (France), 4 mins. 0 3-5 secs.

Throwing the Javelin—Maeser (Germany), 204ft. 0¾ins.

Pole Jump—Ramadier (France), 12ft. 8½ins.

Relay (four at 100 Metres)—Germany, 41 2-5 secs.

Relay (four at 400 Metres)—Germany, 3 mins. 21 4-5 secs.

BLACKROCK SPORTS.

The South County Dublin Athletic Club held their annual sports meeting at Blackrock yesterday in aid of the Blackrock Church Extension Fund. J. Spittle, of the Army, finished one minute and a half in front of Timmons in the road race, which was run over a course of twenty miles. An objection to the winner on the ground of having gone the wrong course remains in abeyance.

Details:—

At a meeting of the Wallsend Labour Party on Saturday a letter was read from Miss Margaret Bondfield, M.P., stating that she had thrown in her lot with the Labour Opposition, and that she had resumed her position as an official of the National Union of General and Municipal Workers.

SWIMMING

R. N. CASE WINS MEN'S 100 YARDS.

Following a showery afternoon, a cold wind, with more than a hint of rain, on Saturday afternoon, did not help the attendance at Blackrock Baths on the occasion of the second annual gala of the Insurance Federation Club. The fact that a very large crowd was present under such conditions was in itself a tribute to the programme, which was one of the best presented at headquarters for years.

The outstanding items were the ladies' and men's 100 yards championships of Ireland and the water polo cup finals. In the championships the two Northern holders of the titles, Miss K. Brown, Bangor, and P. McClure, Clonard, turned out, but both were beaten. Nine started in the ladies' championship and seven in that of the men.

Although Miss Brown swam rather disappointingly, Northern hopes ran high with Miss Tierney's position at 75 yards, the young Bangor lady being then over a yard in front of her nearest rival. With ten yards to go she seemed a certain winner, when suddenly she swam over the ropes of her "lane" and stopped apparently in the belief that she had finished the course. Discovering her mistake at once she swam on to take third place. Miss O'Neill, of Dublin, who swam finely throughout, having secured the title by about a yard from Miss Dockrell, who was second. Miss O'Neill's perforance was a very good one, but the result was rather hard lines on Miss Tierney.

CASES'S FINE PERFORMANCES.

The men's race was one of the best in the 100 yards championship for a long time. R. N. Case, Clontarf, went into the lead early, and turned at 50 metres over a yard in front of M. D. Fletcher, Pembroke, and the holder, with the others well up. Inside the last twenty-five yards Fletcher and McClure challenged strongly, but the Belfast man spoiled his chances by swimming into the ropes at the side, and with the Pembroke man just failing to get on terms, the Clontarf representative won a deserved and popular victory. Case had, on Wednesday, tied with C. W. Bosher, the holder, for the 440 yards title, and early in the season had broken the "record" for the 220 yards distance, at which he is the Irish champion. His win on Saturday, therefore, stamps him as the best Irish swimmer over the shorter distances, and was the third performance of exceptional merit put up by him this season. The conditions were against fast time, and 63 seconds was good in the circumstances.

A feature of the gala was an exhibition of fancy diving, in which Messrs. E. Heron, J. H. Morton, F. D. Stanley, B. Walsh, J. J. Grealey and J. Begley took part. The standard all round was extremely good, and the exhibition was loudly applauded. Details:—

IRELAND'S EYE RACE.

The popularity of distance swimming races was again in evidence at Howth yesterday, when a crowd of about 3,000 spectators assembled along the East Pier, Howth, to witness the open race from Ireland's Eye to Howth, organised by the Clontarf Club, for the Findlater Challenge Cup.

A well-handicapped race resulted in a win for the mile champion, L. O'Brien (Sandycove), by about fifteen yards; and the Sandycove Club, with the first four places, again demonstrated its strength in distance swimming. The course was approximately one mile in length.

Eleven of the fifteen starters finished the course—a good proportion, having regard to the water and air temperatures. Result:—

L. O'Brien, Sandycove (scr.) 1
J. Cummins, Sandycove (1m. 50s.) 2
C. Brady, Sandycove (2m. 20s.) 3
J. L. Scully, Sandycove (1m. 50s.) 4
H. G. Ellerker, Pembroke (1m. 10s.) 5
A. E. Crossley, Imp. Tobacco Co. (3m.) ... 6
K. O'Grady, Clontarf (2m. 40s.) 7
W. G. Taylor, Dublin (3m. 50s.) 8
L. O'Brolochain, Clontarf (2m. 40s.) 9
J. Burke, Sandycove (2m. 50s.) 10
G. C. Higginbotham, Sandycove (3m.) ... 11

Won by fifteen yards; five yards. Time—27 mins. 28 secs.

WATER POLO.

TEAM WORK TELLS IN SENIOR CUP FINAL.

HOLDERS WELL BEATEN BY SANDYCOVE.

SANDYCOVE .... 4 DUBLIN 1

Dublin and Sandycove were strongly represented in the final of the Leinster Senior Cup at Blackrock Baths on Saturday, but the holders were again without Major O'Connor, while Sandycove had their full team available.

Dublin had the better of the brisk opening play, and Flanagan had to show his best form to keep out shots from Purcell and Dockrell. O'Brien had a chance, but shot over, and Purcell had hard lines in not scoring with a shot which went out off the upright. In a Sandycove attack a bad pass out from the Dublin goal gave Fagan a chance, which he took to open the scoring. Dublin attacked strongly, and Purcell, who was the best player on either team, worked back towards the half-way line to make an opening, which he completed with a brilliant shot to equalise.

The Sandycove team work was the better in the second half. Soon after the change over the Dublin defence got tangled up, and Fagan put his team in front. Loose marking by Dublin saw Horlacher get a pass while clear to add the third. Near the end Fagan completed the scoring with a fast shot.

Sandycove were the better team in general play, and their superiority in this respect told in the second half. The game, however, was interesting throughout, the first half exchanges being really exciting.

Sandycove—J. Flanagan; G. C. Higginbotham, N. F. Judd; W. J. McCormick; L. O'Brien, A. F. Horlacher (capt.), and C. Fagan.

Dublin—T. J. Stafford (capt.); D. Murtagh, W. H. Sexton; T. H. Dockrell; N. M. Purcell, C. S. Barrett, and P. H. Dockrell.

Referee—Mr. H. G. Ellerker.

JUNIOR CUP FINAL.

DUBLIN 2nd ...... 3 SANDYCOVE 2nd 2

Sandycove began well, and kept Dublin on the defensive for a period, during which Cullen opened the scoring with a fine shot. With the Dublin defence still unsettled, S. Healy placed Sandycove in a good position with a smart goal. Dublin began to settle down, and a series of raids on the Sandycove goal ensued. Barry cleverly scored, and to the interval Dublin were on top.

Dublin were superior after the change of ends, and F. Dowds equalised. Sandycove were kept busy defending, and a penalty was awarded to O'Byrne, which he converted. No further scoring took place, Dublin winning on their merits after a good game.

A SPORTING ACTION.

The Belle Vue Club won the English national team championship at Herne Hill, London, on Saturday in a remarkable manner. In the final against Norwood, Paragon, one of the Belle Vue riders, had a spill and brought down two other competitors. Norwood went on to win this race easily, but they appealed to the authorities to be allowed to race again for the championship. The appeal was upheld, and as a result of their sporting action, Norwood Paragon were defeated by four-fifths of a second, Belle Vue winning in 4 minutes 22 1-5 secs.

CRICKET.

SLOW SCORING IN THE PARK.

PHŒNIX AND CLONTARF DRAW.

With the pitch on the soft side, following the recent rains, scoring ruled on the slow side on Saturday in the Park, where Phœnix and Clontarf played a draw. Phœnix, who batted first, scored 191 in two and a half hours, Clontarf, left with an hour and a half to bat, made no effort to force the pace, and had scored 66 for three wickets, when play ceased.

The home batting was very consistent, no less than eight of the players getting into double figures. J. P. Pigot headed the list with 38, and he was unlucky to be run out when well set. T. H. Dixon got 33, and, in partnership with Pigot, put on 59 for the third wicket. M. P. Ruddle was not long knocking up 24, while W. M. Hutton, who opened with J. C. Boucher, had a 6 in his contribution of 15. The veteran, J. Ledwidge, bowled very well, and had 4 wickets for 47, while W. C. Pemberton took 4 for 65 runs. Ledwidge also batted well, and his 21 was compiled in good style. Boucher, who sent down seven overs, five of which were maidens, had one wicket for three runs. Score:—

NINE LEINSTER WICKETS FALL TO COPE.

Leinster 2nd, who recently won the Intermediate Cup from Pembroke 2nd, inflicted another decisive defeat on the Sydney Parade side at Rathmines on Saturday by 67 runs, and thus qualified to meet Monkstown in the final of the Intermediate League. Leinster lost five wickets for 70, but Whiteside and Haine put on 68 for the sixth, Haine having a 6 and 5 fours in a lively 38. A feature of the innings was the fact that all the Leinster wickets were clean bowled and that Cope had nine of them for 60.

Pembroke opened none too well, and had five men out for 60. Tom Williams was the mainstay of the side. He opened the innings, and was last man out, after two hours, for an invaluable 55 (6 fours). Score:—

ULSTER MATCHES.

It will not be until the end of this month that the Ulster cricket season closes, and four matches in the Senior League were played on Saturday. Armagh, the leaders, were at home to Cliftonville, and ran up a total of 204 for five before declaring. McAuley again hit out in great style and scored 67 not out, including two 6's and nine 4's. The Rev. F. Bennett scored 44. For Cliftonville W. M. Dick obtained 60 and J. K. Wilson 55, but the total only reached 172, and Armagh won by 32 runs.

The former Trinity captain, W. G. R. Loughery, gave a fine display for Ulster against North Down at Comber, and obtained 73 out of his side's total of 131. He played a free game, hitting well in front of the wicket, and he had eleven boundaries in his total. North Down had passed the Ulster total for the loss of four wickets when play ceased, and thus won by six wickets.

North of Ireland had no difficulty in defeating Lisburn at the latter's ground. Batting first, they knocked up 155 (A. C. Douglas 47) and dismissed Lisburn for 68.

Lurgan entertained their near rivals, Waringstown, and got rid of four of the visiting team for four runs. Beattie and J. Harwood retrieved the position, adding 44 runs for the fifth wicket. The Waringstown innings realised 121 in two hours, Orr scoring 39 and Beattie 22. Leathem had four wickets for 29. Waringstown disposed of Lurgan in two hours for 72, Henry (19) and S. Carson (15) offering the best resistance to a well-varied attack. Orr followed up his good batting display by claiming four wickets for 21; Mackenzie had three for 17 and Reilly two for 3.

Strabane on Saturday won the North-west Senior League for the first time since 1910, when they defeated City of Derry at the Recreation Park by 125 for four wickets to 111.

GREYHOUND RACING.

FINE FINISH TO HURDLE RACE.

FAVOURITES WIN IN SCURRY'S CUP.

An excellent programme attracted a very large gathering to Shelbourne Park on Saturday night, and they were rewarded with racing of a high standard. The All-Ireland Hurdle brought four of our best performers together, and in a thrilling finish Friend In Need beat Frontier Star by a bare length. The latter led for the greater part of the journey, but in the straight Friend In Need got in front, and, staying on the better, gained a popular success. The favourite, Rhyolite, fell at the second obstacle.

The two heats of the Scurry's Cup were won by Mr. Purcell, the Fenagh owner, by the aid of Porterhouse Steak and Katie O'Graigue. The former, with odds laid on, won the heat for dogs, and Katie O'Graigue had a decisive win in the heat for bitches. Details:—

SHAPING A BETTER FUTURE.

GERMAN MESSAGE IN ENGLISH CHURCH.

Dr. Walter Simons, former President of the Supreme Court of Germany, and for a time Foreign Minister of the Reich, took the place last night at a broadcast Service in the Leeds Parish Church, of Dr. Valdemar Ammundsen, Bishop of Hadersey, Denmark, to deliver a message on world peace.

Dr Simons said: "I come to you with a double message. One from the meeting of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches, held in Cambridge last week. Our aim, our hope and our prayer was, and is, world peace by the way of Christian friendship, and at the present time we look and pray especially for a great step forward to that goal through the General Disarmament Conference in Geneva next February.

"I am sure that the British people will echo this message, because they are not only fearless in danger and brave in battle, but also masters in the works of peace, and, therefore, lovers of peace.

"The second message is from my native country—from the German people. We feel deeply with you the solidarity of sorrow that is now revealed to the world at large, and we share with you the cares of a crisis that is not only economic, but also spiritual—a crisis brought on you, as we believe, partly because the British people after President Hoover published his plan were so ready to help the German people in their similar need.

"I trust that, with God's help, our two nations, by endurance, courage and righteousness, will some day find themselves comrades also in the shaping of a better future."

MENZEL NO MATCH FOR AUSTIN.

The International Club of Great Britain beat the Red White Club, Berlin, in a lawn tennis contest at Eastbourne on Saturday by nine rubbers to three.

The International Club led on the first day's play by four matches to two, and on Saturday's play lost only a single game. Dr. J. C. Gregory and E. Andrews being defeated by L. Haensch and F. Henkel by 7-5, 6-4. H. W. Austin had little trouble in beating R. Menzel 6-2, 6-2. The Britisher forced the game throughout, and with a superior service completely outplayed his opponent.

Singles—J. S. Olliff (Britain) beat F. Henkel—2-6, 6-2, 6-3; E. D. Andrews (Britain) beat Dr. H. Landmann—6-2, 6-2; H. W. Austin (Britain) beat R. Menzel—6-2, 6-2; Dr. J. C. Gregory (Britain) beat L. Haensch—12-10, 6-2.

Doubles—Gregory and Andrews lost to Haensch and Henkel—5-7, 4-6; Austin and Olliff beat Landmann and Menzel—6-2, 10-12, 8-6.

KILDARE HUNT HORSE SHOW.

FINE DISPLAY AT PUNCHESTOWN.

SOME PROMISING YOUNG STOCK.

From Our Agricultural Correspondent.

In the picturesque surroundings of Punchestown Racecourse last Saturday the County Kildare Hunt held their forty-third Annual Show. The day was fine, though cold, with brilliant sunshine, and as the horses were being judged they made a very interesting display. Until the afternoon the attendance of the general public was small, but when the children's classes were being judged and the jumping competitions were in progress the number of visitors substantially increased.

Some very promising youngsters were shown in the classes for foals, yearlings, two-year-olds and young mares under the horse-breeding scheme of the Department of Agriculture, and, as the junior classes were divided into sections for colts and fillies, comparisons could be made with some satisfaction. Half-bred brood mares made a strong display, and were headed by Mr. J. C. Kaine with his fine, roomy aged bay, Lesser Haste, by Arizona, dam Red Haste by Red Prince II. She also won the Furness Cup for best hunter brood mare. The runner-up for this honour was Mrs. Mansfield's bay three-year-old filly, Silver Fairy, by He Goes, dam Fugle Star. There was keen competition in the children's classes, which formed an attractive feature of the Show. The arrangements were well carried out by a capable committee, with Major W. G. Dease as chairman and Mr. P. Noone as honorary secretary. The judges were—Mr. Noble Johnson, Captain G. F. Dunne, Colonel Peacocke, General Lecky, Mr. Eustace Duckett, Brigadier-General Hunt, Mr. J. Shackleton, Miss Shackleton, Very Rev. Father Stafford, P.P.; Colonel Brooke. Awards:—

SIR HALL CAINE'S WILL.

NO ESTATE DUTY TO PAY.

Sir Hall Caine's will has been admitted to probate. It contains nothing of a public nature. There are no bequests to charity, local or otherwise, and no estimate is contained in the will as to the value of his estate.

The executors are Lady Hall Caine, his two sons, Ralph and Derwent; Mr. R. B. Moore, Attorney General for the Isle of Man, and Mr. Percy Cowley, his advocate.

The will provides for an annuity of £3,500 a year to Lady Hall Caine, and for the rest of the estate to be divided between the two sons, with provision for their widows, if any, and for his daughter, Elin, and his two grandchildren, each of whom are left £250 a year.

The testator declares that his domicile is the Isle of Man, and that he has nothing whatever to do with Lady Hall Caine's home at Hampstead. In this way the testator has made his estate free of death duty, as there are not such duties in the I.O.M.

His two sons and Lady Hall Caine are appointed as literary executors, with full powers to deal with his works in every direction, for publishing, dramatising and filming. He also gives £1,000 to Lady Hall Caine on his death, £500 each to Mr. Cowley and Mr. H. B. Moore, and £250 to his medical adviser, Dr. Marshall.

A DUBLIN WEDDING.

A wedding of much interest in Dublin Methodist circles took place in Inchicore Church on Thursday, the bride being Miss Marjorie Elizabeth Joughin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Joughin, Mona, Tyrconnell road, Inchicore. The bridegroom was Mr. Albert G. Rippingale, son of Mrs. Rippingale, 16 Dufferin avenue, Dublin. Miss Joughin has been a Sunday School teacher in Inchicore Sunday School for many years, and Mr. Rippingale is a highly esteemed local preacher on the Dublin district.

In every Roman Catholic church of South London, Surrey, Sussex and Kent yesterday special prayers were recited for Divine guidance of the new British Government.

BARONY OF GARRYCASTLE, CO. OF OFFALY. BELMONT, CLOGHAN.
HIGHLY IMPORTANT AUCTION OF VERY DESIRABLE
FARM OF FATTENING LAND,
With Gentleman's Residence thereon.

I have received instructions from Godfrey Thompson, Esq., to Sell his Right, Title and Interest in his Valuable Farm, containing 154 acres, 3 roods, 8 perches, Statute measure, held in Fee Simple, subject to an annuity of £98 5s. 6d., payable to the Irish Land Commission.

DESCRIPTIVE PARTICULARS.

This magnificent Farm, with its beautiful residence, is situated in Belmont, and is within 3 miles of Ferbane, 1 mile of Cloghan and 5 miles of Banagher, convenient to churches and schools. There is very good fishing and shooting on the farm. This residence is a very imposing structure facing the sun, and is approached from the public road by two avenues, and contains sitting and diningrooms, 9 bedrooms, kitchen, pantry, bathroom, w.c., hot and cold water, etc., electric light laid on. There are four enclosed yards, all fitted with two-storied slated out-offices, and in perfect repair. There is a splendid hay shed, to hold 150 tons of hay; also a spacious garden, fully stocked with vines, pear, apple and other fruit trees. Turbary attached to farm.

The Auctioneer highly commends this very superior farm, with its beautiful residence, to intending purchasers, as being one of the best farms in the Midlands. It is most suitable as a stud farm. Can be seen any day by appointment to the Auctioneer.

SALE ON SATURDAY, 19th SEPTEMBER, 1931, at EGAN'S HOTEL, MAIN STREET, BIRR, at 2 O'CLOCK.

Terms and Conditions of Sale—Purchaser must pay one-fourth the purchase money down, together with 5 per cent. Auction Fees, on being declared.

Create Beauty step by step the Elizabeth Arden way

Miss Arden's Scientific Preparations which aid and stimulate every natural function of the skin, keep the tissues vividly healthy, and so make you lovely, too. An Elizabeth Arden Treatment is based on three fundamental steps. Cleansing, with Venetian Cleansing Cream. Toning, with Ardena Skin Tonic and Special Astringent. Nourishing, with Orange Skin Food or the delicate Ardena Velva Cream. These same three steps, which supply every need of the skin, should be a part of your daily care of the skin at home.

In addition to these basic preparations, Miss Arden has created preparations for every special need of the skin. Ask for the booklet "The Quest of the Beautiful" at SWITZERS Perfumery Department, where the various Arden Preparations are obtainable and also expert advice about their use.
